Johnson's Support In Senate Eroding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate support for President Johnson's Vietnam war course has eroded so sharply he apparently would be hard put to muster a majority for any broad endorsement of his Asian policies.

An Associated Press canvass which found 84 senators willing to express an opinion, either publicly or private, showed 44 willing to say they generally support what the President is doing, and 40 who disapprove of his actions for one reason or another.

A breakdown showed 27 Democrats and 17 Republicans backing the President. Those opposing his policies included 26 Democrats and 14 Republicans. Those who criticize the President do so for sharply contrasting reasons because they include both the most convinced doves and most militant hawks. Thus, even though they list themselves as supporters, some hawks assert strongly their belief that Johnson should go all out militarily to bring the conflict to a swift and victorious conclusion.

On the other hand, the doves complain that Johnson is escalating the struggle dangerously by bombing near-China targets, by failing to get the South Vietnamese to do their share, and is leaving no opening for a negotiated peace. The substance of the comments of individual senators indicates there is such widespread dissatisfaction with the way the war is going that it would be risky for the President to seek any formal endorsement of his position, as he did in the Gulf of Tonkin resolution in August, 1964.

In all the Congress, only Sens. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, voted against the 1964 resolution. But a number of senators, including Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, have said they would not support such a commitment now.

Still, there seems no likelihood that any attempt will be made to put into operation the machinery—noted by Johnson at his news conference Friday—that is available any time Congress wants to rescind its 1964 action.

Most of the senators had given their views to The Associated Press prior to the news conference in which Johnson noted the 1964 resolution could be rescinded by a simple majority vote in Congress, without the necessity for his approval of action.

Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., said he still supported the President's course, "but I must admit that I'm shaken a little."

"The mood of the Senate is changing over Vietnam," he said. "It's becoming uneasy."

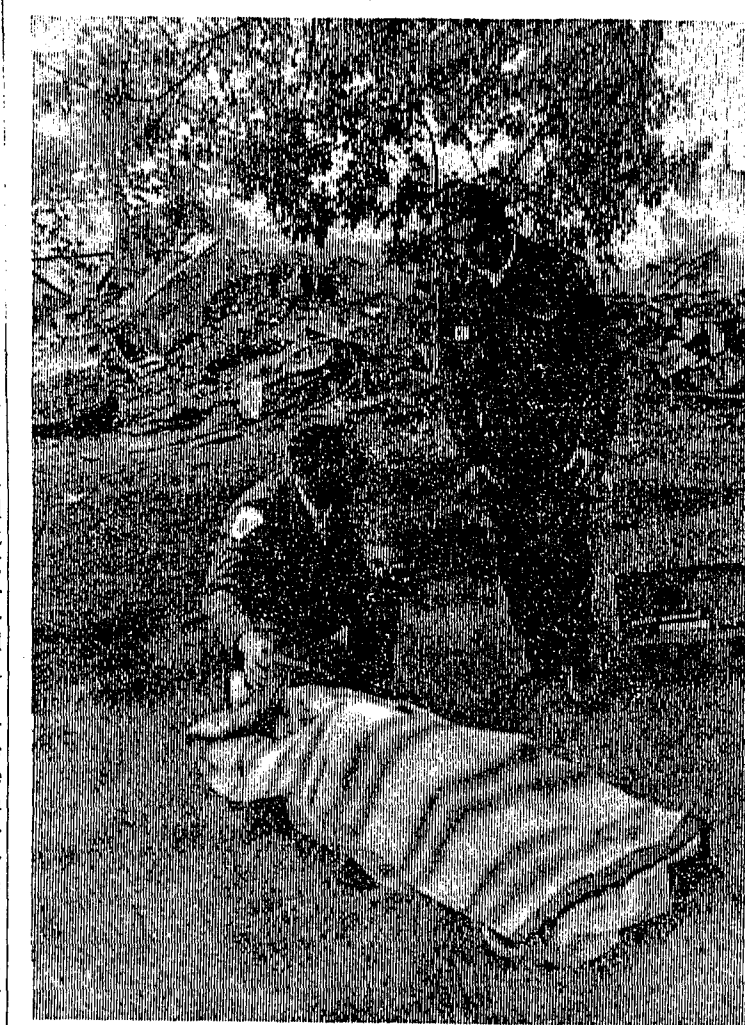

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., previously classed as a hawk, said: "I don't want to be put in the position of approving or disapproving our Vietnam policies."

"The country, the Senate, the intellectual community is split down the middle on this issue, and it is not a healthy sign..."

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., said he was discouraged by the way the war had been going but he put great store in the Vietnam elections.

"I stand practically where I did in March when I said that I reluctantly support our present military position in Vietnam," he said. "After the government is elected, I would hope there would be negotiations with the left and with Hanoi."

ST. CLOUD, MINN. — Five members of a farm family died early Friday in their blazing home while the father of the house lay outside, shot twice and lashed spread eagle between two laundry poles. The father, David Hoskins, 30, told a rambling, almost incoherent story of four or five intruders bursting into his home as he sat watching a movie on television. Saturday he changed his story and told police that he had murdered his family, shot himself and fired the house. Ambulance personnel examined the body of Mrs. David Hoskins after the body was removed from the ruins of her home. (UPI Telephoto)

Farmer Admits Killing Family

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — A small-town Sunday school superintendent has admitted shooting himself and inventing a story in which he blamed midnight marauders for the deaths of his wife and four small children in their burning home.

Sheriff Peter Lahr said Saturday that David Hoskins, 30, had signed a statement saying he had shot his wife, then set fire to their farmhouse to conceal the crime. No charges were immediately filed.

The charred bodies of his wife, Loretta, 29, and their children—Julie, 6; Darla, 5; Linda, 1½; and David, 6 weeks—were recovered Friday from the smoldering ruins. Hoskins, a helicopter pilot in the National Guard, was taken off the danger list Saturday and was reported in serious condition.

Hoskins, chairman of the board of the Church of Christ at nearby Kimball, Minn., where he had been Sunday school superintendent for three years, was found tied to a clothesline pole by a group of teen-agers.

Some youngsters noticed the house and barn afire and stopped to investigate. Hoskins was naked to the waist and bleeding from gunshot wounds in the shoulder and abdomen. He was taken to St. Cloud hospital, and a bullet was removed from his shoulder.

At the hospital, Hoskins told the sheriff he was watching television with his wife when he heard a car door slam about midnight Thursday. Hoskins said he went outside to investigate, was jumped by four or five young men who shot him during a scuffle and then tied him, arms spread outward, on a clothesline pipe near the house.

The sheriff said Hoskins changed his story during interrogation at the hospital Friday night. Hoskins was not under formal arrest, but a guard was at the door to his hospital room.

Hoskins, a helicopter pilot in the National Guard, was taken off the danger list Saturday and was reported in serious condition.

Paul Doener, Stearns County attorney, said no formal complaint had been prepared but added one would be filed Monday.

"We think the motive has been established, but it cannot be revealed until further corroborating evidence is obtained," Doener said.

The couple were married in February, 1958.

Hoskins worked for an electronics company in St. Cloud, 17 miles away, until it closed eight months ago. Since then he has helped his brother-in-law, Eldon Capes, operate several farms owned by Capes and one farm owned by his father, Leo Hoskins.

Brown's Attorney Protests High Bail

NEW YORK (AP) — H. Rap Brown remained in jail on a federal gun charge Saturday night as the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee said no professional bondsmen was willing to put up the $25,000 needed for his release.

A SNCC spokesman said nearly $10,000 in cash had been raised and that the sum usually demanded by bondsmen for $25,000 bail was $2,500.

The 23-year-old Black Power leader and SNCC chairman was arrested at 2 a.m. Saturday outside a friend's Manhattan apartment and put in the Federal House of Detention.

Brown's lawyer appealed for reduction of the bail, set by U.S. Commissioner Earl N. Bishopp, but the move was turned down by Federal Judge Inzer Wyatt, who denied that the bail violated Brown's constitutional rights.

"All of this convinces us," SNCC said in a statement, "that there is a definite conspiracy to illegally keep Rap Brown in prison."

SNCC also charged that U.S. commissioners, who would have to receive any bond money, were "making themselves unavailable for the release of Mr. Brown."

Brown's attorney, William Kunstler, charged earlier that the Negro leader was a political prisoner.

"The real crime," Kunstler said, "is his being Rap Brown."

When arrested, Brown was not armed, but federal agents said they later searched the apartment with a warrant and found a gun in a plastic bag with a "banana" clip of 31 bullets.

A carbine is a light, short-barreled rifle.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Stephen E. Kaufman said Brown was seen carrying the weapon in Baton Rouge, La., Thursday and also was seen buying ammunition.

When airline agents in New Orleans asked him Friday if he was carrying a gun, Brown replied yes and turned a rifle in a plastic bag over to an agent for transportation during his flight to New York the complaint said.

Kunstler said that the gun was always in its plastic case. "If he had a gun, he had it to protect himself in Louisiana," said the defense attorney.

Brown was wounded by a shotgun blast three weeks ago in Cambridge, Md., Kunstler stated.

He called the $25,000 bail "outrageous" in view of the possible penalties.

"Anything other than a moderate bail would make Brown a political prisoner and charges a political crime," Kunstler said.

Water Just Kept Coming In Fairbanks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — It was Tuesday, Aug. 8. The Chena river, bisecting downtown Fairbanks, was high from mountain snowmelt. Nobody worried about that. It happens every summer.

Then the rain set it.

Before it stopped, Fairbanks would be covered with roily flood waters up to nine feet deep. Half its 30,000 residents would be homeless. Damage would approach $200 million. Three persons would be drowned.

At 2 p.m. Friday a deluge began. In the next 24 hours there was a record 2.47 inches of rain, more than ever had been measured here for the entire month of August.

The Weather Bureau blamed "extreme moisture in the air" coupled with southwest winds, funneled in by continuous low-pressure systems from Japan to the interior of Alaska.

On Saturday, Jack Murphy, the city's civil defense director, alerted the state Disaster Office and Corp. of Engineers.

"I'm kind of worried," he said.

City officials called an afternoon emergency meeting to plan how to cope with what they thought was a relatively minor flood threat. Crews began sandbagging the banks as the river neared flood stage of 12.2 feet.

But there was no letup of the rain over the weekend, and by mid-Monday the Chena was at 13.6 feet, 1.4 feet above flood level.

A total of 5.61 inches of rain had fallen in six days. Normal for all of August was 2.2 inches, and for the year less than 12 inches.

Water surrounded scores of homes in low-lying areas. Wash- (Turn To Page Six)

Administration Wants SS Bill To Be Reshaped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration already has opened a drive to try to persuade senators to reshape the House Social Security bill more to its liking.

But checks with members of the Finance Committee, which will open hearings on the far-reaching legislation Tuesday, indicate that administration officials have a tough job on their hands.

Officials of the Welfare Department, talking with committee members in advance of the public testimony, have stressed two points:

1. That the Social Security insurance benefits in the bill passed by the House Thursday, considerably below the level recommended by President Johnson, are inadequate.

2. That the public welfare amendments added by the House, over administration objections, are unduly harsh and will cause more suffering among those most in need of help.

These amendments are designed to force a reduction in the relief rolls or at least to hold down on future increases, particularly in the category of aid to dependent children.

Johnson expressed pleasure at a news conference Friday at House passage of the bill, although he added: "There are some matters that they brought into it that we hoped they wouldn't. There are some reductions made that we didn't favor."

He said he thought the Senate could improve the measure.

The check of senators showed there would be a strong effort to boost the level of benefits in the measure but quite possibly through a financing mechanism which the administration opposes.

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., No. 2 Democrat on the Finance Committee, said: "I would not be surprised if, in the end, we come up with a bill like the House version."

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., also a committee member, told a reporter he would try to restore at least the 15 per cent general increase in Social Security payments, plus the $70 monthly minimum asked by the administration.

The House voted for a 12½ per cent boost and a $50 floor.

Romney To Start 15-State Tour End Of August

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — Gov. George Romney, one of the top contenders for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, will begin at the end of this month a series of speaking engagements taking him to 15 states by the end of October, authoritative sources said Saturday night.

In between the engagements, Romney is expected to make a tour of Europe to meet heads of state and bring himself up to date on European matters involving the United States.

The series of engagements, many of them to boost GOP candidates and raise funds for the party, mark renewed vigor on Romney's part in his apparent quest for the nomination.

Except for a tour of five western states last February, Romney has confined his speaking obligations to brief trips sandwiched around his duties as governor.

The series of speeches begins Aug. 30 at Springfield, Mo., the source said.

Other states on the agenda are Arizona, Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee and Vermont.

The schedule has one lengthy absence, between Sept. 7 and Oct. 6, and it is known that this is the spot tentatively set for Romney's tour of Europe.

Meanwhile, politics took a brief back seat Saturday as Romney led newsmen and their wives through a whirlwind schedule of fun and relaxation.

Talk of Romney's possible contention for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination was shelved for activities ranging from the golf course to the tennis courts.

The agenda also called for Romney to hold an informal session with newsmen. It was billed as a "casual background" on his views of political issues.

Romney and his wife, Lenore, played host to about 40 newsmen, their wives and a group of Romney aides and political backers.

SHELL LAKE, Sask. (AP) — Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Shell Lake announced Saturday night they have arrested a man in the slaying of nine members of the James Peterson family.

Police said they also have seized a weapon identified by the crime detection laboratory in Regina as the murder weapon. Inspector B. D. Sawyer said that the name of the arrested man will be withheld until he can discuss the case with his superiors.

The arrest was announced after 1,500 visitors paid their last respects to the Peterson family as seven coffins bedecked with roses and one draped with a Canadian flag were lowered into a common grave in Shell Lake cemetery.

US Planes Strike At Cong Lines

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. warplanes ranged along the southern coast of North Vietnam Saturday striking blows at Communist supply lines. Pilots reported destroying or damaging more than 100 cargo barges and tearing up two truck convoys.

Poor weather kept U.S. aircraft away from the immediate vicinity of Hanoi and Haiphong and raids were concentrated on the southern panhandle stretching south from Hanoi to the 17th parallel that divides North and South Vietnam.

The U.S. Command reported the ground war at a virtual standstill Sunday. But Communist gunners shot down two U.S. helicopters over South Vietnam Saturday, killing one American and wounding three others.

While the U.S. fighter-bombers were raking North Vietnam, B2 bombers that can carry up to 30 tons of bombs mounted a second raid in less than 24 hours Saturday night on a major North Vietnamese fixed base.

Officials Claim Viet War Not In 'Stalemate'

An AP News Analysis By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON (AP) — American military and diplomatic leaders in South Vietnam deny the word "stalemate" and insist that many small and unspectacular developments show an unmistakable favorably trend in the war.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker expects the Sept. 3 election will be a substantial gain on the political front. The military commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, considers the fighting war is costing the enemy 15,000 casualties monthly and that this pressure in due course must have its effect. The bombing of North Vietnam is presented as an indispensable part of this pressure.

The soldiers, diplomats, economists and other experts in the U.S. mission admit that certain programs are behind schedule and certain areas uncertain. The cost of living has gone up about 30 per cent this year, for example. They insist, however, that the over-all picture is gradually improving.

In concert with Washington, an evident campaign is under way to get this message across to the public.

Critics in Saigon who hold that a stalemate exists point to instances where no progress can be detected. They cite incompetent generals of South Vietnamese divisions, corrupt district chiefs, the threat of economic upheaval, continued American casualties, Communist attacks on rural pacification teams.

Suspect Cong Will Try To Disrupt Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials reported preliminary evidence Saturday of Viet Cong plans to mount a terror campaign aimed at disrupting the September election in South Vietnam.

Communist harassment could include attempts to assassinate opposition candidates and blame the killings on the present military regime whose leaders are running for office, the officials said.

Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky are the front-runners in a field also including 10 civilian slates. The civilian candidates have been accusing the government of sabotaging their campaigns.

Washington authorities believe the murder last Dec. 7 of a leading antijunta member of the Constituent Assembly, Tran Van Van, was the work of the Viet Cong. And they say some 30 candidates were assassinated during last spring's election of 13,000 South Vietnamese to local offices.

The officials said a number of recent Viet Cong defectors and prisoners reported having received orders to disrupt the national governmental elections slated for Sept. 3.

This—plus Communist broadcasts condemning the elections, and the past pattern of Viet Cong tactics—has led Washington authorities to expect a wave of terrorist acts during the final few days of the political campaign.

It is anticipated that the harassment will be aimed both at candidates and at keeping voters away from the polls.

The officials also told newsmen:

—The U.S. government is taking no position on whether the elections should be postponed a month, as proposed by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and some of the South Vietnamese civilian candidates.

However, the South Vietnamese campaigners appear to be quite active in the few weeks allotted for politicking. The election machinery is geared to the Sept. 3 date, and it would be difficult to postpone.

Observers from Japan, Belgium, Holland, Britain and possibly India may go to South Vietnam for the elections.

Viva Aqua Dura

There may be some dispute about the benefits of hard liquor, but to one medical expert, there is no question that hard water is the thing to drink.

"To drink hard water is good. To drink soft water is bad," says Dr. Arthur G. Schock of the Southwestern Medical Foundation in Dallas, Tex.

According to studies done in Sweden, Great Britain and the United States, he says ailments of age like heart disease and bone-softening are "significantly more prevalent" where the drinking water is soft than in areas where it is hard.

The trouble is, our water supplies are geared to industry, whose use of water is tremendous while the amount of water we drink is infinitesimal in comparison.

Municipal authorities often "purify" water by softening it, thus removing essential minerals, charges the doctor. The reason is that soft water requires less soap (saving money for commercial laundries) and that boiler pipes do not form scale (saving money for other industries).

To bolster his case for natural water, he cites records of Hernando de Soto's 1541 explorations of the New World. The Spanish explorer "found Indians of many tribes, at peace, sharing the recuperative waters" at what later was called Mountain Valley, Ark.

Short of everyone finding the fountain of youth by going out and buying bottled spring water, Schock contends that water companies could supply dual service just as power and light companies do—one source for human consumption, another for washing and grass growing, etc.

Not To Be Fooled With

The two young women attacked by bears in Montana's Glacier National Park were the first persons to be killed by such animals since the park was opened in 1932. It also appears that the killers were grizzlies, rather than the black bears so familiar to those who visit the Western mountain parks.

The episode nevertheless serves as a reminder to tourists that bears—even the smaller and seemingly innocuous ones that often appear at camp grounds or along the road—are wild animals and not to be trifled with. However friendly or comical they may seem, they must be treated with caution.

This basic fact is often forgotten by visitors to the parks. Sometimes they try to attract bears to their autos or campsites, cameras are aimed for shots that will thrill the folks back home. There is even the story, perhaps apocryphal, of the man who sought to get a bear into the car with his wife for the sake of a "comic" picture.

Such nonsensical behavior is likely to have results anything but comical. Nothing of this sort appears to have been involved in the death of two girls who were summer hotel workers in Glacier Park; something else apparently caused the bears to go on a rampage. But this tragedy underscores the point that bears in their natural habitat are a potential danger not to be treated lightly.

Lawn Troubles Grow

August and September are months of trial for the gardener. It's then that the things he failed to do or did wrong in May, June and July come into evidence. As to the lawn, for example: Look at that brown patch over by the garage! Look at the crabgrass and plantain!

Maybe the brown spot didn't get fertilized. Or maybe it got too much water or was mowed too closely. But why the crabgrass? That sack of crabgrass killer and fertilizer cost nine bucks and, by all laws of justice, ought to work.

How can you tell when the grass has been watered enough? And how can you keep the neighbor's dog off of it and stay on speaking terms with the neighbor? And look at those holes! The squirrels never have been worse—and you can't shoot 'em or poison 'em.

Winter is still a long ways off and that, in a way, is too bad. What the lawn needs more than anything is to be covered with snow.

Reagan Performance A Hit With Fans In Washington

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Odd, somehow, that a politician can verbalize all day long, capture thousands with rhetoric and then get into office and perform the opposite.

Here they're still admiring California Gov. Ronald Reagan for a masterpiece in the art.

Reagan put a big smile on

California faces when he campaigned glowingly for less government spending and lower taxes. In office less than eight months, Reagan has just signed the largest budget and the largest tax increase in California history.

And he did it fairly easily. The cry, "But, Governor, you said last fall . . ." wasn't to be heard.

"Beautiful," said Rep. Ray Blanton, D-Tenn., twitting GOP conservatives. Reagan's about face reminded him of a recent letter from a constituent.

The missive blasted federal "give-away" programs and wasted federal money, and warned Blanton that he would be watched closely by Tennesseans on all fiscal matters.

"Then came his postscript,"

Blanton said. "It read, 'I wish you bureaucrats in Washington would hurry up and get us approval on that federal grant for our sewage lines.'"

The Democratic and Republican slogan-thinker-uppers are cranking into action again. The conventions are now only a year away.

One young slogan-maker on Capitol Hill apparently had a good start but couldn't find that final spice to top it off. It began, "The mission of the minority party is . . ."

He went around the Senate and House floors, asking prominent Republicans to help him out by filling in the slogan with as few words as possible. GOP House leader Jerry Ford won. "The mission of the minority party," Ford said quickly, "is to become the majority."

When a man in public office continually finds himself defending or explaining a remark he made previously, it's a pretty good indication he wishes he hadn't said it.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey is now being bombarded from all sides concerning a statement he made defending disconsolate, ghettoed citizens. To wit: "I could lead a pretty good riot myself."

Recently, Humphrey lashed out at the Congress for "inactivity which is largely responsible for ghetto ills and ghetto riots."

"Of course," one senator shot back, "you know who presides over the Senate."

Washington

Viet Youths Forsake Riots For Positive Political Work

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Many young men and women in South Vietnam have of late decided that parades, protest marches and demonstrations aren't the most effective way to get better government.

Groups representing thousands of young people met recently in Saigon and decided "it is no longer useful for the youth of Vietnam to take to the streets to shout cheers or boos or to foster ineffective criticism."

Instead, these youth decided to get into the coming presidential and legislative political campaigns.

Teams of these young people will go to the thousands of South Vietnam's hamlets to explain the election laws. They'll explain to people exactly how the polls work. They'll aim to stir discussions that will get people to the polls. They'll make certain that the people know their voting rights and that all candidates' rights are not shaded.

Youth units in each province will arrange for candidate debates so that the villagers will hear "both sides" of the issues.

In the weeks before the election, youth "watchdog" teams will try to discover and expose any shady deals or "undue pressure" tactics carried out to influence the voters.

On election day, these same watchdog teams will check the polls to make certain the men running the voting places do an honest job.

This movement is likely to set off some fireworks if there are generals unwilling to accept the results of the elections.

If some generals attempt to nullify the elections and attempt to take over illegally the powers of the men elected to the presidency and the South Vietnam legislature, it is unlikely that the young people who will have pushed so hard for honest and open elections would stand still. A continued rule by a military junta would thus meet opposition among these organized youths.

The ability and willingness of young Vietnamese to stand up against pressure showed up in the meetings of the assemblymen elected to write South Vietnam's new constitution. On a number of occasions, these assemblymen disagreed with views of the military junta. On these occasions, the assemblymen did not bow to the military's wishes. They stood firm and achieved their objectives.

One can quarrel with parts of the new constitution, but it was not written by the military.

What will happen if there is a clash between the military junta and the youth groups is certainly not clear today. But one thing is certain. Great numbers of the young people of South Vietnam have decided that protest marches and street riots are not the answer to Vietnam's problems.

They've decided, instead, that what's needed is for them, the youth, to become workers in a positive program to get better elections and better government. They're going to take part in the tough, monotonous, undramatic tasks of precinct work and getting out the vote. This isn't going to get them the headlines or television coverage that a riot or sit-in would provide. It's a very healthy sign.

Dear Ann Landers: I hate to admit that a three-year-old child has me over a barrel, but I am completely defeated.

The man I married was left with this youngster. Jim's wife walked out when the boy was six months old. Jim's mother took the boy for a year and then Jim hired a housekeeper. When I married Jim I was thrilled to be a mother to this child. Now I'm a nervous wreck.

The child chews holes in everything, breaks toys, destroys furniture, refuses to play with other children, won't watch anything but adult TV programs and insists on going everywhere we go.

I have tried to reason with the boy but he acts as if he doesn't hear me when I speak to him. I have explained that his real mother wouldn't cook for him or his daddy, that she didn't love him as I do and that she finally ran away and left him.

Jim says the boy realizes I am not his real mother and that is why he refuses to accept me. Please tell me how I can be a real mother to this boy.

— WABASH BLUES

Dear Wabash: You need outside help and fast. The boy is frightfully insecure, and you haven't helped matters by telling him his real mother didn't love him and that she ran away from him.

Have the child's pediatrician check the child's hearing, his metabolism — the works. Then learn where to take the boy for evaluation. This youngster has emotional problems. You cannot handle him alone.

Dear Ann Landers: I come from a average American middle class family. We ate off oilcloth and mismatched dishes. Mom never bought glasses. We used jelly and cheese jars. She was a good mother and I am not criticizing her, just stating facts.

When I married, I decided to do things nicer than my mother — not because I wanted to put on the dog but because I believe people should uplift themselves if they can. My married sisters are still setting their tables like Mom — jelly glasses and sometimes newspapers instead of oilcloth. I am not criticizing them, either. I say, "To each his own."

Next month two nieces are getting married. Their mothers (my sisters with the newspapers) have suggested that I buy a place setting of china or a setting of sterling silver for wedding gifts. The china is $50 a place setting. The silver is $62. I am in favor of people bettering themselves, but don't you think this is a lot of nerve?

Dear Kin: It was only a suggestion, and you can ignore it. As for "nerve," as one who believes in "uplifting" you should be happy that the younger generation plans to do things a little nicer than their mothers did.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read a letter in your column from a teen-ager. You answered: "I will be happy to listen to you any time you want to unload. That's what I'm here for."

Your answer touched me so that I cried. How wonderful to know there is somebody in this world a kid can count on. Yes, I know there are psychiatrists and counselors that will help, but you are more real. Thank you from the bottom of my heart for being there and caring.

Viva Aqua Dura

There may be some dispute about the benefits of hard liquor, but to one medical expert, there is no question that hard water is the thing to drink.

"To drink hard water is good. To drink soft water is bad," says Dr. Arthur G. Schock of the Southwestern Medical Foundation in Dallas, Tex.

According to studies done in Sweden, Great Britain and the United States, he says ailments of age like heart disease and bone-softening are "significantly more prevalent" where the drinking water is soft than in areas where it is hard.

The trouble is, our water supplies are geared to industry, whose use of water is tremendous while the amount of water we drink is infinitesimal in comparison.

Municipal authorities often "purify" water by softening it, thus removing essential minerals, charges the doctor. The reason is that soft water requires less soap (saving money for commercial laundries) and that boiler pipes do not form scale (saving money for other industries).

To bolster his case for natural water, he cites records of Hernando de Soto's 1541 explorations of the New World. The Spanish explorer "found Indians of many tribes, at peace, sharing the recuperative waters" at what later was called Mountain Valley, Ark.

Short of everyone finding the fountain of youth by going out and buying bottled spring water, Schock contends that water companies could supply dual service just as power and light companies do—one source for human consumption, another for washing and grass growing, etc.

Not To Be Fooled With

The two young women attacked by bears in Montana's Glacier National Park were the first persons to be killed by such animals since the park was opened in 1932. It also appears that the killers were grizzlies, rather than the black bears so familiar to those who visit the Western mountain parks.

The episode nevertheless serves as a reminder to tourists that bears—even the smaller and seemingly innocuous ones that often appear at camp grounds or along the road—are wild animals and not to be trifled with. However friendly or comical they may seem, they must be treated with caution.

This basic fact is often forgotten by visitors to the parks. Sometimes they try to attract bears to their autos or campsites, cameras are aimed for shots that will thrill the folks back home. There is even the story, perhaps apocryphal, of the man who sought to get a bear into the car with his wife for the sake of a "comic" picture.

Such nonsensical behavior is likely to have results anything but comical. Nothing of this sort appears to have been involved in the death of two girls who were summer hotel workers in Glacier Park; something else apparently caused the bears to go on a rampage. But this tragedy underscores the point that bears in their natural habitat are a potential danger not to be treated lightly.

Lawn Troubles Grow

August and September are months of trial for the gardener. It's then that the things he failed to do or did wrong in May, June and July come into evidence. As to the lawn, for example: Look at that brown patch over by the garage! Look at the crabgrass and plantain!

Maybe the brown spot didn't get fertilized. Or maybe it got too much water or was mowed too closely. But why the crabgrass? That sack of crabgrass killer and fertilizer cost nine bucks and, by all laws of justice, ought to work.

How can you tell when the grass has been watered enough? And how can you keep the neighbor's dog off of it and stay on speaking terms with the neighbor? And look at those holes! The squirrels never have been worse—and you can't shoot 'em or poison 'em.

Winter is still a long ways off and that, in a way, is too bad. What the lawn needs more than anything is to be covered with snow.

Reagan Performance A Hit With Fans In Washington

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Odd, somehow, that a politician can verbalize all day long, capture thousands with rhetoric and then get into office and perform the opposite.

Here they're still admiring California Gov. Ronald Reagan for a masterpiece in the art.

Reagan put a big smile on

California faces when he campaigned glowingly for less government spending and lower taxes. In office less than eight months, Reagan has just signed the largest budget and the largest tax increase in California history.

And he did it fairly easily. The cry, "But, Governor, you said last fall . . ." wasn't to be heard.

"Beautiful," said Rep. Ray Blanton, D-Tenn., twitting GOP conservatives. Reagan's about face reminded him of a recent letter from a constituent.

The missive blasted federal "give-away" programs and wasted federal money, and warned Blanton that he would be watched closely by Tennesseans on all fiscal matters.

"Then came his postscript,"

Blanton said. "I read, 'I wish you bureaucrats in Washington would hurry up and get us approval on that federal grant for our sewage lines.'"

The Democratic and Republican slogan-thinker-uppers are cranking into action again. The conventions are now only a year away.

One young slogan-maker on Capitol Hill apparently had a good start but couldn't find that final spice to top it off. It began, "The mission of the minority party is . . ."

He went around the Senate and House floors, asking prominent Republicans to help him out by filling in the slogan with as few words as possible. GOP House leader Jerry Ford won.

"The mission of the minority party," Ford said quickly, "is to become the majority."

When a man in public office continually finds himself defending or explaining a remark he made previously, it's a pretty good indication he wishes he hadn't said it.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey is now being bombarded from all sides concerning a statement he made defending disconsolate, ghettoed citizens. To wit: "I could lead a pretty good riot myself."

Recently, Humphrey lashed out at the Congress for "inactivity which is largely responsible for ghetto ills and ghetto riots."

Viet Youths Forsake Riots For Positive Political Work

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Many young men and women in South Vietnam have of late decided that parades, protest marches and demonstrations aren't the most effective way to get better government.

Groups representing thousands of young people met recently in Saigon and decided "it is no longer useful for the youth of Vietnam to take to the streets to shout cheers or boos or to foster ineffective criticism."

Instead, these youth decided to get into the coming presidential and legislative political campaigns.

Teams of these young people will go to the thousands of South Vietnam's hamlets to explain the election laws. They'll explain to people exactly how the polls work. They'll aim to stir discussions that will get people to the polls. They'll make certain that the people know their voting rights and that all candidates' rights are not shaded.

Youth units in each province will arrange for candidate debates so that the villagers will hear "both sides" of the issues.

In the weeks before the election, youth "watchdog" teams will try to discover and expose any shady deals or "undue pressure" tactics carried out to influence the voters.

On election day, these same watchdog teams will check the polls to make certain the men running the voting places do an honest job.

This movement is likely to set off some fireworks if there are generals unwilling to accept the results of the elections.

If some generals attempt to nullify the elections and attempt to take over illegally the powers of the men elected to the presidency and the South Vietnam legislature, it is unlikely that the young people who will have pushed so hard for honest and open elections would stand still. A continued rule by a military junta would thus meet opposition among these organized youths.

The ability and willingness of young Vietnamese to stand up against pressure showed up in the meetings of the assemblymen elected to write South Vietnam's new constitution. On a number of occasions, these assemblymen disagreed with views of the military junta. On these occasions, the assemblymen did not bow to the military's wishes. They stood firm and achieved their objectives.

One can quarrel with parts of the new constitution, but it was not written by the military.

What will happen if there is a clash between the military junta and the youth groups is certainly not clear today. But one thing is certain. Great numbers of the young people of South Vietnam have decided that protest marches and street riots are not the answer to Vietnam's problems.

They've decided, instead, that what's needed is for them, the youth, to become workers in a positive program to get better elections and better government. They're going to take part in the tough, monotonous, undramatic tasks of precinct work and getting out the vote. This isn't going to get them the headlines or television coverage that a riot or sit-in would provide.

It's a very healthy sign.

District 27 Prepares For New School Term

ARENZVILLE — The Board of Education of School District 27 met in regular session at the school board office August 9, with all members but one in attendance. Also present were the superintendent, Leland Schnake, and the unit secretary, Patricia Bischoff.

President Williams appointed a committee consisting of Attorney Bruce Thomson, Superintendent Leland Schnake, Board Members Robert Kirchner and Charles O. Williams and Robert D. Clark of the First National Bank of Arenzville, to study reinvestment of site and construction fund monies presently invested with the LaSalle National Bank of Chicago, until needed for construction purposes.

The tentative budget for the 1967-68 fiscal year drawn up by the superintendent and the school attorney was approved. Sept. 13 was the date set for the public hearing on the budget, to be held at 9 p.m. at the school board office, Concord.

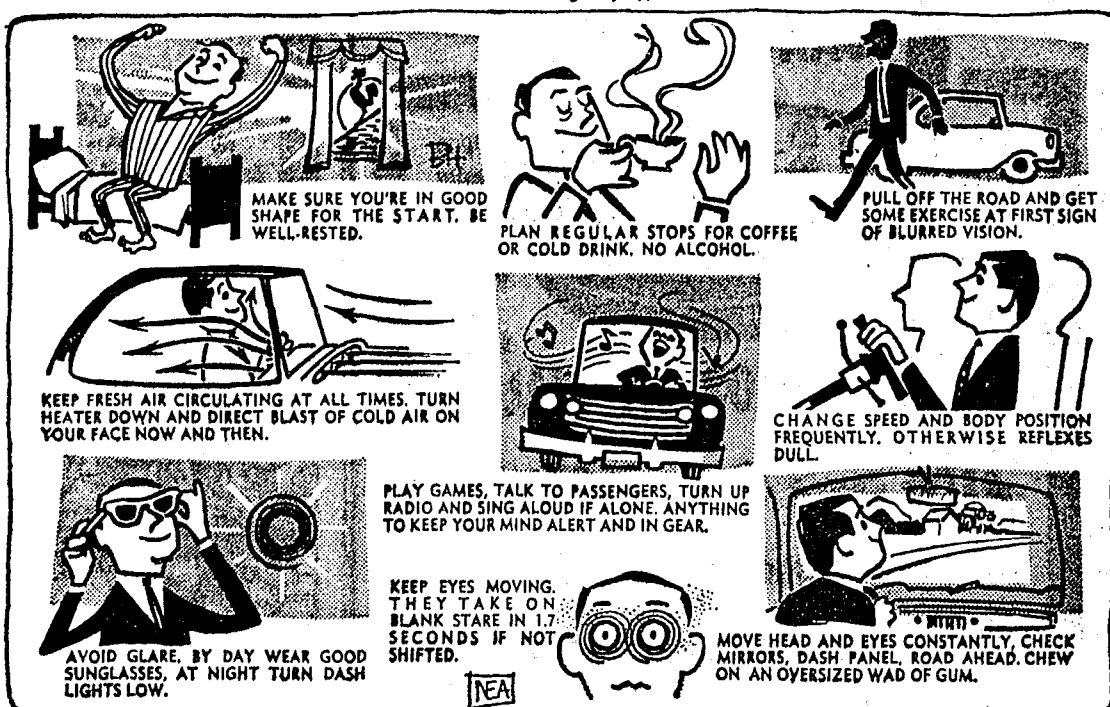

Bids for supplies and services for the year 1967-68 were accepted, as follows: Prairie Farms Dairy, Inc., to supply milk to the schools of the unit; Cass County Service Co. of Virginia and Morgan County Service Co. of Jacksonville to supply propane gas to the schools at Arenzville and Chapin, respectively; Jacksonville Ice and Cold Storage Co. to supply coal to all schools in the unit; Hart Insurance Agency of Arenzville to provide fleet insurance on school buses.

The board accepted, with regret, the resignation of Mrs. Katherine Ormiston, a teacher at Triopia High School. Mrs. Ormiston, who taught English, asked to be relieved of her teaching duties for reasons of health.

Mrs. Sandra Walker was employed as unit elementary music teacher. Mrs. Walker, her husband, John, who is a professional musician and family hope to find a home in the immediate area.

The board approved employment of Nicholas Jackson of Chapin as custodian at Triopia High School.

Beware of HIGHWAY HYPNOSIS

The new superhighways facing the nation are almost too good, as millions of drivers are learning. Driving can be so easy over great distances that boredom and fatigue, fed by the drone of the engine and hum of the tires, set in without a driver really being aware of it. Senses are dulled and danger threatens. Here's how to outwit highway hypnosis.

MAKE SURE YOU'RE IN GOOD SHAPE FOR THE START. BE WELL-RESTED.

PLAN REGULAR STOPS FOR COFFEE OR COLD DRINK. NO ALCOHOL.

PULL OFF THE ROAD AND GET SOME EXERCISE AT FIRST SIGN OF BLURRED VISION.

KEEP FRESH AIR CIRCULATING AT ALL TIMES. TURN HEATER DOWN AND DIRECT LAST OF COLD AIR ON YOUR FACE NOW AND THEN.

CHANGE SPEED AND BODY POSITION FREQUENTLY. OTHERWISE REFLEXES DULL.

PLAY GAMES, TALK TO PASSENGERS, TURN UP RADIO AND SING ALONG IF ALONE. ANYTHING TO KEEP YOUR MIND ALERT AND IN GEAR.

KEEP EYES MOVING. THEY TAKE ON BLANK STARE IN 17 SECONDS IF NOT SHIFTED.

AVOID GLARE. BY DAY WEAR GOOD SUNGLASSES. AT NIGHT TURN DASH LIGHTS LOW.

MOVE HEAD AND EYES CONSTANTLY. CHECK MIRRORS, DASH PANEL, ROAD AHEAD, CHEW ON AN OVERSIZED WAD OF GUM.

al times in recent weeks that farmers should hold back more of their crops.

But heavy harvest sales of wheat—and the possibility of similar heavy sales of corn, soybeans and other crops when they are harvested—has tended to weaken farm prices more than the supply situation would justify, officials say.

Wheat prices are running as much as 40 cents a bushel below a year earlier—a development which has brought grower complaints and demands from some farm leaders in and out of Congress for new government measures to strengthen prices.

Wheat prices are acting as if a new surplus had been created by this year's record large crop. But Freeman told a recent meeting of farm leaders "there is no over-all surplus of wheat as a result of the 1967 crop. The sharp drop in prices from a year ago is not justified on the basis of this year's production and prospective demand for wheat."

What Freeman wants more farmers to do is engage in what farm officials long have described as "orderly marketing." It is argued that if farmers rationed or prorated their marketing over a full year, their prices would not take big harvest-time dips.

The government stands ready to help financially in such regulated marketing through price-support loans on storable commodities placed in acceptable facilities on or off the farm.

These loans give farmers ready cash to help satisfy debts falling due around harvest time. Officials believe that if all farmers engaged in such orderly marketing, prices would strengthen as the sales season moved on. This would enable farmers to pay off loans, cash in on the price advances and come out with a larger total crop income.

The secretary believes also that farmers need to do a better job sizing up market prospects and of adjusting their own production to those prospects—particularly in the case of products not covered by federal production adjustment programs. These are mainly livestock and livestock products. Freeman says he thinks much could be done to avert these production and price troubles if growers organized themselves into bargaining agencies.

The Weather Elsewhere

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

STATE
A chilly rain splattered throughout much of Illinois Saturday. High temperatures were mostly in the 60s, although a few southern points recorded 71s.

The gloomy weather was in the aftermath of a cold front which moved into the state and touched off severe electrical and wind storms, particularly in the northeastern corner of the state. The Weather Bureau forecast somewhat better weather for the next few days, however, with partly clearing skies and warmer temperatures.

base in the A Shau Valley in the northwestern corner of South Vietnam.

Carrier-based U.S. Navy pilots reported destroying 21 cargo barges and damaging 74. Air Force pilots said they destroyed or damaged another 18, including three large barges on a river 26 miles northwest of Dong Hoi.

That made the day's toll 113 river barges sunk or damaged compared to 108 reported Friday.

In the ground war Saturday, U.S. Marines used riot control gas to flush four Viet Cong suspects from a tunnel in hills 27 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The explosion of a grenade bearing chemicals that induce tears and nausea caused three men and a woman to crawl out of their hiding place after they had spurned orders from Leathernecks of the 5th Marine Regiment to surrender.

Associated Press photographer Rick Merron, who was on the scene, said a search of the tunnel by masked Marines yielded field packs, canteens and ammunition for a Communist assault rifle.

Highlights of other developments:

—U.S. pilots flew a near-record 186 multiple missions Friday in the recently expanded air war against North Vietnam. This was second only to the record of 197 missions set Aug. 3. Communist supply lines were the prime targets.

—In a periodic updating of aircraft losses in the war, the U.S. Command said 2,573 planes and helicopters had been destroyed from all causes. Planes downed in combat over North Vietnam totaled 647, over South Vietnam 199.

—A Marine reconnaissance team near the demilitarized zone spotted 15 North Vietnamese soldiers in green fatigues and uniforms busily building bunkers. The Marines opened fire and without suffering a casualty killed five of the enemy and routed the rest.

—Paratroopers of the 1st Brigade, U.S. 101st Airborne Division, had three flights Friday with guerrillas and North Vietnamese regulars near Tam Ky, about 340 miles northeast of Saigon. They killed 9 enemy soldiers and lost 3 killed and 34 wounded.

Though ground activity was widely scattered, known American casualties from the day's field reports were 9 dead and 99 wounded. Infantry, air and artillery fire were reported to have killed 165 of the enemy. Both the allies and the Communists use nonlethal gases on occasion. It has become routine, a sharp change from the international furor raised when experimental tests by the South Vietnamese armed forces with U.S.-supplied gas came to light in the spring of 1965.

Officials Claim

American officials, privately at least, frequently agree with such specific criticisms. But in the highest quarters the argument is advanced that the war is so complex that the statistics add up to the conclusion that the trend is improving.

"One factor frequently overlooked," said an American source concerned with top policy decisions, "is that we've only had real pressure on the enemy for one year. The first year we were bringing in troops and building our bases and logistics from scratch."

"Now our pressure on the enemy is becoming evident. They (Hanoi) are beginning to recognize that they are pursuing an exercise in futility. They are facing a momentous decision about the course of the war. The enemy is not about to roll over and concede defeat but he is hurting."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., called Saturday for a total cutoff of U.S. arms aid to the military regime now ruling Greece.

That step would serve notice this country "does not in any way condone the assumption of power by a small, unrepresentative minority" in Greece, Clark said.

He made public the text of a speech he plans to deliver Monday in the Senate.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department scientists have come up with genetic studies that may help save the whooping crane and other species of wildlife from extinction. Wildlife authorities have been working hard—and with no great degree of success—to try to save the whooping crane. All told, there are only about 50 of these wild birds in the wild and in captivity.

The studies, the department reported Saturday, make it possible to make an early determination of sex of young birds and pair them off under conditions more ideal for development. It is difficult to determine sex of these birds before they are grown.

"Early determination of sex," the department said, "could be a boon to wildlife specialists. With relatively few of these cranes in captivity, wildlife specialists must be able to sex young cranes as soon as possible."

"GIRL CRAZY" TO HAVE ONLY ONE WEEKEND VIEWING

A Summer Theater '67, the Jacksonville civic summer theater project, is closing its season with "Girl Crazy!" This George and Ira Gershwin's "fun" musical was plucked from the 30's and updated to include a satire of the west of T.V. fame.

"Girl Crazy!" presents an extravaganza of songs, dances, chorus, piano, guitars in a plot that ranges from Mexico to Hollywood. Johnny Churchill, former T.V. star of "Cowpoke," has opened a dude ranch out west.

Sam Mason, his agent, and Frisco Kate, his old flame, want to get him back to the Hollywood range. Molly, the local postmistress, wants Johnny to clean up the real west as a real sheriff. Johnny decides that if Ronald Reagan did it, so can he. From there a plot that spares few targets its barbs, rolls its merry way to an old fashioned western "shoot out" ending.

Songs included in "Girl Crazy!" are "Bidin My Time," "I Got Rhythm," "Strike Up the Band," and "Embraceable You."

"Girl Crazy!" is being done by the same company that last summer produced "Carnival," and is directed by Miss Geraldine Staley who also directed "Oklahoma" and "Kiss Me Kate" over the last two Illinois College seasons.

Sherry Choate, Pete Gallatin, and Karen Cox, all summer theatre regulars, have the leads. Due to a conflict with the Labor Day weekend, "Girl Crazy!" will be presented one weekend only, August 23, 24, 25, and 26. Curtain time has been changed to 8:30 p.m.; gates are open at 8:00 p.m. Tickets for "Girl Crazy!" will be available at the gate of the Illinois College outdoor theater; $1.25 for adults and 75¢ for students.

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP)—African nationalist spokesmen said Saturday 43 members of Rhodesian security units have been killed in fierce battles that have been going on for six days in the Wankie coal-mining area 60 miles south of the Zambian border. African nationalists fighting the white-minority government in the rebellious British colony have automatic weapons, bazookas and explosives. Ames Chikerema, vice president of the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union, said at a news conference.

Oliver Tambo, deputy president of the South African National Congress, said nationalists also were preparing armed attacks against the white regime in South Africa.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist party newspaper Pravda said Saturday a hysterical anti-Soviet campaign by the government of Communist China has made impossible normal functioning of the Soviet Embassy in Peking.

It was the closest the Soviet Union has come to hinting that a break in diplomatic relations might result from attacks on the embassy last week and other anti-Soviet incidents.

Pravda said that Chinese propaganda was spreading malicious misstatements about the Soviet Union and that Russians have been subjected to "curses and direct attacks" in the streets of Peking.

ADEN (AP) — Three men, one a British air force sergeant and the two others believed to be off-duty British servicemen, were shot dead Saturday in the Aden suburb of Maalla, apparently by Arab terrorists.

The shootings occurred at two gasoline stations. In the first incident, the sergeant was shot as he was getting gasoline for his car. He was the 51st British serviceman to die since an emergency was declared in this colony on the Arabian Peninsula in December 1963.

Ninety minutes later, the other two men were gunned down at a gasoline station 100 yards away.

23 Involved In Six Highway Accidents

A total of 23 persons was involved in six accidents occurring on state highways Friday, and only one was hospitalized from injuries sustained in one of the crashes.

Five of the incidents occurred Friday afternoon, with four coming within minutes of each other.

Admitted to Passavant hospital, and listed in fair condition was the driver and sole occupant of one vehicle, involved in a separate incident, Ethel J. Brown, 27, of 312 South East street.

She was westbound on U.S. 36-54 five miles west of Jacksonville about 6:55 p.m. when her car hit standing water on the highway and skidded out of control.

The vehicle ran off the north side of the highway, up an embankment and struck a telephone pole.

Pinned Under Car
Mrs. Brown was thrown from the vehicle, and partially pinned underneath the car. Passing motorists lifted the vehicle and extracted her from underneath the car.

Minutes later, at the same location another accident occurred as motorists were slowing for the single car accident involving Mrs. Brown.

A westbound unit, operated by Fred R. Hoagland, 63, of Ashland had stopped in his lane of traffic to allow congestion caused by the accident to clear.

Hoagland's car was struck from the rear by a car, containing two persons, and driven by John E. Bown, 66, of route two, Winchester.

At 5:15 p.m., two separate accidents occurred at opposite ends of the county.

Brothers Hit Head-on
Danny L. Thady, 16, of Murrayville, had developed car troubles, and had stopped on the west side of U.S. 67 six miles south of the city.

His brother, Roger W. Thady, 18, also of Murrayville was northbound on U.S. 67. When Roger saw his brother's car stopped, he pulled off to see if he could be of assistance.

State police said that Roger, in attempting to leave the highway as fast as possible because of oncoming traffic, skidded on the wet shoulder and crashed head-on into his brother's car.

The two brothers were alone at the time of the accident.

Another state policeman was dispatched to the junction of Ill. 104 and Ill. 100 at approximately the same time.

A station wagon, containing eight members of a Deer Creek, Ill. family, northbound, failed to stop for the stop sign at the junction and crashed into a unit, driven by Robert F. Meyer, 36, of Chapin, who was southbound attempting to turn left on Ill. 104.

The station wagon, driven by William J. Moser, 42, of Deer Creek, swerved to avoid the accident, but was unable to clear the Meyer vehicle.

Both vehicles were heavily damaged, and were removed from the scene by wrecker. Moser was ticketed for failure to stop at a stop sign.

A Vandalia, Ill. woman was treated and later released from Passavant hospital for injuries sustained in a two-car accident at the junction of U.S. 67 and the Murrayville - Nortonville road about four o'clock Friday afternoon.

Taken to the hospital was Mary Smith, 35, of Vandalia, Ill., a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Leroy J. Smith, 38.

State police reported that a car, operated by Robert E. Pennington, 65, of Murrayville was attempting to turn, when the Smith auto was trying to pass the Pennington auto.

Officers said that the Pennington auto turned into the side of the Smith auto. Both cars were driven from the scene. Earlier Friday, a car and tractor trailer unit collided three and one-half miles east of Jacksonville on U.S. 36-54 about 9:10 a.m.

State troopers reported that both units, a car, operated by Aloise M. Kamp, 56, of Kampsville, and a Consolidated Freightways truck, driven by William A. Sumner, 32, of Lansing, Ill., both attempted to pass a school bus in the east-bound lane.

The Kamp vehicle slid onto the shoulder of the highway, but still collided with the rear of the tandem unit, being pulled by the truck.

Arab Nations

Arab oil production for three months, saying this would drain Western European oil reserves and bring pressure on Israel to withdraw from Arab territories occupied during the June war.

Backed by Syria and Algeria, Iraq also calls for withdrawal of all Arab assets from British and U.S. banks.

Before the conference also is a Kuwait proposal calling for establishment of a common Arab "war and reconstruction fund," with a capital of $280 million, the reports from Baghdad said. Oil-rich Kuwait would put in the largest part of the capital.

Men and equipment were ready, waiting for the water to recede.

In Anchorage, Norman Schwalb, manager of the Alaska District chapter of the Associated General Contractors, said everything needed to do the job was "on standby" and there was plenty of manpower.

Whether any attempt would be made to restore the A-67 Expedition, in which the state invested $7 million, was not known.

Despite federal assistance, the individual loss will be heavy. Only a few were insured against flood damage. They thought it cost too much.

Eroding

Another freshman senator, Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said: "I won't express approval or disapproval, but I will express support. I have grave misgivings about the war from time to time, but I am not a military expert, and I won't pit my judgment against that of the experts."

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., made his reply to the canvass question — "Do you generally approve or disapprove of President Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam war?" — the occasion to announce he was leaving the ranks of those who approved to join those who disapproved.

He attacked what he called "the President's continuing and apparently open-ended policy of 'gradualism' in the war" and said it amounted to a never-win policy.

"We simply must begin immediately to apply unrelenting military pressure on the enemy, bombing all targets of military significance, and closing the supply port of Haiphong. I believe it is important that we confront and defeat Communist aggression in 'Vietnam' and create a series of Asian buffer states around Red China," Tower said.

But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., assistant majority leader, who described himself as "more of a hawk than the President," said he was standing behind Johnson.

"It seems to me that we are in this war and have no choice but to try and win it," he said.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who remains classed as a hawk, said "there is still no clear-cut policy which allows the military to use their forces most effectively and to strike at the enemy with a well-executed plan to defeat him, or force him to the peace table."

"I think it is bad policy for us to keep sending more and more men to war in South Vietnam while we fail to do all we can and should be doing in bombing North Vietnam."

Similarly, Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said: "We ought to do what is necessary to end the ability of North Vietnam to fight, destroy their food production, their military production."

Sens. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., said the President was not doing enough to win. McClellan and Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., said the bombing of the north should have been expanded two years ago.

But Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, a presidential policy supporter, said he was disappointed there had been no recent bombing lull to try to get negotiations started.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., approved the bombing expansion but said the administration was not getting enough allied help in the fighting.

To Sen. A.S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., Allen J. Ellender, D-La., Lister Hill, D-Ala., John Sparkman, D-Ala., and B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., the President had more information than anybody else and was in a better position to judge what should be done.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said he supported "the nature of our commitment in Vietnam."

"But I have reservations about aspects of the administration's policy," he said. "For example: I'm for a bombing cessation, I'm for negotiations with the NFL (Viet Cong). I have reservations about the troop increase. I think the other Asian nations should be helping us more."

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said if the President's policy "can be defined as unrelenting but controlled pressure, combined with an active search for peace negotiations, then, yes, I support it."

Viva Aqua Dura

There may be some dispute about the benefits of hard liquor, but to one medical expert, there is no question that hard water is the thing to drink.

"To drink hard water is good. To drink soft water is bad," says Dr. Arthur G. Schock of the Southwestern Medical Foundation in Dallas, Tex.

According to studies done in Sweden, Great Britain and the United States, he says ailments of age like heart disease and bone-softening are "significantly more prevalent" where the drinking water is soft than in areas where it is hard.

The trouble is, our water supplies are geared to industry, whose use of water is tremendous while the amount of water we drink is infinitesimal in comparison.

Municipal authorities often "purify" water by softening it, thus removing essential minerals, charges the doctor. The reason is that soft water requires less soap (saving money for commercial laundries) and that boiler pipes do not form scale (saving money for other industries).

To bolster his case for natural water, he cites records of Hernando de Soto's 1541 explorations of the New World. The Spanish explorer "found Indians of many tribes, at peace, sharing the recuperative waters" at what later was called Mountain Valley, Ark.

Short of everyone finding the fountain of youth by going out and buying bottled spring water, Schock contends that water companies could supply dual service just as power and light companies do—one source for human consumption, another for washing and grass growing, etc.

Not To Be Fooled With

The two young women attacked by bears in Montana's Glacier National Park were the first persons to be killed by such animals since the park was opened in 1932. It also appears that the killers were grizzlies, rather than the black bears so familiar to those who visit the Western mountain parks.

The episode nevertheless serves as a reminder to tourists that bears—even the smaller and seemingly innocuous ones that often appear at camp grounds or along the road—are wild animals and not to be trifled with. However friendly or comical they may seem, they must be treated with caution.

This basic fact is often forgotten by visitors to the parks. Sometimes they try to attract bears to their autos or campsites, cameras are aimed for shots that will thrill the folks back home. There is even the story, perhaps apocryphal, of the man who sought to get a bear into the car with his wife for the sake of a "comic" picture.

Such nonsensical behavior is likely to have results anything but comical. Nothing of this sort appears to have been involved in the death of two girls who were summer hotel workers in Glacier Park; something else apparently caused the bears to go on a rampage. But this tragedy underscores the point that bears in their natural habitat are a potential danger not to be treated lightly.

Lawn Troubles Grow

August and September are months of trial for the gardener. It's then that the things he failed to do or did wrong in May, June and July come into evidence. As to the lawn, for example: Look at that brown patch over by the garage! Look at the crabgrass and plantain!

Maybe the brown spot didn't get fertilized. Or maybe it got too much water or was mowed too closely. But why the crabgrass? That sack of crabgrass killer and fertilizer cost nine bucks and, by all laws of justice, ought to work.

How can you tell when the grass has been watered enough? And how can you keep the neighbor's dog off of it and stay on speaking terms with the neighbor? And look at those holes! The squirrels never have been worse—and you can't shoot 'em or poison 'em.

Winter is still a long ways off and that, in a way, is too bad. What the lawn needs more than anything is to be covered with snow.

Reagan Performance A Hit With Fans In Washington

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Odd, somehow, that a politician can verbalize all day long, capture thousands with rhetoric and then get into office and perform the opposite.

Here they're still admiring California Gov. Ronald Reagan for a masterpiece in the art. Reagan put a big smile on California faces when he campaigned glowingly for less government spending and lower taxes. In office less than eight months, Reagan has just signed the largest budget and the largest tax increase in California history.

And he did it fairly easily. The cry, "But, Governor, you said last fall . . ." wasn't to be heard.

"Beautiful," said Rep. Ray Blanton, D-Tenn., twitting GOP conservatives. Reagan's about face reminded him of a recent letter from a constituent.

The massive blasted federal "give-away" programs and wasted federal money, and warned Blanton that he would be watched closely by Tennesseans on all fiscal matters.

"Then came his postscript,"

Blanton said. "It read, 'I wish you bureaucrats in Washington would hurry up and get us approval on that federal grant for our sewage lines.'"

The Democratic and Republican slogan-thinker-uppers are cranking into action again. The conventions are now only a year away.

One young slogan-maker on Capitol Hill apparently had a good start but couldn't find that final spice to top it off. It began, "The mission of the minority party is . . ."

He went around the Senate and House floors, asking prominent Republicans to help him out by filling in the slogan with as few words as possible. GOP House leader Jerry Ford won.

"The mission of the minority party," Ford said quickly, "is to become the majority."

When a man in public office continually finds himself defending or explaining a remark he made previously, it's a pretty good indication he wishes he hadn't said it.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey is now being bombarded from all sides concerning a statement he made defending disconsolate, ghettoed citizens. To wit: "I could lead a pretty good riot myself."

Recently, Humphrey lashed out at the Congress for "inactivity which is largely responsible for ghetto ills and ghetto riots."

"Of course," one senator shot back, "you know who presides over the Senate."

Viet Youths Forsake Riots For Positive Political Work

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Many young men and women in South Vietnam have of late decided that parades, protest marches and demonstrations aren't the most effective way to get better government.

Groups representing thousands of young people met recently in Saigon and decided "it is no longer useful for the youth of Vietnam to take to the streets to shout cheers or boos or to foster ineffective criticism."

Instead, these youth decided to get into the coming presidential and legislative political campaigns. Teams of these young people will go to the thousands of South Vietnam's hamlets to explain the election laws. They'll explain to people exactly how the polls work. They'll aim to stir discussions that will get people to the polls. They'll make certain that the people know their voting rights and that all candidates' rights are not shaded.

Youth units in each province will arrange for candidate debates so that the villagers will hear "both sides" of the issues. In the weeks before the election, youth "watchdog" teams will try to discover and expose any shady deals or "undue pressure" tactics carried out to influence the voters.

On election day, these same watchdog teams will check the polls to make certain the men running the voting places do an honest job.

This movement is likely to set off some fireworks if there are generals unwilling to accept the results of the elections.

If some generals attempt to nullify the elections and attempt to take over illegally the powers of the men elected to the presidency and the South Vietnam legislature, it is unlikely that the young people who will have pushed so hard for honest and open elections would stand still. A continued rule by a military junta would thus meet opposition among these organized youths.

The ability and willingness of young Vietnamese to stand up against pressure showed up in the meetings of the assemblymen elected to write South Vietnam's new constitution. On a number of occasions, these assemblymen disagreed with views of the military junta. On these occasions, the assemblymen did not bow to the military's wishes. They stood firm and achieved their objectives.

One can quarrel with parts of the new constitution, but it was not written by the military. What will happen if there is a clash between the military junta and the youth groups is certainly not clear today. But one thing is certain. Great numbers of the young people of South Vietnam have decided that protest marches and street riots are not the answer to Vietnam's problems.

They've decided, instead, that what's needed is for them, the youth, to become workers in a positive program to get better elections and better government. They're going to take part in the tough, monotonous, undramatic tasks of precinct work and getting out the vote. This isn't going to get them the headlines or television coverage that a riot or sit-in would provide. It's a very healthy sign.

Ann Landers: Can't Handle Three-Year-Old

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I hate to admit that a three-year-old child has me over a barrel, but I am completely defeated.

The man I married was left with this youngster. Jim's wife walked out when the boy was six months old. Jim's mother took the boy for a year and then Jim hired a housekeeper. When I married Jim I was thrilled to be a mother to this child. Now I'm a nervous wreck. The child chews holes in everything, breaks toys, destroys furniture, refuses to play with other children, won't watch anything but adult TV programs and insists on going everywhere we go.

I have tried to reason with the boy but he acts as if he doesn't hear me when I speak to him. I have explained that his real mother wouldn't cook for him or his daddy, that she didn't love him as I do and that she finally ran away and left him.

Jim says the boy realizes I am not his real mother and that is why he refuses to accept me. Please tell me how I can be a real mother to this boy.

— WABASH BLUES

Dear Wabash: You need outside help and fast. The boy is frightfully insecure, and you haven't helped matters by telling him his real mother didn't love him and that she ran away from him.

Have the child's pediatrician check the child's hearing, his metabolism — the works. Then learn how to take the boy for evaluation. This youngster has emotional problems. You cannot handle him alone.

Dear Ann Landers: I come from an average American middle class family. We ate off oilcloth and mismatched dishes. Mom never bought glasses. We used jelly and cheese jars. She was a good mother and I am not criticizing her, just stating facts.

When I married, I decided to do things nicer than my mother — not because I wanted to put on the dog but because I believe people should uplift themselves if they can. My married sisters are still setting their tables like Mom — jelly glasses and sometimes newspapers instead of oilcloth. I am not criticizing them, either. I say, "To each his own."

Next month two nieces are getting married. Their mothers (my sisters with the newspapers) have suggested that I buy a place setting of china or a setting of sterling silver for wedding gifts. The china is $50 a place setting. The silver is $62. I am in favor of people bettering themselves, but don't you think this is a lot of nerve?

— UNCERTAIN KIN

Dear Kin: It was only a suggestion, and you can ignore it. As for "nerve," as one who believes in "uplifting" you should be happy that the younger generation plans to do things a little nicer than their mothers did.

Dear Ann Landers: I just read a letter in your column from a teen-ager. You answered: "I will be happy to listen to you any time you want to unload. That's what I'm here for."

Your answer touched me so that I cried. How wonderful to know there is somebody in this world a kid can count on. Yes, I know there are psychiatrists and counselors that will help, but you are more real. Thank you from the bottom of my heart for being there and caring.

— A BUFFALO TEEN

Dear Teen: Thanks for letting me know I'm getting through. Your letter was a day-brightener.

Ann Landers will be glad to

Halfway House, Remnant Of Stagecoach Era, Razed

By Virgil Reither

BEARDSTOWN — The old "Halfway House," three miles west of Ashland, where weary travelers found safety, rest and refreshment on their stagecoach adventures between Springfield and Beardstown 130 years ago, has been demolished.

Ruel Jurgens, who with his wife and two children have occupied the two story frame structure where a pioneer "kept a tavern," says a modern pre-fabricated dwelling will be erected on the site.

The "Halfway House," according to Miss Marjorie Taylor of Virginia, president of the Cass County Historical Society, was one of three historic buildings between Beardstown and the state capital. The others are the Job House and Claypool Inn, both of which have great interest for historians.

Built in 1837, Ashland precinct occupies the southeast corner of Cass County and "Halfway House" was erected in what formerly was called the town of Lancaster by John Dutch in May of 1837.

It had three large rooms and a hall on the second floor and several rooms downstairs, but Mr. Jurgens said it was no longer suitable as a residence for his family. The stilt on the rock foundation were crumbling, he said, and other parts of the building were rotting and in poor repair.

Jurgens believes the house had been "remodeled" long before he and his family occupied it, since there were no fireplaces and no evidence of such.

"There were plaster lathes in it too," he declared, "and you can buy those now, so I think someone did a lot of changing here."

Replaced By Pre-Fab

Jurgens owns 90 of the acres which comprise the farm. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rahman, relatives of his wife, who live in Tallula, own the remainder. He says a pre-fab home will replace most of the "tavern" which comprised five rooms on the first floor and three on the second.

"We will preserve a small part for a few weeks to live in until the new home is finished," Jurgens explained, "and then my wife may use the old part for farm chores such as picking chickens—she furnishes a lot of them to Springfield customers."

Historians locally will be saddened by the passing of this "link with the past."

Lincoln A. Guest

It must have been a welcome beacon on the windswept prairies a century ago and it is said that Lincoln often stayed there.

Historical society "digging" has disclosed that stage coach routes between Beardstown and Virginia, Virginia and Springfield and Virginia and Jacksonville were in use regularly.

On Stage Line

On the trip from Beardstown the stage teams were watered at Bluff Springs, again at Virginia and unhitched for the night at Halfway House where passengers found beds in the common rooms, food and drink and good talk in the tavern.

Dickens could have been writing about the same period in "A Tale of Two Cities" which starts with those memorable lines: "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness."

And it was the same story in which Dickens wrote of the stage coach and teams on the Dover road and the Dover mail as "it lumbered up Shooter's Hill."

at times in recent weeks that farmers should hold back more of their crops.

But heavy harvest sales of wheat—and the possibility of similar heavy sales of corn, soybeans and other crops when they are harvested—has tended to weaken farm prices more than the supply situation would justify, officials say.

Wheat prices are running as much as 40 cents a bushel below a year earlier—a development which has brought grower complaints and demands from some farm leaders in and out of Congress for new government measures to strengthen prices.

Wheat prices are acting as if a new surplus had been created by this year's record large crop. But Freeman told a recent meeting of farm leaders "there is no over-all surplus of wheat as a result of the 1967 crop. The sharp drop in prices from a year ago is not justified on the basis of this year's production and prospective demand for wheat."

What Freeman wants more farmers to do is engage in what farm officials long have described as "orderly marketing." It is argued that if farmers rationed or prorated their marketing over a full year, their prices would not take big harvest-time dips.

The government stands ready to help financially in such regulated marketing through price-support loans on storable commodities placed in acceptable facilities on or off the farm. These loans give farmers ready cash to help satisfy debts falling due around harvest time. Officials believe that if all farmers engaged in such orderly marketing, prices would strengthen as the sales season moved on. This would enable farmers to pay off loans, cash in on the price advances and come out with a larger total crop income.

The secretary believes also that farmers need to do a better job sizing up market prospects and of adjusting their own production to those prospects—particularly in the case of products not covered by federal production adjustment programs. These are mainly livestock and livestock products. Freeman says he thinks much could be done to avert these production and price troubles if growers organized themselves into bargaining agencies.

The Weather Elsewhere

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

STATE
A chilly rain splattered throughout much of Illinois Saturday. High temperatures were mostly in the 60s, although a few southern points recorded 71s.

The gloomy weather was in the aftermath of a cold front which moved into the state and touched off severe electrical and wind storms, particularly in the northeastern corner of the state. The Weather Bureau forecast somewhat better weather for the next few days, however, with partly clearing skies and warmer temperatures.

Card Of Thanks

Thanks to my doctors, nurses, nurse aides and student nurses for the care they gave me, also friends and relatives for cards, gifts and calls while I was a patient at Passavant Hospital. Thanks also to those assisting at the accident scene.

base in the A Shau Valley in the northwestern corner of South Vietnam.

Carrier-based U.S. Navy pilots reported destroying 21 cargo barges and damaging 74. Air Force pilots said they destroyed or damaged another 18, including three large barges on a river 26 miles northwest of Dong Hoi.

That made the day's toll 113 river barges sunk or damaged compared to 108 reported Friday.

In the ground war Saturday, U.S. Marines used riot control gas to flush four Viet Cong suspects from a tunnel in hills 27 miles southwest of Da Nang. The explosion of a grenade bearing chemicals that induce tears and nausea caused three men and a woman to crawl out of their hiding place after they had spurned orders from Leathernecks of the 5th Marine Regiment to surrender.

Associated Press photographer Rick Merron, who was on the scene, said a search of the tunnel by masked Marines yielded field packs, canteens and ammunition for a Communist assault rifle.

Highlights of other developments:

—U.S. pilots flew a near-record 186 multiple missions Friday in the recently expanded air war against North Vietnam. This was second only to the record of 197 missions set Aug. 3. Communist supply lines were the prime targets.

—In a periodic updating of aircraft losses in the war, the U.S. Command said 2,573 planes and helicopters had been destroyed from all causes. Planes downed in combat over North Vietnam totaled 647, over South Vietnam 199.

—A Marine reconnaissance team near the demilitarized zone spotted 15 North Vietnamese soldiers in green fatigues uniforms busily building bunkers. The Marines opened fire and without suffering a casualty killed five of the enemy and routed the rest.

—Paratroopers of the 1st Brigade, U.S. 101st Airborne Division, had three flights Friday with guerrillas and North Vietnamese regulars near Tam Ky, about 340 miles northeast of Saigon. They killed 9 enemy soldiers and lost 3 killed and 34 wounded.

Though ground activity was widely scattered, known American casualties from the day's field reports were 9 dead and 99 wounded. Infantry, air and artillery firepower were reported to have killed 165 of the enemy.

Both the allies and the Communists use nonlethal gases on occasion. It has become routine, a sharp change from the international furor raised when experimental tests by the South Vietnamese armed forces with U.S.-supplied gas came to light in the spring of 1965.

Officials Claim

American officials, privately at least, frequently agree with such specific criticisms. But in the highest quarters the argument is advanced that the war is so complex that the statistics add up to the conclusion that the trend is improving.

"One factor frequently overlooked," said an American source concerned with top policy decisions, "is that we've only had real pressure on the enemy for one year. The first year we were bringing in troops and building our bases and logistics from scratch."

"Now our pressure on the enemy is becoming evident. They (Hanoi) are beginning to recognize that they are pursuing an exercise in futility. They are facing a momentous decision about the course of the war. The enemy is not about to roll over and concede defeat but he is hurting."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., called Saturday for a total cutoff of U.S. arms aid to the military regime now ruling Greece.

That step would serve notice this country "does not in any way condone the assumption of power by a small, unrepresentative minority" in Greece, Clark said.

He made public the text of a speech he plans to deliver Monday in the Senate.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department scientists have come up with genetic studies that may help save the whooping crane and other species of wildlife from extinction. Wildlife authorities have been working hard—and with no great degree of success—to try to save the whooping crane. All told, there are only about 50 of these wild birds in the wild and in captivity.

The studies, the department reported Saturday, make it possible to make an early determination of sex of young birds and pair them off under conditions more ideal for development. It is difficult to determine sex of these birds before they are grown.

"Early determination of sex," the department said, "could be a boon to wildlife specialists. With relatively few of these cranes in captivity, wildlife specialists must be able to sex young cranes as soon as possible."

"GIRL CRAZY" TO HAVE ONLY ONE WEEKEND VIEWING

A Summer Theater '67, the Jacksonville civic summer theater project, is closing its season with "Girl Crazy!" This George and Ira Gershwin's "fun" musical was plucked from the 30's and updated to include a satire of the west of T.V. fame.

"Girl Crazy!" presents an extravaganza of songs, dances, chorus, piano, guitars in a plot that ranges from Mexico to Hollywood. Johnny Churchill, former T.V. star of "Cowpoke" has opened a dude ranch out west.

Sam Mason, his agent, and Frisco Kate, his old flame, want to get him back to the Hollywood range. Molly, the local postmistress, wants Johnny to clean up the real west as a real sheriff. Johnny decides that, so can he. From there a plot that spares few targets its barbs, rolls its merry way to an old fashioned western "shoot out" ending.

Songs included in "Girl Crazy!" are "Bidin My Time," "I Got Rhythm," "Strike Up the Band," and "Embraceable You."

"Girl Crazy!" is being done by the same company that last summer produced "Carnival," and is directed by Miss Geraldine Staley who also directed "Oklahoma" and "Kiss Me Kate" over the last two Illinois College seasons.

Sherry Choate, Pete Gallatin, and Karen Cox, all summer theatre regulars, have the leads. Due to a conflict with the Labor Day weekend, "Girl Crazy!" will be presented one weekend only, August 23, 24, 25, and 26. Curtain time has been changed to 8:30 p.m.; gates are open at 8:00 p.m.

Tickets for "Girl Crazy!" will be available at the gate of the Illinois College outdoor theater; $1.25 for adults and 75¢ for students.

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP)—African nationalist spokesmen said Saturday 43 members of Rhodesia security units have been killed in fierce battles that have been going on for six days in the Wankie coal-mining area 60 miles south of the Zambian border. African nationalists fighting the white-minority government in the rebellious British colony have automatic weapons, bazookas and explosives. Ames Chikereima, vice president of the Zimbabwe African Peoples Union, said at a news conference.

Oliver Tambo, deputy president of the South African National Congress, said nationalists also were preparing armed attacks against the white regime in South Africa.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist party newspaper Pravda said Saturday a hysterical anti-Soviet campaign by the government of Communist China has made impossible normal functioning of the Soviet Embassy in Peking.

It was the closest the Soviet Union has come to hinting that a break in diplomatic relations might result from attacks on the embassy last week and other anti-Soviet incidents.

Pravda said that Chinese propaganda was spreading malicious misstatements about the Soviet Union and that Russians have been subjected to "curses and direct attacks" in the streets of Peking.

ADEN (AP) — Three men, one a British air force sergeant and the two others believed to be off-duty British servicemen, were shot dead Saturday in the Aden suburb of Maalla, apparently by Arab terrorists.

The shootings occurred at two gasoline stations. In the first incident, the sergeant was shot as he was getting gasoline for his car. He was the first British serviceman to die since an emergency was declared in this colony on the Arabian Peninsula in December 1963.

Ninety minutes later, the other two men were gunned down at a gasoline station 100 yards away.

23 Involved In Six Highway Accidents

A total of 23 persons was involved in six accidents occurring on state highways Friday, and only one was hospitalized from injuries sustained in one of the crashes.

Five of the incidents occurred Friday afternoon, with four coming within minutes of each other.

Admitted to Passavant hospital, and listed in fair condition was the driver and sole occupant of one vehicle, involved in a separate incident, Ethel J. Brown, 27, of 312 South East street.

She was westbound on U.S. 36-54 five miles west of Jacksonville about 6:55 p.m. when her car hit standing water on the highway and skidded out of control.

The vehicle ran off the north side of the highway, up an embankment and struck a telephone pole.

Pinned Under Car

Mrs. Brown was thrown from the vehicle, and partially pinned underneath the car. Passing motorists lifted the vehicle and extracted her from underneath the car.

Minutes later, at the same location another accident occurred as motorists were slowing for the single car accident involving Mrs. Brown.

A westbound unit, operated by Fred R. Hoagland, 63, of Ashland had stopped in his lane of traffic to allow congestion caused by the accident to clear.

Hoagland's car was struck from the rear by a car, containing two persons, and driven by John E. Bown, 66, of route two, Winchester.

At 5:15 p.m., two separate accidents occurred at opposite ends of the county.

Brothers Hit Head-on

Danny L. Thady, 16, of Murrayville, had developed car troubles, and had stopped on the west side of U.S. 67 six miles south of the city.

His brother, Roger W. Thady, 18, also of Murrayville was northbound on U.S. 67. When Roger saw his brother's car stopped, he pulled off to see if he could be of assistance.

State police said that Roger, in attempting to leave the highway as fast as possible because of oncoming traffic, skidded on the wet shoulder and crashed head-on into his brother's car.

The two brothers were alone at the time of the accident. Another state policeman was dispatched to the junction of Ill. 104 and Ill. 100 at approximately the same time.

A station wagon, containing eight members of a Deer Creek, Ill. family, northbound, failed to stop for the stop sign at the junction and crashed into a unit, driven by Robert F. Meyer, 36, of Chapin, who was southbound attempting to turn left on Ill. 104.

The station wagon, driven by William J. Moser, 42, of Deer Creek, swerved to avoid the accident, but was unable to clear the Meyer vehicle.

Both vehicles were heavily damaged, and were removed from the scene by wrecker. Moser was ticketed for failure to stop at a stop sign.

A Vandalia, Ill. woman was treated and later released from Passavant hospital for injuries sustained in a two-car accident at the junction of U.S. 67 and the Murrayville - Nortonville road about four o'clock Friday afternoon.

Taken to the hospital was Mary Smith, 35, of Vandalia, Ill., a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Leroy J. Smith, 38.

State police reported that a car, operated by Robert E. Pennington, 65, of Murrayville was attempting to turn, when the Smith auto was trying to pass the Pennington auto.

Officers said that the Pennington auto turned into the side of the Smith auto. Both cars were driven from the scene.

Earlier Friday, a car and tractor trailer unit collided three and one-half miles east of Jacksonville on U.S. 36-54 about 9:10 a.m.

State troopers reported that both units, a car, operated by Aloise M. Kamp, 56, of Kampsville, and a Consolidated Freightways truck, driven by William A. Sumner, 32, of Lansing, Ill., both attempted to pass a school bus in the east-bound lane.

The Kamp vehicle slid onto the shoulder of the highway, but still collided with the rear of the tandem unit, being pulled by the truck.

SHIP IGNORES STRIKE

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A Canadian ship carrying a cargo of newsprint arrived in Milwaukee early Saturday and began unloading despite a strike by the Seafarers' International Union.

The strike, however, is expected to be in force at all Great Lakes ports by Monday.

The strike, however, is expected to be completed Saturday. Then the vessel will head for Chicago.

SIU President Leonard McLaughlin said in Montreal, Canada, that at least 56 Great Lakes vessels had been tied up by the strike which began Thursday.

Another freshman senator, Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said: "I won't express approval or disapproval, but I will express support. I have grave misgivings about the war from time to time, but I am not a military expert, and I won't pit my judgment against that of the experts."

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., made his reply to the canvass question — "Do you generally approve or disapprove of President Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam war?" — the occasion to announce he was leaving the ranks of those who approved to join those who disapproved.

He attacked what he called "the President's continuing and apparently open-ended policy of 'gradualism' in the war" and said it amounted to a never-win policy.

Once in a Lifetime

The silver dollar of 1878 (Morgan Head) is the only coin of the United States on which Old English lettering has appeared. Many numismatists believe that the choice of this type face was due to the fact that the designer, George Morgan, once was employed by the British Royal Mint and that is his way of injecting a little grace to the thought.

In God we trust

This would be interesting conjecture if William Barber, chief engraver of the mint, hadn't used the same type face in the same motto on his design for the silver dollar rejected in favor of the Morgan design.

The silver dollar has created a life and legend all its own; at this moment a new chapter is being written about the cartwheel. It is now listed as a commodity on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

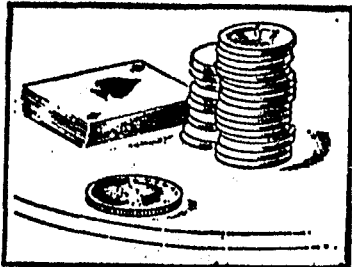

Several large firms with seats on the exchange consider a bag of silver dollars ($1,000) and valued at $1,700 to be better security than stock submitted by a stock broker. Traders offering silver dollars can guarantee their "stock" will not drop below $1,000. In the silver dollar futures market, closing prices are expected to be listed in the Wall Street Journal and financial sections of daily newspapers.

If the silver dollar is a success as a commodity on the exchange it will be because none have been minted since 1935 and the Treasury Department has a moratorium in production of silver dollars until 1970.

One thing is certain. The Treasury Department is keeping a sharp eye on this commodity operation.

One of the more interesting highlights in history credited in the silver dollar is the origin of pass - the - buck. Certain card games used a disk that was passed from one player to the other to denote a change in dealers. This disk was called the "buck." Before long these same games were being played, using the silver dollar as the "buck." Hence the expression: "Pass the buck," meaning to shift the responsibility.

A close watch on the silver dollar market shows uncirculated specimens rising slightly. The average circulated common date dollar can still be purchased from $1.35 to $1.50.

Picking a Ripe Melon

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Q — I seem to have had luck in selecting cantaloupe at my market. My mother always said, "Thump a melon to hear if it is ripe." Is there a better way?

A — Thumping won't get you anywhere with a melon. Instead, listen to tested advice of marketing experts at the U.S. Department of agriculture. "There are four ways to pick a good cantaloupe. First, look for a smooth shallow stem scar. Second, check the netting or veining. It should be thick, coarse, high - ridged and stand out in bold relief on the surface. Third, check the "ground" color between the netting. As the melon ripens, the color will change from green to a yellowish - buff, yellowish - gray or pale yellow. Fourth, check firmness, gently with both hands. The melon, especially the blossom end, should yield a little. It is best to select melons ripe enough to be eaten, rather than trying to let them ripen at home."

Q — I have arthritis in my wrists. Shouldn't I avoid red meat because it causes acid?

A — No, instead eat two servings of food from the meat group every day, advises "Diet Guide for the Patient with Arthritis" published by the Arthritis Foundation. The meat group includes beef, veal, lamb and pork (as well as eggs, poultry, fish and shellfish). These foods are needed for growth and repair of body tissues. So unless a qualified doctor advises you not to eat them, include them regularly in your meals. There is no such thing as a special arthritis diet, despite what uninformed friends may have told you.

Trace Tricky Paths Where Sub Could Hide

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON
AP Science Writer

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Tricky, curving sound paths in the ocean depths, behind which enemy submarines might hide, are being traced in minutes by a unique Navy oceanographic and weather center at this famous Pacific resort.

The oceanographic arm of the Fleet Numerical Weather Facility—FNWF—went operational only a year ago. But it probably is already the world's leading oceanographic forecast center.

Sound is the principal means of submarine detection. But sound paths bend in the ocean as temperature changes, creating sonar-proof curtains for submarines.

"We tell them where the sound is and is not," says Capt. Paul M. Wolff, chief of the facility.

"The paths and losses of sound in the sea are specified completely by oceanic conditions."

The facility has been using computers to solve complicated sound-temperature equations, draw velocity profiles and make sound-path calculations.

Two facility oceanographers, Lt. Cmdr. Peter R. Tatro and Aerographer's Mate Albert L. Seeke Jr., have developed a slide-rule device that enables each ship engaged in antisubmarine operations to predict some conditions of the sea, Wolff says.

"Each calculation performed on this gadget is in effect replacing a computer run costing $1,500," Tatro estimates.

He explains that sound waves emitted by a surfaced submarine will be bent down and converge at the surface again about 30 miles away, where detection is possible. Determining the convergence zone for enough ocean points to supply the Navy would be prohibitive in terms of computer time, he says.

Raw oceanographic information is relayed to the facility from about 1,000 surface ships. Included are sea-surface temperatures and subsurface thermal structures, wind waves, swells, currents, ocean fronts and many other kinds of information.

A computer analyzes the information and works up an oceanographic outlook for a specified area and time, available on request to operational commanders.

The facility stresses support of the fleet in antisubmarine warfare operations and the Polaris submarine missile-defense program. But it also works closely with the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and the Bureau of Mines.

More than half of its oceanographic soundings are supplied by fishing boats, Wolff says. The facility, in turn, furnishes the fishermen with water temperature, profiles and other information.

"They're catching more fish, and bureau officials are enthusiastic," Wolff comments.

The Bureau of Mines uses facility forecasts of wind and sea conditions for offshore drilling operations.

Wolff predicts rapid expansion of such nonmilitary services as world needs for foods and minerals increase.

Officials Feel Farmers Could Help Themselves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal farm officials feel that farmers themselves could be doing more to help themselves get better prices if they would be a little slower to rush new crops to market.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman has said several times in recent weeks that farmers should hold back more of their crops.

But heavy harvest sales of wheat—and the possibility of similar heavy sales of corn, soybeans and other crops when they are harvested—has tended to weaken farm prices more than the supply situation would justify, officials say.

Wheat prices are running as much as 40 cents a bushel below a year earlier—a development which has brought grower complaints and demands from some farm leaders in and out of Congress for new government measures to strengthen prices. Wheat prices are acting as if a new surplus had been created by this year's record large crop. But Freeman told a recent meeting of farm leaders "there is no over-all surplus of wheat as a result of the 1967 crop. The sharp drop in prices from a year ago is not justified on the basis of this year's production and prospective demand for wheat."

What Freeman wants more farmers to do is engage in what farm officials long have described as "orderly marketing." It is argued that if farmers rationed or prorated their marketing over a full year, their prices would not take big harvest-time dips.

The government stands ready to help financially in such regulated marketing through price-support loans on storable commodities placed in acceptable facilities on or off the farm.

These loans give farmers ready cash to help satisfy debts falling due around harvest time. Officials believe that if all farmers engaged in such orderly marketing, prices would strengthen as the sales season moved on. This would enable farmers to pay off loans, cash in on the price advances and come out with a larger total crop income.

The secretary believes also that farmers need to do a better job of sizing up market prospects and of adjusting their own production to those prospects—particularly in the case of products not covered by federal production adjustment programs. These are mainly livestock and livestock products. Freeman says he thinks much could be done to avert these production and price troubles if growers organized themselves into bargaining agencies.

The Weather Elsewhere

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

STATE
A chilly rain splattered throughout much of Illinois Saturday. High temperatures were mostly in the 60s, although a few southern points recorded 71s.

The gloomy weather was in the aftermath of a cold front which moved into the state and touched off severe electrical and wind storms, particularly in the northeastern corner of the state.

The Weather Bureau forecast somewhat better weather for the next few days, however, with partly clearing skies and warmer temperatures.

Carrier-based U.S. Navy pilots reported destroying 21 cargo barges and damaging 74. Air Force pilots said they destroyed or damaged another 18, including three large barges on a river 26 miles northwest of Dong Hoi.

That made the day's toll 113 river barges sunk or damaged compared to 108 reported Friday.

In the ground war Saturday, U.S. Marines used riot control gas to flush four Viet Cong suspects from a tunnel in hills 27 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The explosion of a grenade bearing chemicals that induce tears and nausea caused three men and a woman to crawl out of their hiding place after they had spurned orders from Leathernecks of the 5th Marine Regiment to surrender.

Associated Press photographer Rick Merron, who was on the scene, said a search of the tunnel by masked Marines yielded field packs, canteens and ammunition for a Communist assault rifle.

Highlights of other developments:

—U.S. pilots flew a near-record 188 multiple missions Friday in the recently expanded air war against North Vietnam. This was second only to the record of 197 missions set Aug. 3. Communist supply lines were the prime targets.

—In a periodic updating of aircraft losses in the war, the U.S. Command said 2,573 planes and helicopters had been destroyed from all causes. Planes downed in combat over North Vietnam totaled 647, over South Vietnam 199.

—A Marine reconnaissance team near the demilitarized zone spotted 15 North Vietnamese soldiers in green fatigues uniformly building bunkers. The Marines opened fire and without suffering a casualty killed five of the enemy and routed the rest.

—Paratroopers of the 1st Brigade, U.S. 101st Airborne Division, had three flights Friday. "fun" musical was plucked from the 30's and updated to include a satire of the west of T.V. fame.

Johnny decides that if Ronald Reagan did it, so can he. From there a plot that spares few targets its barbs, rolls its merry way to an old fashioned western "shoot out" ending.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., called Saturday for a total cutoff of U.S. arms aid to the military regime now ruling Greece.

That step would serve notice this country "does not in any way condone the assumption of power by a small, unrepresentative minority" in Greece, Clark said.

He made public the text of a speech he plans to deliver Monday in the Senate.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department scientists have come up with genetic studies that may help save the whooping crane and other species of wildlife from extinction.

Wildlife authorities have been working hard—and with no great degree of success—to try to save the whooping crane. All told, there are only about 50 of these wild birds in the wild and in captivity.

The studies, the department reported Saturday, make it possible to make an early determination of sex of young birds and pair them off under conditions more ideal for development. It is difficult to determine sex of these birds before they are grown.

"Early determination of sex," the department said, "could be a boon to wildlife specialists. With relatively few of these cranes in captivity, wildlife specialists must be able to sex young cranes as soon as possible."

23 Involved In Six Highway Accidents

A total of 23 persons was involved in six accidents occurring on state highways Friday and only one was hospitalized from injuries sustained in one of the crashes.

Five of the incidents occurred Friday afternoon, with four coming within minutes of each other.

Admitted to Passavant hospital, and listed in fair condition was the driver and sole occupant of one vehicle, involved in a separate incident, Ethel J. Brown, 27, of 312 South East street.

She was westbound on U.S. 36-54 five miles west of Jacksonville about 6:55 p.m. when her car hit standing water on the highway and skidded out of control.

The vehicle ran off the north side of the highway, up an embankment and struck a telephone pole.

Pinned Under Car
Mrs. Brown was thrown from the vehicle, and partially pinned underneath the car. Passing motorists lifted the vehicle and extracted her from underneath the car.

Minutes later, at the same location another accident occurred as motorists were slowing for the single car accident involving Mrs. Brown.

A westbound unit, operated by Fred R. Hoagland, 63, of Ashland had stopped in his lane of traffic to allow congestion caused by the accident to clear.

Hoagland's car was struck from the rear by a car, containing two persons, and driven by John E. Bown, 66, of route two, Winchester.

At 5:15 p.m., two separate accidents occurred at opposite ends of the county.

Brothers Hit Head-on
Danny L. Thady, 16, of Murfreesboro, had developed car troubles, and had stopped on the west side of U.S. 67 six miles south of the city.

His brother, Roger W. Thady, 18, also of Murfreesboro, was northbound on U.S. 67. When Roger saw his brother's car stopped, he pulled off to see if he could be of assistance.

State police said that Roger, in attempting to leave the highway as fast as possible because of oncoming traffic, skidded on the wet shoulder and crashed head-on into his brother's car.

The two brothers were alone at the time of the accident.

Another state policeman was dispatched to the junction of Ill. 104 and Ill. 100 at approximately the same time.

A station wagon, containing eight members of a Deer Creek, Ill. family, northbound, failed to stop for the stop sign at the junction and crashed into a unit, driven by Robert F. Meyer, 36, of Chapin, who was southbound attempting to turn left on Ill. 104.

The station wagon, driven by William J. Moser, 42, of Deer Creek, swerved to avoid the accident, but was unable to clear the Meyer vehicle.

Both vehicles were heavily damaged, and were removed from the scene by wrecker. Moser was ticketed for failure to stop at a stop sign.

A Vandalia, Ill. woman was treated and later released from Passavant hospital for injuries sustained in a two-car accident at the junction of U.S. 67 and the Murfreesboro - Nortonville road about four o'clock Friday afternoon.

Taken to the hospital was Mary Smith, 35, of Vandalia, Ill., a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Leroy J. Smith, 38.

State police reported that a car, operated by Robert E. Pennington, 65, of Murfreesboro, was attempting to turn, when the Smith auto was trying to pass the Pennington auto.

Officers said that the Pennington auto turned into the side of the Smith auto. Both cars were driven from the scene.

Earlier Friday, a car and tractor trailer unit collided three and one-half miles east of Jacksonville on U.S. 36-54 about 9:10 a.m.

State troopers reported that both units, a car, operated by Aloise M. Kamp, 56, of Kampsville, and a Consolidated Freightways truck, driven by William A. Summer, 32, of Lansing, Ill., both attempted to pass a school bus in the east-bound lane.

The Kamp vehicle slid onto the shoulder of the highway, but still collided with the rear of the tandem unit, being pulled by the truck.

Arab oil production for three months, saying this would drain Western European oil reserves and bring pressure on Israel to withdraw from Arab territories occupied during the June war.

Backed by Syria and Algeria, Iraq also calls for withdrawal of all Arab assets from British and U.S. banks.

Before the conference also is a Kuwait proposal calling for establishment of a common Arab "war and reconstruction fund," with a capital of $200 million, the reports from Baghdad said. Oil-rich Kuwait would put in the largest part of the capital.

Another freshman senator, Howard Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said: "I won't express approval or disapproval, but I will express support. I have grave misgivings about the war from time to time, but I am not a military expert, and I won't pit my judgment against that of the experts."

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., made his reply to the canvas question — "Do you generally approve or disapprove of President Johnson's conduct of the Vietnam war?" — the occasion to announce he was leaving the ranks of those who approved to join those who disapproved.

He attacked what he called "the President's continuing and apparently open-ended policy of 'gradualism' in the war" and said it amounted to a never-win policy.

"We simply must begin immediately to apply unrelenting military pressure on the enemy, bombing all targets of military significance, and closing the supply port of Haiphong. I believe it is important that we confront and defeat Communist aggression in Vietnam and create a series of Asian buffer states around Red China," Tower said.

But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., assistant majority leader, who described himself as "more of a hawk than the President," said he was standing behind Johnson.

"It seems to me that we are in this war and have no choice but to try and win it," he said.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who remains classed as a hawk, said "there is still no clear-cut policy which allows the military to use their forces most effectively and to strike at the enemy with a well-executed plan to defeat him, or force him to the peace table."

"I think it is bad policy for us to keep sending more and more men to war in South Vietnam while we fail to do all we can and should be doing in bombing North Vietnam."

Similarly, Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said: "We ought to do what is necessary to end the ability of North Vietnam to fight, destroy their food production, their military production."

Sens. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., John L. McClellan, D-Ark., and Paul J. Fannin, R-Ariz., said the President was not doing enough to win. McClellan and Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., said the bombing of the north should have been expanded two years ago.

But Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, a presidential policy supporter, said he was disappointed there had been no recent bombing lull to try to get negotiations started.

Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., approved the bombing expansion but said the administration was not getting enough allied help in the fighting.

To Sen. A.S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., Allen J. Ellender, D-La., Lister Hill, D-Ala., John Sparkman, D-Ala., and B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., the President had more information than anybody else and was in a better position to judge what should be done.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said he supported "the nature of our commitment in Vietnam."

"But I have reservations about aspects of the administration's policy," he said. "For example: I'm for negotiations with the NFL (Viet Cong). I have reservations about the troop increase. I think the other Asian nations should be helping us more."

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said if the President's policy "can be defined as unrelenting but controlled pressure, combined with an active search for peace negotiations, then, yes, I support it."

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., called the President's conduct of the war a

Once in a Lifetime

The silver dollar of 1878 (Morgan Head) is the only coin of the United States on which Old English lettering has appeared. Many numismatists believe that the choice of this type face was due to the fact that the de-

If the silver dollar is a success as a commodity on the exchange it will be because none have been minted since 1935 and the Treasury Department has a moratorium in production of silver dollars until 1970.

In God we trust

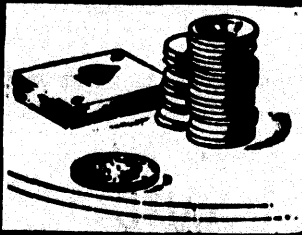

signer, George Morgan, once was employed by the British Royal Mint and that is his way of injecting a little grace to the thought.

This would be interesting conjecture if William Barber, chief engraver of the mint, hadn't used the same type face in the same motto on his design for the silver dollar rejected in favor of the Morgan design. The silver dollar has created a life and legend all its own; at this moment a new chapter is being written about the cartwheel. It is now listed as a commodity on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Several large firms with seats on the exchange consider a bag of silver dollars ($1,000) and valued at $1,700 to be better security than stock submitted by a stock broker. Traders offering silver dollars can guarantee their "stock" will not drop below $1,000. In the silver dollar futures market, closing prices are expected to be listed in the Wall Street Journal and financial sections of daily newspapers.

One thing is certain. The Treasury Department is keeping a sharp eye on this commodity operation. One of the more interesting highlights in history credited in the silver dollar is the origin of pass - the - buck. Certain card games used a disk that was passed from one player to the other to denote a change in dealers. This disk was called the "buck." Before long these same games were being played, using the silver dollar as the "buck." Hence the expression: "Pass the buck," meaning to shift the responsibility.

A close watch on the silver dollar market shows uncirculated specimens rising slightly. The average circulated common date dollar can still be purchased from $1.35 to $1.50.

Picking a Ripe Melon

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. Q — I seem to have had luck in selecting cantaloupes at my market. My mother always said, "Thump a melon to hear if it is ripe." Is there a better way?

A — Thumping won't get you anywhere with a melon. Instead, listen to tested advice of marketing experts at the U.S. Department of Agriculture. "There are four ways to pick a good cantaloupe. First, look for a smooth shallow stem scar. Second, check the netting or veining. It should be thick, coarse, high - ridged and stand out in bold relief on the surface. Third, check the "ground" color between the netting. As the melon ripens, the color will change from green to a yellowish - buff, yellowish - gray or pale yellow. Fourth, check firmness, gently with both hands. The melon, especially the blossom end, should yield a little. It is best to select melons ripe enough to be eaten, rather than trying to let them ripen at home."

Q — I have arthritis in my wrists. Shouldn't I avoid red meat because it causes acid?

A — No, instead eat two servings of food from the meat group every day, advises "Diet Guide for the Patient with Arthritis" published by the Arthritis Foundation. The meat group includes beef, veal, lamb and pork (as well as eggs, poultry, fish and shellfish). These foods are needed for growth and repair of body tissues. So unless a qualified doctor advises you not to eat them, include them regularly in your meals. There is no such thing as a special arthritis diet, despite what uninformed friends may have told you.

Trace Tricky Paths Where Sub Could Hide

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON

AP Science Writer MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Tricky, swirling sound paths in the ocean depths, behind which enemy submarines might hide, are being traced in minutes by a unique Navy oceanographic and weather center at this famous Pacific resort.

The oceanographic arm of the Fleet Numerical Weather Facility—FNWF—went operational only a year ago. But it probably is already the world's leading oceanographic forecast center.

Sound is the principal means of submarine detection. But sound paths bend in the ocean as temperature changes, creating sonar-proof curtains for submarines.

"We tell them where the sound is and not," says Capt. Paul M. Wolff, chief of the facility.

"The paths and losses of sound in the sea are specified completely by oceanic conditions."

The facility has been using computers to solve complicated sound-temperature equations, draw velocity profiles and make sound-path calculations.

Two facility oceanographers, Lt. Cmdr. Peter R. Tatro and Aerographer's Mate Albert L. Seake Jr., have developed a slide-rule device that enables each ship engaged in antisubmarine operations to predict sonic conditions of the sea, Wolff says.

"Each calculation performed on this gadget is in effect replacing a computer run costing $1,500," Tatro estimates.

He explains that sound waves emitted by a surfaced submarine will be bent down and converge at the surface again about 30 miles away, where detection is possible. Determining the convergence zone for enough ocean points to supply the Navy would be prohibitive in terms of computer time, he says.

Raw oceanographic information is relayed to the facility from about 1,000 surface ships. Included are sea-surface temperatures and subsurface thermal structures, wind waves, swells, currents, ocean fronts and many other kinds of information.

A computer analyzes the information and works up an oceanographic outlook for a specified area and time, available on request to operational commanders.

The facility stresses support of the fleet in antisubmarine warfare operations and the Polaris submarine missile-defense program. But it also works closely with the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and the Bureau of Mines.

More than half of its oceanographic soundings are supplied by fishing boats, Wolff says. The facility, in turn, furnishes the fishermen with water temperature, profiles and other information.

"They're catching more fish, and bureau officials are enthusiastic," Wolff comments. The Bureau of Mines uses facility forecasts of wind and sea conditions for offshore drilling operations. Wolff predicts rapid expansion of such nonmilitary services as world needs for foods and minerals increase.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Aggett and Mrs. Earl Adams attended funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Walker Willett Wednesday in East St. Louis.

Mrs. Willett was a cousin of Mrs. Aggett, Mrs. Adams and Darrell Walker, all of Ashland.

ZIPPER COMES INTO OWN

The zipper, formerly so humble it was scarcely visible, will have trouble recognizing itself this fall. The zipper has not only grown in use, but is also as well. You'll find them opening and closing pockets, down the fronts of dresses, across the backs of a neckline hiding a hood and even on sleeves of jackets for handy little pockets.

To achieve a smooth exterior, such undergarments should have as few seams as possible. Those like the swim suit itself, should always be subdued out after each wearing.

NICHOLS PARK LADIES DAY GOLF NEWS

Someone up there must have heard my plea for nice weather as we could not have ordered a more delightful morning than last Tuesday. If I knew of a place that had that kind of weather year around, I'd be willing to pack my belongings and move.

Play for the day was the longest drive on the second hole as well as the most 4's and 5's. First flight winners were Marge Howard, most 4's, and Marge Walker, longest drive. Lorraine Buchanan had the most 5's and Garry Olson had the longest drive in the second flight.

Second round winners were Fran Chumley over Lucille Eberhardt and Marge Howard over Toni Rayburn. The final round was also completed last week with Fran Chumley defeating Marge Howard. Congratulations, Fran!

Local Delegates Return From National Meet

Mrs. Charlene Strubbe and Mrs. Alvahlee S. McCarthy who represented Omicron chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa at the International Convention, held at the Radisson Hotel in Minneapolis have returned to their homes.

Nationally known speakers—Emily Kimbrough, Dr. Cleo Dawson (with an extreme hat for each appearance) and Dr. Ruth I. Golden, whose articles appear in many good educational magazines, brought much food for thought. A style show with Lady Radisson as mistress of ceremonies, tours of the twin cities and on a free afternoon and evening a dramatic production at the new Guthrie Theatre (built with apron stage where actors are never more than sixty feet from the audience) were some of the high lights.

Two International Committees, music and tours kept Mrs. McCarthy busy during free time. A 3-bus tour to the famous Betty Crocker Kitchens was arranged in a day and a half and greatly enjoyed. This new establishment has seven kitchens completed in decor of U.S. and other lands. THE CONTOURA FINGER RING

THE CONTOURA FINGER RING IS A FINGER-FITTING RING

CONTOURA™ is the part that goes around your finger. The part that either fits or doesn't. That either is comfortable or isn't. The part that makes you ring a joy to wear all the time or makes you take it off even faster than a tight pair of shoes.

We have just designed a new kind of shank that always fits. Always feels comfortable. Lasts longer than any conventional shank. That won't hurt when someone squeezes your hand. A new kind of finger-shaped, finger-fitting shank that isn't round because your finger isn't round. It's called CONTOURA™.

Today's hand was played in the recent Fort Worth regionals. South's four heart opening was standard and most West players bid five diamonds and played it there.

The play at five diamonds was also standard. West would ruff the opening heart lead, play two rounds of trumps and a club. After this start declarer would wind up with an overtrick. There would be a brief discussion as to how the slam might have been bid and everyone would agree that it was almost impossible.

At one table West doubled. He was accustomed to playing the double of four hearts for takeout. East was not aware of this and passed.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued after East signaled with the nine. South ruffed the second diamond and really should have pulled trumps right away but he was the sort of devious player who looked for swindles. He led the deuce of spades at trick three.

West looked the dummy over carefully and then played his queen of spades. East ruffed the nine and West really studied the hand this time.

It was well that he did because his next play was the four of spades. East ruffed and played his king of clubs and eventually South was down two tricks. The 500 point minus gave him a bottom score because no one had bid the slam.

East was effusive in his praise. "How did you figure the play out?" he asked. "I put myself in your place," replied West.

"I finally concluded that you would not have played the nine from nine - small and that therefore you either held the king or the nine was a singleton. In the first case, the lead wouldn't hurt. In the second case, it would give us an extra trick."

Aspirations of Zionism,
Judaism Differ but Overlap

By DAVID POLING
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the most baffling questions for American Christians has been the resurgence of Zionism. The Holy Land conflict has drawn emotional support from the Jewish community in this country that has been translated into several millions of dollars for Israel.

Commentators in the press and on radio and television have taken to finding Old Testament texts for the Sinai Strategy of Gen. Moshe Dayan. Billy Graham told London reporters that it was all there in the Bible, prophecy being fulfilled before your eyes. (But he hastened to add that Vietnam was not in scripture, hence he was not prepared to comment on the destiny of that war.)

What has not been clear—only more thoroughly confused—is the merging of Judaism and Zionism in the mind of the public. They are not one cloth, although the two forces often overlap. Judaism is a world religion—with or without Israel as a homeland. The major branches of Judaism—Orthodox, Conservative, and Reform—are not automatically pushing their people to return to the Holy Lands.

The members of this religious community are part of the nations in which they live. Whether they live in Great Britain or Mexico or Brazil, they are citizens of that country. Their religious identification may be Jewish but their belonging to the national life is the same as Catholics, Presbyterians or Mormons.

The Zionist movement has been primarily a "secular dream," to use the words of Dr. Willard Oxtoby of Yale University. The aspirations of the Zionists have been fulfilled in the establishment of a socialist government supported by a Hebrew-speaking people. There is indeed a strong religious passion in Zionism that combines national goals and divine destiny.

David Ben Gurion, writing in "Looks Back," believes that his book, "David Ben Gurion prophets pointed to 'the restoration of Jewish national life on its own soil and for the establishment there of a model society which will become a 'light unto the nations.' Through it will come universal redemption, the reign of righteousness and human brotherhood and the elimination of wickedness."

Thus we have Zionists with no religious interest in Judaism but a keen intensity for a Hebrew-speaking people and nation in the Holy Land. We have Judaism, a worldwide religious community, with its own national loyalties and attachments yet concerned for Israel.

And to further stir the pot, there are Christian Zionists who were led in the 19th century by the Rev. William Hechler, an Anglican priest. Hechler urged the Christian community to support the political Zionism of Theodore Herzl at the turn of the century.

Rev. Hechler believed in an imminent Second Coming of Christ. He taught that the return of Jesus would signal his rule from the Holy Land. He was convinced that the Jews would hail him as the Messiah. Christians and the Chosen People would govern the world.

Though tiny, this Christian Zionist sect is still active. They were greatly encouraged by the recent military adventures that recaptured Jerusalem.

Out of all this shooting and shouting, we must hold to this truth: The Holy Land provides sacred history for Christians, Jews and Moslems. Any future settlement will be only as stable as the considerations given to each group. They all share the gift of life, not by Nasser or Ben Gurion or Hussein—but by God.

BOSWELL, Okla. (AP) — Although 25-year-old Lynn Campbell can no longer get outside, she paints remembered outdoor scenes from her bed. Paralyzed from the neck down by polio eight years ago, she is confined to an iron lung.

Miss Campbell knew nothing about art, but after her illness she learned to paint, holding a specially made foot-long brush with her teeth. Working six hours a day, six days a week, she completes an average of one picture a week and has sold many of them.

LADY IN PULPIT

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — An ordained minister for 35 years, the Rev. Miss Florence Stevens is the only woman in the state with a pastorate.

Recently appointed pastor of Warren Methodist Church, she believes that women can do the job just as well as men—if not better. "Women are more sympathetic and often find it easier to talk with people," she points out. "Visitation is an important pastoral duty and though some men find it uncomfortable, it's usually easy for a woman."

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

RAILROAD ELECTION — Our city authorities have ordered an election to be held in the several wards of this city on Tuesday, Sept. 17, to determine whether the city council shall be instructed to subscribe $75,000 worth of stock in the St. Louis, Jacksonville and Chicago railroad, on condition that the principal machine shops of the road be located in Jacksonville within six months.

The circus, after performing here, had to turn downstream instead of moving to Bath, as it was impossible to get such a large boat over the bar. The side show, though, chartered the Farragut of this place and moved above.

It will perhaps be a matter of interest to some that on the first Monday of this month, an election was held for school director, which resulted in the choice of Mr. Catlin by a large majority. We mention this as a matter of record.

From the Carrollton Gazette: J. Lavery, Geo. DeBolt, and Fred Cook are making arrangements to build handsome workshops on the street running to the depot. This looks like business. The buildings will be two story bricks, we believe.

A Circus is advertised to be in our city Wednesday next. It will be at White Hall on the 20th.

LAW on the farm

THE SALES TAX AND THE FARMER

URBANA — The Illinois sales tax actually consists of a series of revenue measures. When we refer to the sales tax, however, we most commonly think of the retailers' occupation tax.

The retailers' occupation tax is a tax upon persons engaged in the retail selling of tangible personal property in Illinois. A sale is "at retail" if the goods are sold for use or consumption by the buyer. Sales of goods that are to be resold later or incorporated into property that is to be resold later are not considered retail sales.

Some transactions are exempt from the sales tax. Many of the items farmers buy for use in livestock feeding operations or in crop production are considered to be incorporated into products for later resale.

For example, feed supplements, seed, and fertilizers would not be subject to the tax. But products such as gas and oil, stock tonics and other medical preparations, and agricultural chemicals, such as weed killers and pesticides, are considered purchased by the farmer for his own use and consumption. They are, therefore, subject to the sales tax.

An occasional sale of goods at retail is not subject to taxation, provided the seller is not regularly engaged in selling goods at retail and does not "hold himself out to the public" (through any form of advertising) as being in a retail business. If a farmer occasionally sells meat, eggs, or vegetables to friends, but does not hold himself out as a seller at retail, he may come within the "occasional sale" exception and may not be liable for tax on those sales.

But if the farmer sells part of his production of fruit or eggs through a roadside stand, advertises that he has produce—such as strawberries—for sale at his home, or simply retails produce on a fairly regular basis, these sales would be subject to the sales tax. This would be true even if the customers picked their own berries.

Sales in interstate commerce are also exempt from the Illinois sales tax. Therefore, if an Illinois sales has contracted to deliver goods outside the state without their returning to this state, there is no sales tax liability. For example, if he sells all of his carrot crop to an Indiana consumer with delivery to be made in Indiana, the sale is not subject to the Illinois sales tax.

Sales to an non-profit organization, operated exclusively for charitable, religious, or educational purposes, are also exempt from the sales tax.

Farmers who are regularly engaged in retail selling are required to get a registration certificate from the Department of Revenue, report all taxable sales, and pay any sales tax that may be due. There is a five dollar exemption, so only tax of more than five dollars is required to be paid to the department. Failure to do so may subject the farmer to civil and criminal penalties.

When's Best Time To Apply Ammonia?

The presence of free ammonia and a high pH in the soil zone where anhydrous ammonia has been applied have led University of Illinois agronomists to investigate the best time and place to apply anhydrous ammonia.

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

ILLINOIS LAND
PERCENT IN 1966

Prices of farmland continue their upward climb. The national average rate of climb was 8 percent in 1966.

But prices of land went up even faster in the Corn Belt and the South. The gain in Illinois was 12 percent; in Iowa, Missouri, and Indiana, 13 percent; and in Ohio, 10 percent. Prices of farmland in Georgia and Alabama went up 12 percent, while values in Mississippi and Louisiana climbed 10 percent.

We hear many questions about prices of farmland: Why do land prices go up? And when will they stop? You can give and get a lot of different answers to these questions.

One popular explanation for the rise in land prices is that many farmers need more acres to make a profit, and so they bid up the price of land to enlarge their farms. There is some merit to this argument. But it does not tell the whole story. Most of these purchasers would not buy land if they did not expect it to return a profit.

While two-thirds of the farmland purchases were for farm enlargement, one-third were for other purposes. The pressure to become bigger was not the cause of these purchases.

If farmland were not a profitable investment many owners would sell—and put their money into something else. But only 5 percent of the sellers sold because their farmland was an unsatisfactory investment for them.

It is said that farmland is too high because the average rate of return is less than the interest rate on farm mortgages: "Farmland won't pay for itself at these prices."

Why should farmland pay for itself, when the buyer borrows to buy it? We don't expect to be able to borrow money to buy a bond and have the interest pay for the bond. Nor do we expect to borrow from a bank, buy corporation stocks—and wait for the dividends to pay the interest and principal on the bank loan.

A lot of bonds now yield 5 to 6 percent. That's more than most farmland will make at present prices. But the people who buy farmland are not fools. They have good reasons to expect that at least half of the return from the bonds will be lost through inflation. That brings the real return on bonds down to or below the return on land. Dividends on corporation stocks range from zero to 5 percent with many returning 3 to 4 percent. Well-managed land does as well, or better.

Land buyers also expect, with good reason, that land values will go up. Three big economic forces are at work to raise land

The agronomists explain that immediately after applying anhydrous ammonia, the pH level rises sharply. But as nitrification begins, the pH level drops. And it continues to drop below the pH level that existed before the application.

The gaseous NH₃ in the top part of a sprayer tank containing liquid ammonia forces the liquid into the soil.

As the liquid ammonia is released into the soil, it changes to gas and combines with soil moisture to form ammonium ions. The negatively charged clay particles adsorb the ammonium ions that are positively charged.

In a few cases when anhydrous ammonia was applied at planting time, there has been some evidence of toxicity to soil microorganisms, seeds and young seedlings.

While anhydrous ammonia can be side-dressed, the agronomists suggest that you wait until you've finished planting and can row the corn. You can make side-dressed applications from that time until the corn is knee-high.

DOUBT AG. DEPT. WILL UP PRICE SUPPORT RATES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials said Friday the government is concentrating on ways of strengthening farm prices, but is not contemplating increases in previously announced price support rates.

These efforts are being emphasized for grains and soybeans — crops which have lost price ground in commodity markets since it became apparent this year's production of wheat, corn and soybeans would be at record high levels.

The price support rates average $1.25 a bushel for wheat, $1.06 for corn and $2.75 for soybeans.

The department's main thrust at this time involves appeals of farmers that they hold back 1967 crop grains until later in the marketing year. It advises them to take advantage of the price support loans.

The government is seeking to expedite shipment of wheat abroad under its Food for Peace program.

The government continues to make clear that it will not sell any government-owned wheat for less than 115 per cent of the loan rate plus carrying charges — a price which is above current market prices.

The department also has under consideration a proposal that it extend the maturity date of price support loans on wheat stored in commercial warehouses.

In the case of corn, the department may soon announce changes in its schedule of paying premiums and discounts.

values: (1) The population is growing while land area is not. (2) Our rising standard of living requires land for many purposes. (3) Inflation raises the money value of land.

While we expect the trend of land prices to continue to go upward, we expect some setbacks such as happens in the prices of corporation stocks.

BRIMFUL and running over By Jim Brim

You know it's almost time for school to start the fall term! Over and over again we hear the excuses of high school graduates for not furthering their education.

It doesn't matter what you expect to do—learn all you can about a subject or a job and you will be worth more to your employer and to yourself.

Learn a skill that will be useful to yourself and others so that you do not become an unemployed statistic.

The prize excuse for not going on to any type of school is "I can't afford it." If you have worked hard in high school and can show a record of serious pursuit of your high school subjects you may be surprised at the areas of possible financial help. Check on loans, scholarships, work opportunities, etc. Able students cannot use the excuse of no money.

Continually the cry is heard—"I'm going to farm. I don't need to go to school."

Anybody who has kept up to date knows that the more you know the better off you will be when you face the myriad problems of farming.

We have many agricultural courses offered at our colleges and universities. At our junior colleges we have many new opportunities.

Now you should...

- ...Buy school supplies
- ...Attend reunions.
- ...Look at new fall clothes.
- ...Barbecue.
- ...Build a concrete feeding floor.
- ...Pipe water to hogs.
- ...Show vacation pictures.
- ...Recreate from your vacation.

It's trying to live comfortably that makes life rough.

20 Years Of Water, Soil Conservation Work In Three Days?

Sometimes a farmer can't solve a conservation problem in the best way within the boundaries of his farm.

And when this is the case, University of Illinois agricultural engineer Ralph Hay and U. of I. soil conservationist Robert Walker suggest that a farmer team up with his neighbors to solve the problem.

The farms selected as the site for the 1967 Illinois Land Improvement Contractors' Association (ILICA) Soil and Water Conservation Show will illustrate how neighbors can cooperate to better conserve their land.

Several conservation projects featured in the show will be built across the farm lines, including a pond that will also provide recreation facilities.

Hay and Walker report that when farm owners want to team up to solve their conservation problems, they have two choices:

—They can individually submit the part of the project that will be located on their land and receive a maximum Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) payment of $2,500.

—Of they can submit a plan to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) and request a "pooling agreement." Under this plan a farmer may receive a larger ACP payment.

The U. of I. staff members point out that major conservation problems can often be solved most efficiently and economically if the pooling agreement arrangement is used.

For example, when a waterway cuts through several farms, a single, large conservation structure may stabilize the area more effectively than several small structures constructed by two or three farmers who own land along the waterway.

The August 23-25 ILICA show will be held six miles north of Galesburg on farms owned by Dale Cain and Claire Pottorf.

People who fly to the Galesburg Airport will be transported to and from the show. And air tours will be conducted while the show is underway.

The show will start each day at 9 a.m. and will end at 5 p.m. Major manufacturers of farm and construction equipment, tile and culverts will be exhibiting at the show.

Hay and Walker say that 20 years of conservation work will be completed during the three-day show.

Report Jersey Cattle Suffer From Pinkeye

JERSEYVILLE—Some herds of cattle in the Jersey county area are reported to be suffering from pink eye.

The disease is of a contagious nature and is reported as characterized by inflammation and soreness of the membrane that lines the eyelids and covers the eyeball.

The disease is reported as capable of producing blindness in cattle unless treated as soon as possible in its initial stages.

Several years ago, pinkeye appeared in cattle in the area east and northeast of Kane, and some dairy cattle lost their sight before control measures were instituted and the disease checked.

Old timers here Wednesday recalled when pinkeye infected hundreds of horses in the Jersey county locality before the days of mechanized equipment. Horses were blinded in numbers. The animal continued in use, however, and it was customary to hitch a blind horse in the middle of a three horse plow team. The blind horse would pull just as strongly and do a day's work the same as his companions with vision.

4-H Club Activities

AREZVILLE — The eighth meeting of the Indian Creek 4-H Club was held recently in the Arenzville Village Park, with 22 members and 4 guests answering roll call. Pledges to the United States and 4-H flags opened the meeting.

Entries were made for the Cass County Fair, which will be held at Virginia the last week in August.

Sue Moffitt gave a talk, "Handling Horses," and Jenni Schone's was "Self Feeding vs Hand Feeding."

Jim Lovelamp gave a demonstration on Durac ear notching.

Refreshments were served by Ronnie and Richard Vanderpool. The annual tour of the Indian Creek 4-H Club took place on July 30, with members and their families visiting 13 homes to view the projects nearing completion. The 40 persons taking the tour were treated to refreshments afterward at the Village Inn Cafe, with the compliments of the Club.

Geological Survey Has A New Map

Dr. John C. Frye, chief of the Illinois State Geological Survey, has announced the publication of a new geologic map of Illinois.

This map, which is reproduced on a scale of 1:500,000 (1 inch equals approximately 80 miles), incorporates much new data and is completely recompiled from the edition of 1945.

A series of 36 colors has been used to delineate the outcrop patterns of various rocks deposited during hundreds of millions of years of geologic time. The colors depict how the outcrop patterns would appear if all of the unconsolidated glacial and alluvial deposits were stripped away. Two generalized columnar sections in color depict the vertical sequence of rock units in Southern and Northern Illinois. Six different glacial boundaries are shown on the map.

A north-south cross-section shows the generalized structure or attitude of the various rock units underlying the state as they would appear along the sides of a deep slot or canyon from Rockford to Cairo. Two east-west cross sections represent the generalized structure from Momence to Rock Island in the north and from Carmi to Belleville in the south part of the state.

An additional series of six colored maps (4 1/2 x 8 inches) show the glacial geology, thickness of unconsolidated surface materials, structure and ancient geologic history of Illinois.

Dr. H. B. Willman, geologist and head of the survey's Stratigraphy and Areal Geology Section, supervised compilation of the map. Others who contributed to the map were J. C. Frye, J. A. Simon, K. E. Clegg, Elwood Atherton, D. H. Swann, C. W. Collinson, T. C. Buschbach and J. A. Lineback.

A free copy of this map (41 x 58 inches overall) may be obtained by writing to the Illinois State Geological Survey, Urbana, Illinois 61801

DAVID POLING

Aspirations of Zionism,
Judaism Differ but Overlap

David Poling

By DAVID POLING
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the most baffling questions for American Christians has been the resurgence of Zionism. The Holy Land conflict has drawn emotional support from the Jewish community in this country that has been translated into several millions of dollars for Israel. Commentators in the press and on radio and television have taken to finding Old Testament texts for the Sinai Strategy of Gen. Moshe Dayan. Billy Graham told London reporters that it was all there in the Bible, prophecy being fulfilled before your eyes. (But he hastened to add that Vietnam was not in scripture, hence he was not prepared to comment on the destiny of that war.)

What has not been clear—is the merging of Judaism and Zionism in the mind of the public. They are not one cloth, although the two forces often overlap. Judaism is a world religion—with or without Israel as a homeland. The major branches of Judaism—Orthodox, Conservative, and Reform—are not automatically pushing their people to return to the Holy Lands.

The members of this religious community are part of the nations in which they live. Whether they live in Great Britain or Mexico or Brazil, they are citizens of that country. Their religious identification may be Jewish but their belonging to the national life is the same as Catholics, Presbyterians or Mormons.

The Zionist movement has been primarily a "secular dream," to use the words of Dr. Willard Oxtoby of Yale University. The aspirations of the Zionists have been fulfilled in the establishment of a socialist government supported by a Hebrew-speaking people. There is indeed a strong religious passion in Zionism that combines national goals and divine destiny.

David Ben Gurion, writing in "Looks Back," believes that the book, "David Ben Gurion prophets pointed to 'the restoration of Jewish national life on its own soil and for the establishment there of a model society which will become a light unto the nations.' Through it will come universal redemption, the reign of righteousness and human brotherhood and the elimination of wickedness."

Thus we have Zionists with no religious interest in Judaism but a keen intensity for a Hebrew-speaking people and nation in the Holy Land. We have Judaism, a worldwide religious community, with its own national loyalties and attachments yet concerned for Israel.

And to further stir the pot, there are Christian Zionists who were led in the 19th century by the Rev. William Hechler, an Anglican priest. Hechler urged the Christian community to support the political Zionism of Theodore Herzl at the turn of the century.

Rev. Hechler believed in an imminent Second Coming of Christ. He taught that the return of Jesus would signal his rule from the Holy Land. He was convinced that the Jews would hail him as the Messiah. Christians and the Chosen People would govern the world.

Though tiny, this Christian Zionist sect is still active. They were greatly encouraged by the recent military adventures that recaptured Jerusalem.

Out of all this shooting and shouting, we must hold to this truth: The Holy Land provides sacred history for Christians, Jews and Moslems. Any future settlement will be only as stable as the considerations given to each group. They all share the gift of life, not by Nasser or Ben Gurion or Hussein—but by God.

BOSWELL, Okla. (AP) — Although 25-year-old Lynn Campbell can no longer get outside, she paints remembered outdoor scenes from her bed. Paralyzed from the neck down by polio eight years ago, she is confined to an iron lung.

Miss Campbell knew nothing about art, but after her illness she learned to paint, holding a specially made foot-long brush with her teeth. Working six hours a day, six days a week, she completes an average of one picture a week and has sold many of them.

LADY IN PULPIT

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — An ordained minister for 35 years, the Rev. Miss Florence Stevens is the only woman in the state with a pastorate.

Recently appointed pastor of Warren Methodist Church, she believes that women can do the job just as well as men—if not better. "Women are more sympathetic and often find it easier to talk with people," she points out. "Visitation is an important pastoral duty and though some men find it uncomfortable, it's usually easy for a woman."

Patterson Picnic Falls Below Record Made In '66

PATTERSON—Ideal weather was on hand Thursday, August 10th, when Patterson held its annual fish and chicken fry which benefited the three local cemeteries.

A large group attended the event. There were 825 meals served at noon and 1,186 meals served in the evening. This amount was 258 less than in 1966.

The menu as usual consisted of fried fish and chicken, baked hens, dressing and noodles, a variety of salads and vegetables, cake, pie, coffee, and iced tea. The meal was served family style.

The gross receipts amounted to $6,277.14. At this time there is no estimate of net receipts.

The entertainment in the afternoon and evening included the Mid-West Rangers, the Lester Family, North Greene Band Boosters, and other local talent.

Mrs. Rose Bigham was awarded a decorated cake, baked and donated by Miss Marjorie Watt of White Hall.

Cool weather in the evening caused the major part of the crowd to leave early.

Wins County Honors In Open Competition

By ANDREA HEISS

Experience is not always a necessary ingredient in the recipe for success.

For ten-year-old Patty Jo Crawford, this was a year of firsts.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ivan Crawford of route one Ashland, former residents of Jacksonville, Patty entered her coffee cake among seventy other 4-H'ers and received the Best Show Award in the Quick Bread Division at the Morgan County Fair.

The Quick Bread Division includes plain muffins, nut bread, banana bread, corn bread, and coffee cake. Patty's entry was judged best in this class regardless of age. She also totaled more points than anyone else in the culinary division, with two blue ribbons for her green beans and icebox cookies, a second for her assorted cookies, and a third for her tart shells.

How did one so young become a prize-winning patron of the culinary arts?

"I like to cook, and my older sister, who also likes to cook, helped me become interested," Patty smiled.

In her family too many cooks do not spoil the broth, for her two older sisters, mother and grandmother have always been known as excellent cooks. Has this instilled an innate love for cooking in her?

"I only go into the kitchen when I have to," said Patty, "like to dry dishes or something. My favorite part of cooking is tasting it afterwards."

Pear Crumble Coffee Cake
1 1/2 lb. can sliced pears, drained (1 1/2 c.)
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 1/4 oz. pkg. orange muffin mix
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup sifted all purpose flour
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
4 tbsp. butter

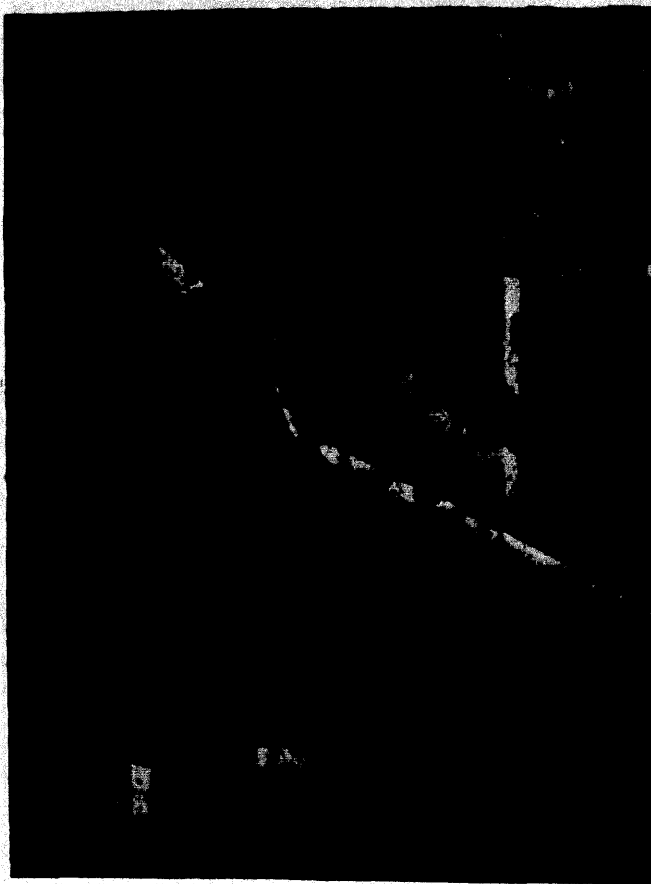

Sprinkle pear slices with lemon juice—set aside. Prepare muffin mix according to pkg. directions. Turn into greased 8x8x2 pan. Top with pear slices. Mix sugar, flour, and cinnamon. Cut in butter until mixture is crumbly, sprinkle over pears.

Bake at 400 degrees for 30-35 minutes. Serve warm. Makes nine servings.

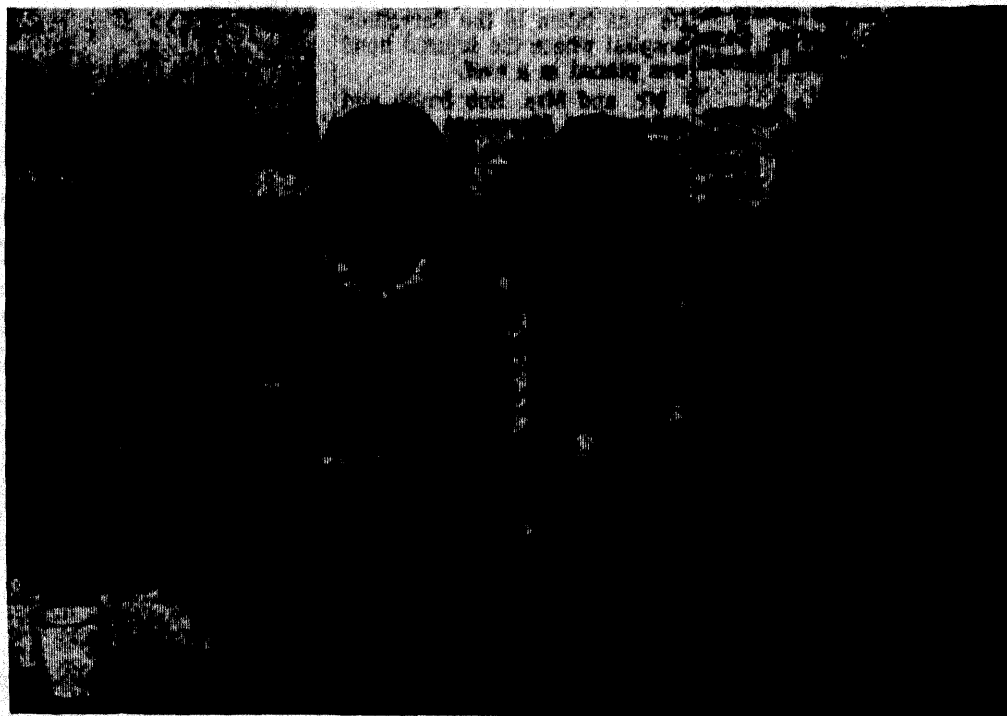

Patty, a fifth grader at Ashland Elementary School, laughed that one of the judges had commented that her coffee cake was "mighty good."

This was the first time she had entered the Morgan County Fair competition, her first year of membership in 4-H, and surprisingly enough, the first time she had made this kind of coffee cake.

"I'd never used this recipe before. I just baked it and entered it. I was really surprised, naturally. I didn't even know there was an award like that."

PATTY SMILES as she reaches to remove her award-winning coffee cake from the oven.

Gallant Ship Bearing Noted Name Sits Forlornly Rusting

By GEORGE W. WILBUR

Associated Press Writer

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A great and gallant ship bearing one of the most hallowed names in U.S. naval history sits forlornly at the Norfolk Naval Base, her towering, rust-spattered hull in sharp contrast to the gleaming ships of the Atlantic Fleet.

She flies no flags. The white light of cutting torches reflects dimly from her sharply sloping sides. Cranes noisily lift house-size chunks of steel plate from her decks and superstructure.

The fading name on her sternplate reads: Franklin.

Visitors to the base on Hampton Roads pay scant attention to the hulk of "Big Ben." Many of them are too young to recall the valiant role played by the aircraft carrier in World War II. Only a few remember her as the most heavily damaged major U.S. warship ever to return to port under her own power.

What the Franklin experienced as a result of enemy action was repeated on a lesser scale recently when the carrier Forrestal suffered heavy damage as the result of a shipboard mishap off Vietnam.

But while the Franklin is a derelict doomed to destruction, the Forrestal will be returned, probably to Norfolk, to be re-armed to fighting trim.

The Franklin, an Essex-class carrier, was launched at Newport News Oct. 14, 1943. She was 572-feet long at her flight deck and carried a crew of 3,448 officers and men.

During 1944 and early 1945 the Franklin ranged up and down the Pacific as the United States stepped up its island-hopping campaign against the Japanese.

In June 1944 she launched planes in support of the invasion of Guam and Iwo Jima. In July her aircraft pounded Japanese troops on Iwo Jima and sank four enemy ships. When Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned to the Philippines, the Franklin provided air cover.

Before dawn on March 19, 1945, the Franklin had moved to within 50 miles of the Japanese mainland—closer than any U.S. carrier had been before—and launched a fighter sweep against Honshu and a bombing raid against shipping in Kobe Harbor.

Suddenly, a single enemy plane pierced the cloud cover and made a low-level run on the Franklin. Two armor-piercing bombs tore through the ship's flight deck, knocking out shipboard communications and igniting fires that triggered a chain explosion of bombs, rockets and ammunition.

Within minutes the carrier lay dead in the water, radio contact gone, and listing 13 degrees to starboard. Many of her crew were blown overboard or driven off by intense heat. Casualties totaled 724 men killed and 265 wounded. Two of her crew were later awarded the Medal of Honor.

The Franklin was a barely-floating hulk of red hot metal. But a skeleton force of officers and men was determined to keep her afloat.

After the major fires had subsided the Franklin was taken in tow by the cruiser Pittsburgh. But before she reached Pearl Harbor she was proceeding under her own power.

Following a brief cleanup job, the carrier embarked on the long voyage to the U.S. mainland.

Still listing, she entered New York Harbor April 28, 1945. She was given a tumultuous reception by thousands of people who watched from the city's shoreline and bridges.

The war ended before the Franklin could return to action.

She was decommissioned at Bayonne, N.J., Feb. 17, 1947, and remained there until last year when she was sold for scrap to a Virginia salvage company for $238,000.

But a final and lasting tribute to the Franklin has been reserved by the city of Norfolk. Her bridge will be reconstructed near the Norfolk Civic Center as the focal point of a $1.7 million naval museum.

OTTAWA (AP) — The Canadian capital's tourist bureau got about 5,000 responses to a questionnaire asking visitors' comments and complaints and was shaken by one answer to the question: "What improvements would you suggest?" The tourist replied: "A stamped, self-addressed envelope with your questionnaire."

FIND RARE PEARL

PERTH, Scotland (AP) — A priceless giant pearl from Scottish waters, described as a once-in-a-lifetime find, is on display in a Perth jewelry shop. The slightly greyish mauve-tinged gem, a half inch in diameter and scaling about 8.4 carats, was found in a mussel bed of the River Tay by Bill Abernathy, Scotland's only professional pearl fisher. Nearly every female member of the British royal family owns Tay pearls.

LBJ Surcharge Request Has Tough Fight Ahead

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The battle over the proposed income tax surcharge got under way in Congress this past week.

The Johnson administration rolled out its big guns to support the President's recommendation of a 10 per cent tax increase on corporations and individuals.

Most members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which opened a hearing on the proposal, seemed cool to the idea and it appeared likely that a rough road was ahead for the tax program.

Appearing before the committee in behalf of the administration were Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

They subordinated the cost of the Vietnam war to the economic situation in arguing for the tax boost, which would raise an estimated $7.4 billion in the fiscal year that began July 1.

These officials contended that the surcharge would be the best way to avert a $29 billion federal budget deficit, to dampen inflationary pressures and to forestall an upward interest rate spiral without slowing the economy into a recession.

Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills D-Ark. asked Ackley: "You don't have a fear, then, that a tax increase would further decrease plant utilization? Can we expect the unemployment rate to go up if there's a tax increase? Can we be certain that we can enact a tax increase without depressing industrial production?"

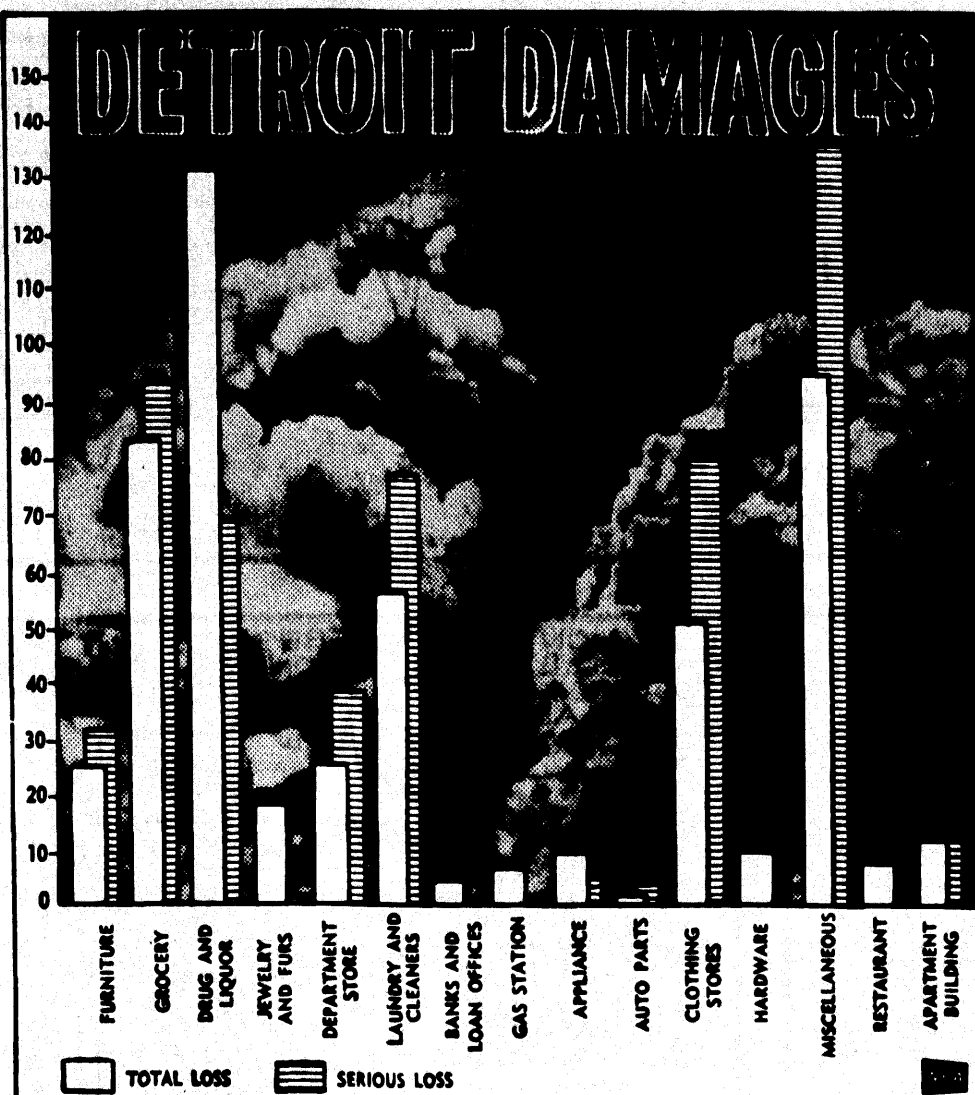

Ackley replied that the softness in the economy during the first half of this year is abating, that businessmen will begin rebuilding inventories in the closing months of this year and that the outlook is for a "buoyant" economy.

The committee will hear witnesses from private groups next week.

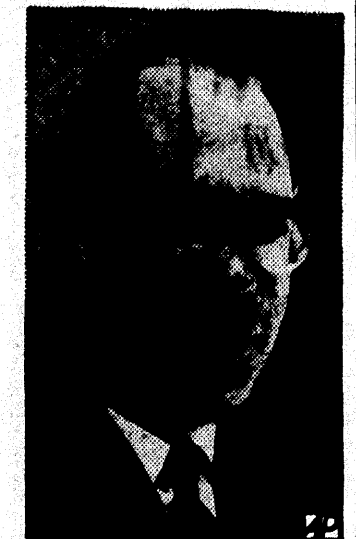

Meanwhile, statistics were released that showed improvement in some important sectors of the economy. These included increases in industrial production, housing starts, corporate profits and personal income.

Some sources said these advances provided the administration with further ammunition to back its tax increase proposal.

"There's no question the economy is expanding," commented George McKinney Jr., vice president and economist of Irving Trust Co. of New York. "The only question is whether it will expand sharply or very sharply."

The financial toll of this nation's biggest race riot is now being tallied to some degree of accuracy, according to the figures above released by the Insurance Information Institute in New York City. The figures, which relate to insured business losses only, show $85 million in damages in insured businesses only. They do not include residential and miscellaneous damages, not to mention the loss of 43 lives. By comparison, total damages in the 1965 Watts riots amounted to $40 million, with 35 deaths. Figures on the left side of the chart indicate the number of businesses damaged or destroyed.

$342,000 U. Of I. Contract For Local Firm

URBANA, Ill. — Hertzberg-New Method Inc. of Jacksonville has received the contract to bind books, serials and newspapers for University of Illinois libraries during the next two years.

The $342,000 contract for July 1, 1967 through June 30, 1969, has been approved by the university's board of trustees. It covers the university's libraries at Urbana-Champaign, Chicago Circle, and Medical Center in Chicago.

The Jacksonville firm entered the lowest sealed bid in firms seeking the contract.

Hospital Honors Jr. Volunteers

Holy Cross Hospital was the setting for a tea on Saturday afternoon August 19, 1967 to honor Junior Volunteers and their parents. Mrs. Jeanne Schumm was the hostess assisted by members of the Nursing Service Department.

Twenty-eight teen-agers, including two boys, have volunteered 2,471 hours of service in the hospital during the summer months.

The Junior Volunteer program was organized to give an opportunity for generous teen-agers to learn the value of giving to others. It has been a worthwhile program both for youth of this community who have been willing to participate, and to the hospital patients who have been recipients of their services.

The volunteer program offers the opportunity of the possibility of future careers in health fields for the teen-agers and gives them an awareness of the many needs of persons who are hospitalized.

Industrial Production Up 10.8%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first increase in industrial production this year and a strong 10.8 per cent advance during July in homebuilding Wednesday gave the administration new arguments for its appeal to Congress for higher taxes.

The new reports virtually completed a bullish picture of recent economic activity which included record retail sales, the biggest jump in personal income since January and a drop in the unemployment rate to 3.9 per cent of the labor force.

The administration is basing much of its argument for the 10 per cent income tax surcharge on its prediction for the second half economic upturn. Data collected so far indicates that upturn may have begun last month.

Administration witnesses are scheduled to resume their testimony next Monday before the House Ways and Means Committee on President Johnson's proposal for the 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes.

Both the production index and housing had turned down during June—production for the fifth time during the first six months of the year. The index remained stable during March.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, told the Ways and Means Committee earlier this week the economy can take the surcharge in stride.

The Federal Reserve Board said its production index rose one full point during July to 158.3 per cent of the 1957-59 base period, recouping more than one fourth of the 3.7-point drop since January. It returned to the April level.

The index reached a record 159 per cent last December. Settlements of strikes in the electrical machinery, television and rubber industries and increased crude oil production because of the curtailment of Middle East supplies accounted for much of the July advance, the board said.

The meal was served by Mrs. Wilmoth Todd and Mrs. Edna Peterson.

Visiting Rotarians were Charles Moore and Ed Jackson, Jacksonville, La. Mike Henry, who will report to Cambridge, Mass., soon, was a guest of his father, Mervin Henry.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market had another week of breath-catching, taking a slight loss for the second straight week.

The market was still going through a process of consolidation, analysts said. It was an adjustment to a strong summer rally which put averages up to new highs for the year. This was a resumption of a very sharp advance from the first of the year to May 8.

Wall Street is now looking ahead to the uncertainties of early September, symbolized by the Labor Day milestone which is traditionally a turning point for business and the market.

The big questions in the stock market community were: Will Congress enact the proposed income surtax. If so, how much will it really be and when will it take effect?

What will be the side effects of the election in South Vietnam? Will there be military escalation? Will there be an auto strike?

Wall Street was adopting a kind of watch-and-wait attitude. The Dow Jones industrial average last week took a trifling loss of 1.61 at 919.04.

Volume sank to 41,976,910 shares as the length of the daily sessions on the New York Stock Exchange was cut to four hours from the usual 5 1/2 so that brokerage houses could catch up on paper work. The total compared with 46,507,220 the previous week when four of the five sessions were abbreviated to four hours.

The major exchanges return to the 5 1/2 hour days next week. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks last week lost 1.3 at 340.3. Of 1,522 issues traded, 617 rose and 905 fell.

Alli-Chalmers took the spotlight, rising vigorously in response to a second acquisition offer from Ling-Temco-Vought, but then falling as Alli-Chalmers directors decided to turn the bid down. Alli ended with a net loss of 1 1/2 while L-T-V fell 11 to 137.

Prices were mixed in the bond market.

The Treasury market dallied early in the week awaiting announcement of the Treasury Department's financing plan, announced Thursday.

Treasury issues under five years fell in price toward the close.

Corn Futures End Slide, Beans Climb

By ED DE MOCH
CHICAGO (AP) — Corn futures ended 10 straight weeks of declining prices on the Chicago Board of Trade during the week, while soybeans posted their best weekly advance in a year.

The corn advance checked a decline which had reached nearly 25 cents under the early June price.

The advance of soybeans futures, ranging up to 6 1/2 cents a bushel for the week, was the best since last August when the price of soybeans was around $1 more a bushel than now.

When trading closed Friday, wheat futures were 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents lower than Aug. 11, September 1.50-50 1/2; corn was 1 to 1 1/2 cents higher, September 1.21 1/2-1/4; oats were unchanged 59 1/4 cents higher, September 71 cents; rye was 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 cents lower, September 1.18 1/2; and soybeans were 3 1/2 to 6 1/2 cents higher, August 2.19 1/2-1/2.

Soybean oil was 1 to 30 points higher for the week, while soybean meal gained 85 cents to 3.60.

The advances in corn and soybeans were posted despite continuing reports that the 1967 production of both commodities will reach record highs. Thus, the advance was based on some rather thin influences.

Wheat futures fell more than 4 cents a bushel Monday and tended to drag down prices of other commodities. The next day, a report that possibly cooler temperatures in northern portions of the Midwest might occur Thursday and Friday gave some strength to soybeans and corn. The same weather report was given new impetus Wednesday when the government weather bureau appeared to verify it. Thursday both commodities scored slight advances again on the weather report.

However, when the possible lower readings did not occur Friday, corn closed virtually unchanged but soybeans advanced about 2 cents. Higher cash prices for soybeans and a tightness in local receipts were factors in the higher futures price.

Liquidation Monday appeared to be the main factor in wheat's decline.

Oats and rye moved mostly in the direction of corn and wheat. Some of the strength in soybeans was reflected in higher soybean oil and soybean meal prices. It was the first week in some six months that the two soybeans products advanced simultaneously for the week.

Eye Price Aids For Beans, Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is concentrating on ways of strengthening farm prices — primarily grains and soybeans — but is not contemplating increases in previously announced price support rates, Agriculture Department officials said Friday.

The department's main thrust at this time involves appeals to farmers that they hold back 1967 crop grains until later in the marketing year, officials said.

Grains and soybeans are being emphasized because they are the crops which have lost price ground in commodity markets since it became apparent this year's production of wheat, corn and soybeans would be at record high levels.

The price support rates average $1.25 a bushel for wheat, $1.05 for corn and $2.75 for soybeans.

The government is seeking to expedite shipment of wheat abroad under its Food for Peace program.

THE SALES TAX AND THE FARMER

URBANA — The Illinois sales tax actually consists of a series of revenue measures. When we refer to the sales tax, however, we most commonly think of the retailers' occupation tax.

The retailers' occupation tax is a tax upon persons engaged in the retail selling of tangible personal property in Illinois. A sale is "at retail" if the goods are sold for use or consumption by the buyer. Sales of goods that are to be resold later or incorporated into property that is to be resold later are not considered retail sales.

Some transactions are exempt from the sales tax. Many of the items farmers buy for use in livestock feeding operations or in crop production are considered to be incorporated into products for later resale.

For example, feed supplements, seed, and fertilizers would not be subject to the tax. But products such as gas, and oil, stock tonics and other medicinal preparations, and agricultural chemicals, such as weed killers and pesticides, are considered purchased by the farmer for his own use and consumption. They are, therefore, subject to the sales tax.

An occasional sale of goods at retail is not subject to taxation, provided the seller is not regularly engaged in selling goods at retail and does not "hold himself out to the public" (through any form of advertising) as being in a retail business. If a farmer occasionally sells meat, eggs, or vegetables to friends, but does not hold himself out as a seller at retail, he may come within the "occasional sale" exception and may not be liable for tax on those sales.

But if the farmer sells part of his production of fruit or eggs through a roadside stand, advertises that he has produce—such as strawberries—for sale at his home, or simply retails produce on a fairly regular basis, these sales would be subject to the sales tax. This would be true even if the customers picked their own berries.

Sales in interstate commerce are also exempt from the Illinois sales tax. Therefore, if an Illinois seller has contracted to deliver goods outside the state without their returning to this state, there is no sales tax liability. For example, if he sells all of his carrot crop to an Indiana consumer with delivery to be made in Indiana, the sale is not subject to the Illinois sales tax.

Sales to a non-profit organization, operated exclusively for charitable, religious, or educational purposes, are also exempt from the sales tax.

Farmers who are regularly engaged in retail selling are required to get a registration certificate from the Department of Revenue, report all taxable sales, and pay any sales tax that may be due. There is a five dollar exemption, so only tax of more than five dollars is required to be paid to the department. Failure to do so may subject the farmer to civil and criminal penalties.

PERCENT IN 1966

Prices of farmland continue their upward climb. The national average rate of climb was 8 percent in 1966.

But prices of land went up even faster in the Corn Belt and the South. The gain in Illinois was 12 percent; in Iowa, Missouri, and Indiana, 13 percent; and in Ohio, 10 percent. Prices of farmland in Georgia and Alabama went up 12 percent, while values in Mississippi and Louisiana climbed 10 percent.

We hear many questions about prices of farmland: Why do land prices go up? And when will they stop? You can give and get a lot of different answers to these questions.

One popular explanation for the rise in land prices is that many farmers need more acres to make a profit, and so they bid up the price of land to enlarge their farms. There is some merit to this argument. But it does not tell the whole story. Most of these purchasers would not buy land if they did not expect it to return a profit.

While two-thirds of the farmland purchases were for farm enlargement, one-third were for other purposes. The pressure to become bigger was not the cause of these purchases.

If farmland were not a profitable investment many owners would sell—and put their money into something else. But only 5 percent of the sellers sold because their farmland was an unsatisfactory investment for them.

It is said that farmland is too high because the average rate of return is less than the interest rate on farm mortgages. "Farmland won't pay for itself at these prices."

Why should farmland pay for itself, when the buyer borrows to buy it? We don't expect to be able to borrow money to buy a bond and have the interest pay for the bond. Nor do we expect to borrow from a bank, buy corporation stocks—and wait for the dividends to pay the interest and principal on the bank loan.

A lot of bonds now yield 5 to 6 percent. That's more than most farmland will make at present prices. But the people who buy farmland are not fools. They have good reasons to expect that at least half of the return from the bonds will be lost through inflation. That brings the real return on bonds down to or below the return on land. Dividends on corporation stocks range from zero to 5 percent with many returning 3 to 4 percent. Well-managed land does as well, or better.

Land buyers also expect, with good reason, that land values will go up. Three big economic forces are at work to raise land

The agronomists explain that immediately after applying anhydrous ammonia, the pH level rises sharply. But as nitrification begins, the pH level drops. And it continues to drop below the pH level that existed before the application.

The gaseous NH₃ in the top part of a sprayer tank containing liquid ammonia forces the liquid into the soil.

As the liquid ammonia is released into the soil, it changes to gas and combines with soil moisture to form ammonium ions. The negatively charged clay particles adsorb the ammonium ions that are positively charged.

In a few cases when anhydrous ammonia was applied at planting time, there has been some evidence of toxicity to soil microorganisms, seeds and young seedlings.

While anhydrous ammonia can be side-dressed, the agronomists suggest that you wait until you've finished planting and can row the corn. You can make side-dressed applications from that time until the corn is knee-high.

DOUBT AG. DEPT. WILL UP PRICE SUPPORT RATES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials said Friday the government is concentrating on ways of strengthening farm prices, but is not contemplating increases in previously announced price support rates.

These efforts are being emphasized for grains and soybeans — crops which have lost price ground in commodity markets since it became apparent this year's production of wheat, corn and soybeans would be at record high levels.

The price support rates average $1.25 a bushel for wheat, $1.05 for corn and $2.75 for soybeans.

The department's main thrust at this time involves appeals of farmers that they hold back 1967 crop grains until later in the marketing year. It advises them to take advantage of the price support loans.

The government is seeking to expedite shipment of wheat abroad under its Food for Peace program.

The government continues to make clear that it will not sell any government-owned wheat for less than 115 per cent of the loan rate plus carrying charges — a price which is above current market prices.

The department also has under consideration a proposal that it extend the maturity date of price support loans on wheat stored in commercial warehouses.

In the case of corn, the department may soon announce changes in its schedule of paying premiums and discounts.

values: (1) The population is growing while land area is not. (2) Our rising standard of living requires land for many purposes. (3) Inflation raises the money value of land.

While we expect the trend of land prices to continue to be upward, we expect some setbacks such as happens in the prices of corporation stocks.

BRIMFUL and running over By Jim Brim

You know it's almost time for school to start the fall term!

Over and over again we hear the excuses of high school graduates for not furthering their education.

It doesn't matter what you expect to do—learn all you can about a subject or a job and you will be worth more to your employer and to yourself.

Learn a skill that will be useful to yourself and others so that you do not become an unemployed statistic.

The prize excuse for not going on to any type of school is "I can't afford it." If you have worked hard in high school and can show a record of serious pursuit of your high school subjects you may be surprised at the areas of possible financial help. Check on loans, scholarships, work opportunities, etc. Able students cannot use the excuse of no money.

Continually the cry is heard—"I'm going to farm. I don't need to go to school."

Anybody who has kept up to date knows that the more you know the better off you will be when you face the myriad problems of farming.

We have many agricultural courses offered at our colleges and universities. At our junior colleges we have many new opportunities.

Now you should...
...Buy school supplies
...Attend reunions.
...Look at new fall clothes.
...Barbecue.
...Build a concrete feeding floor.
...Pipe water to hogs.
...Show vacation pictures.
...Recuperate from your vacation.

It's trying to live comfortably that makes life rough.

20 Years Of Water, Soil Conservation Work In Three Days?

Sometimes a farmer can't solve a conservation problem in the best way within the boundaries of his farm.

And when this is the case, University of Illinois agricultural engineer Ralph Hay and U. of I. soil conservationist Robert Walker suggest that a farmer team up with his neighbors to solve the problem.

The farms selected as the site for the 1967 Illinois Land Improvement Contractors' Association (ILICA) Soil and Water Conservation Show will illustrate how neighbors can cooperate to better conserve their land.

Several conservation projects featured in the show will be built across the farm lines, including a pond that will also provide recreation facilities.

Hay and Walker report that when farm owners want to team up to solve their conservation problems, they have two choices:

—They can individually submit the part of the project that will be located on their land and receive a maximum Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) payment of $2,500.

—Of they can submit a plan to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) and request a "pooling agreement." Under this plan a farmer may receive a larger ACP payment.

The U. of I. staff members point out that major conservation problems can often be solved most efficiently and economically if the pooling agreement arrangement is used.

For example, when a waterway cuts through several farms, a single, large conservation structure may stabilize the area more effectively than several small structures constructed by two or three farmers who own land along the waterway.

The August 23-25 ILICA show will be held six miles north of Galesburg on farms owned by Dale Cain and Claire Pottorf.

People who fly to the Galesburg Airport will be transported to and from the show. And air tours will be conducted while the show is underway.

The show will start each day at 9 a.m. and will end at 5 p.m. Major manufacturers of farm and construction equipment, tile and culverts will be exhibiting at the show.

Hay and Walker say that 20 years of conservation work will be completed during the three-day show.

Report Jersey Cattle Suffer From Pinkeye

JERSEYVILLE—Some herds of cattle in the Jersey county area are reported to be suffering from pink eye.

The disease is of a contagious nature and is reported as characterized by inflammation and soreness of the membrane that lines the eyelids and covers the eyeball.

The disease is reported as capable of producing blindness in cattle unless treated as soon as possible in its initial stages.

Several years ago, pinkeye appeared in cattle in the area east and northeast of Kane, and some dairy cattle lost their sight before control measures were instituted and the disease checked.

Old timers here Wednesday recalled when pinkeye infected hundreds of horses in the Jersey county locality before the days of mechanized equipment. Horses were blinded in numbers. The animal continued in use, however, and it was customary to hitch a blind horse in the middle of a three horse plow team. The blind horse would pull just as strongly and do a day's work the same as his companions with vision.

4-H Club Activities

ARENZVILLE — The eighth meeting of the Indian Creek 4-H Club was held recently in the Arenzville Village Park, with 22 members and 4 guests answering roll call. Pledges to the United States and 4-H flags opened the meeting.

Entries were made for the Cass County Fair, which will be held at Virginia the last week in August.

Sue Moffitt gave a talk, "Handling Horses," and Jenni Schone's was "Self Feeding vs Hand Feeding."

Jim Lovekamp gave a demonstration on Duroc ear notching. Refreshments were served by Ronnie and Richard Vanderpool. The annual tour of the Indian Creek 4-H Club took place on July 30, with members and their families visiting 13 homes to view the projects nearing completion. The 40 persons taking the tour were treated to refreshments afterward at the Village Inn Cafe, with the compliments of the Club.

Dr. John C. Frye, chief of the Illinois State Geological Survey, has announced the publication of a new geologic map of Illinois. This map, which is reproduced on a scale of 1:500,000 (1 inch equals approximately 3 miles), incorporates much new data and is completely recompiled from the edition of 1945.

A series of 26 colors has been used to delineate the outcrop patterns of various rocks deposited during hundreds of millions of years of geologic time. The colors depict how the outcrop patterns would appear if all of the unconsolidated glacial and alluvial deposits were stripped away. Two generalized columnar sections in color depict the vertical sequence of rock units in Southern and Northern Illinois. Six different glacial boundaries are shown on the map.

A north-south cross-section shows the generalized structure or attitude of the various rock units underlying the state as they would appear along the sides of a deep slot or canyon from Rockford to Cairo. Two east-west cross sections represent the generalized structure from Moline to Rock Island in the north and from Carmi to Belleville in the south.

BIRTHDAY WISH
All the Junior Page readers and your editor send these wishes.

JOIN THE PARADE
Two weeks or more before your birthday send your name, birthdate, address and parents' names to the Junior Editor, Jacksonville Journal Courier, Jacksonville, Ill. Canada, whose national game is regarded as ice hockey, originated the sport into its present form in 1875.

PLAY BALL!

"I am going to start a baseball team, I hope. We are planning to go to Oklahoma this summer. We're going to take my grandmother along."
"I hope to go to St. Louis to the zoo, too," writes Robbie Grindstaff, Grade 3, North School, Mrs. Streuter, teacher.

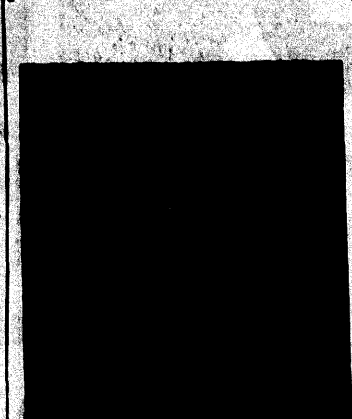

MY FISHING TRIP

Pamela Hobbs, in Mrs. Streuter's third grade class at North School, made this drawing entitled "My Fishing Trip."

Flashes Galore

By Christine Hembrough

On July 28, I was OUT of school, out of AWFUL biology, out of science, and those awful dissections! On HOORAY day I went to Grandma's. I didn't do anything but eat, sleep, watch TV, and get fat the ten days I was there. Now it's off to the assembly in Peoria to meet a pen pal to the state fair, and hopefully to Nebraska for two weeks of fun and another pen pal visit. Then it's back to awful school again. Now on to the flashes.

New Additions
My "baby" cat, Blackie had four "children" but only two survived. They sure are cute. We haven't named them yet so if you have any ideas, we will appreciate them.

An Interview
Recently I interviewed a professional photographer. It sure was lots of fun. I went out with him on his daily assignments, and watched while he developed films.

I even got to enlarge some film under his direction and was it fun!!! We talked a lot, and he gave me some advice on modeling.

Careers
Are you having difficulties in finding a career you seriously might like? Need some help? If you do, why don't you write to me and I'll be glad to help you out.

There are plenty of available books, and more than likely I'll be able to talk to people in the field that interests you. Some careers I have investigated for various assignments are: all types of airport work, beautician, model, and photographer. Won't be any trouble, so come on!

Things To Do
Back to school time will unfortunately be back soon. Lots of things to do. Start getting up earlier! Maybe you'd better practice in math, and spelling too.

Keep in mind what you plan to do this year and do it. Make a "new year's" resolution that you'll get all of your homework done on time, or that you'll go to bed early every night. And don't get so filled up with activities that you are getting too little sleep. Sleep is very important, it's not a waste of time. In fact, without sleep you'd easily win the Miss Ugly award this year!

And too don't get so involved in school work that you overwork yourself. You do need a hobby, a change of pace, something to keep you balanced!

And SEND in any problem, idea, or suggestion YOU might have.

ORBITAL WORKSHOP

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

If no further long delays are encountered by the United States' manned space flight program this country should have a reusable manned space station in orbit by late 1968. This space station is the Orbital Workshop, an integral part of the Apollo Applications Program (AAP).

The first crew for the Orbital Workshop was picked on December 22, 1966. They are Astronauts Frank Borman, Michael Collins and William Anders. They will be launched into orbit aboard an Apollo Command Module with a Service Module attached.

A day later the Orbital Workshop will be placed in an orbit 300 miles above earth. At this height it will stay in orbit about two years.

The Orbital Workshop is actually the Second stage of an Up-rated Saturn I with a multiple docking adaptor attached. The three astronauts will rendezvous and dock with this vehicle.

When they have pressurized the oxygen tank of the spent second stage they will climb through the airlock and set up the orbital workshop. This will then provide them with the supplies they need to spend 28 days in space. When this time is up they will leave the Orbital Workshop stored in space for reuse. Another Launching

A few months later three other astronauts will be launched into an orbit below the Orbital Workshop with the Apollo Command and Service Module. A day later an Apollo Lunar Module, modified to be an Apollo Telescope Mount, will be launched into orbit.

The three astronauts will then rendezvous with the Orbital Workshop and dock both units to the connecting Airlock, as shown above. They will then spend 56 days in orbit—twice the time spent by the first Orbital Workshop crew.

On some of the Orbital Workshop missions the crew will set up automatic equipment to continue the space research after they are gone. In this way the delicate equipment can function without interference from man. When the next crew arrives they will remove the tapes made by the machines and, before they leave, reset the machines for another period of automatic operation.

Prayer Poem

Common Fault

By Mary Pence Claywell

It's a common thing, yet, Lord, not right... We know when we do a thing for spite, And still we know it's done each day... On jobs, at home, and even play... Just little hurts, become hot embers... Sometimes so small, they're hard to remember; Yet none are too big, nor yet, too small, But what at times, we, one and all, Will stop to do a thing for spite.

Although we know, that it isn't right; But it wouldn't be hard to smother it out, The hateful snap, or word, or pout, That irked, when some one else was weak, Insulting, or smart, in a way to speak; So we ought to "fess" up, for we know that we At times, are hateful... the same as he: Please help us, Lord, when another is bad, To shrug it off... and not GET MAD, Or ponder away, with vigor and vim, Till we find a way... to GET EVEN with him.

Old Man And A Boy

By John Rankin

The old man sat in a battered armchair in the cooling shade of a spreading elm and peered out over the railroad tracks to the rolling, sunbaked hills beyond the highway. A vine-covered shack nestled against a ledge in back of him stood full in the glare of a sizzling mid-day sun.

Honeybees hummed and buzzed around the open door of the quaint little hut and an occasional butterfly, as if from nowhere, appeared momentarily on the flowery vines and then flitted away and was lost in the sun.

For a long while "Ole Tom" as everybody called him, smoked his pipe quietly and peered into space as though seeing nothing in particular. Then as the sun moved across the sky he looked into the shadows beyond the highway and saw a rambling, weather-beaten house sitting back on a hill above a creek.

Barefoot Boy
Pretty soon, just as Ole Tom had expected, a barefoot boy popped up from somewhere around back of the house. A little fellow wearing his trousers rolled above the knees, he looked around quickly and then moved stealthily along a line of trees leading off from the house and dropped from sight behind a wooded hill.

"The little imp!" Ole Tom thought with a grin. "He's slipped off from his ma to go wading in the creek. Most likely he'll be in for a lacing when he shows up with his clothes all wet and muddy."

An amused smile broke over the old man's weather-lined features now and he rested his head on the back of his chair and closed his eyes. For a long while he remained fixed in a quiet, peaceful sort of calm.

He knew even without looking that the boy was down there now wading in the shallow waters of the creek catching minnows and tiny frogs with his bare hands. He hoped for once that his mother wouldn't call him to the house any minute now. Somehow she always did, it seemed.

The wish had barely crossed the old man's mind, though, when he heard the familiar voice he'd been expecting. "Tommee... Tommese... Tommese... Tommese..." The boy's mother called from the house. "Get out of that creek this very minute; Tommy Davis!"

"Just as I expected: but he'll try it again tomorrow," Ole Tom thought with a grin. In a peculiar sort of way he had come to know this little fellow better than anyone else knew him. Better than anybody he knew the innate part of his nature that molded his life and made him what he was.

He was aware of his ideals, his dreams and ambitions, and the rather strange part of his makeup that set him apart from most other boys his age.

Dreamer
Actually Ole Tom had come to understand this little fellow Tommy Davis even better than his own mother understood him. He knew that the boy was a dreamer, and would spend hours off to himself trying to decide what he'd be when he grew up.

At times he thought he would like to make a doctor; or a lawyer, maybe. Then again he might be a newspaper man; or the owner of a great circus even.

He was never quite sure, but he'd be something pretty big and important.

Enjoy Summer

Summer is the best time of year. Especially now that it is here; So always make the best of it. And hurry and get out your baseball and mitt.

There is something that you can do, From tic-tac-toe to playing tennis.

You can go collect shells down by the sea. It's better than staying home with Grandma have tea,

But while you are there please give it a thought, That you'll soon have to go back to schoolwork you have fought.

When I'm swinging on my swing, I have a feeling I want to sing.

But the thought, "Summer's almost over," Comes into a tune, Oh, how I wish it was starting and that it was June

"We play tag all the time. Sometimes she is poison and if she touches me, I am it. We have fun playing together. We like each other very much. When I roller skate she chases me, and makes me fall down. We have lots of fun."

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

By STELLA
 SUNDAY, AUGUST 20 — Born today, you have a tremendous sense of justice and your sense of right and wrong has always been highly developed. Even as a child you were a champion of fair play. As an adult this trait is one of your major assets. It will make you enemies, to be sure, but it will bring you friends in much greater number, and of much more influence. Willpower and determination are your stock in trade. They keep you at a project even when the going gets rough — and they should ensure your eventual success. You need only take care that these same traits don't cause you to stick to a venture that is sure to fail and thus to waste your valuable time. Learn to recognize failure in spite of your determination to succeed — and learn, too, to pull out in time. Although you could make a go of a career in business, you would probably be happier in work where money was not the criterion of success. You are not particularly geared emotionally to the commercial world, but appear to be more suited to intellectual pursuits or to social work of some kind. To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

MONDAY AUGUST 21
 LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — This is the day for wisely advancing your business or professional career. Women in the home, however, should bide their time. VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — A promising day for the Virgo who is willing to fight for what he believes in. You may not have an easy time, but you should win out. LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Check your investments before continuing the way you've begun. All may not be as profitable as it appears to be. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — A day which could have spectacular results. Only take care not to involve others in risky schemes; then no one can blame you. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Follow your instincts regarding progressive activities at work. Find others who will cooperate. CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — You can make a new project pay excellent dividends ahead of time, if you play your cards right. Think! AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Make job progress now by seeming to play into another's hands. Keep your finger on the pulse of things. PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 21) — Take advantage of one of your best days of the month. Now is the time to make your bid for quick advancement. ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20) — Work out your plans to the smallest detail and results should be excellent. Seek professional advice in financial matters. TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — Keep working along a single JOINT EFFORT—Illinois Power and City Power crewmen teamed up along the 800 block of North Prairie Friday to restring two primary and four secondary power lines which were felled by a large falling limb during Friday evening's rain and wind storm. Traffic was blocked for over two hours by the fallen limb and wires.

City Man Pleads Guilty To Illegal Betting Charge

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Paul E. Gilbert, 68, of Jacksonville pleaded guilty Friday to one count of a three-count indictment charging him with failing to pay federal wagering taxes.

Judge Omer Poos in U.S. District Court ordered a presentence investigation of Gilbert, treasurer of the Trades and Labor Assembly of Jacksonville.

Gilbert was indicted by a federal grand jury July 31. The count to which he pleaded guilty charged him with failing to buy a gambling stamp for the fiscal year ended June 30.

When Gilbert was arrested by Internal Revenue agents June 2 a large number of baseball lottery cards was seized from his person and his car, Jay G. Philpott, district director of Internal Revenue for Central and Southern Illinois, announced.

A presentence investigation was ordered by Poos also for Billy Joe Lettrell, 43, of Macon who pleaded guilty to the July 13 theft of $10 from a registered letter in Decatur where he was a postal employee. He asked for probation. The gross receipts amounted to $6,277.14. At this time there is no estimate of net receipts.

The entertainment in the afternoon and evening included the Mid-West Rangers, the Lester Family, North Greene Band

Boosters, and other local talent. Mrs. Rose Bigham was awarded a decorated cake, baked and donated by Miss Marjorie Watt of White Hall.

Cool weather in the evening caused the major part of the crowd to leave early.

Wins County Honors In Open Competition

By ANDREA HEISS

Experience is not always a necessary ingredient in the recipe for success.

For ten-year-old Patty Jo Crawford, this was a year of firsts.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ivan Crawford of route one Ashland, former residents of Jacksonville, Patty entered her coffee cake among seventy other 4-H's and received the Best Show Award in the Quick Bread Division at the Morgan County Fair.

The Quick Bread Division includes plain muffins, nut bread, banana bread, corn bread, and coffee cake. Patty's entry was judged best in this class regardless of age. She also totaled more points than anyone else in the culinary division, with two blue ribbons for her green beans and icebox cookies, a second for her assorted cookies, and a third for her tart shells.

How did one so young become a prize-winning patron of the culinary arts?

"I like to cook, and my older sister, who also likes to cook, helped me become interested," Patty smiled.

In her family too many cooks do not spoil the broth, for her two older sisters, mother and grandmother have always been known as excellent cooks. Has this instilled an innate love for cooking in her?

"I only go into the kitchen when I have to," said Patty, "like to dry dishes or something. My favorite part of cooking is tasting it afterwards."

Pear Crumble Coffee Cake
1 lb. can sliced pears, drained (1 1/2 c.)
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 1/4 oz. pkg. orange muffin mix
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup sifted all purpose flour
1/4 tsp. cinnamon
4 tbsp. butter

Sprinkle pear slices with lemon juice—set aside. Prepare muffin mix according to pkg. directions. Turn into greased 9x9x2 pan. Top with pear slices. Mix sugar, flour, and cinnamon. Cut in butter until mixture is crumbly, sprinkle over pears.

Bake at 400 degrees for 30-35 minutes. Serve warm. Makes nine servings.

Patty, a fifth grader at Ashland Elementary School, laughed that one of the judges had commented that her coffee cake was "mighty good."

This was the first time she had entered the Morgan County Fair competition, her first year of membership in 4-H, and surprisingly enough, the first time she had made this kind of coffee cake.

"I'd never used this recipe before. I just baked it and entered it. I was really surprised, naturally. I didn't even know there was an award like that."

PATTY SMILES as she reaches to remove her award-winning coffee cake from the oven.

Gallant Ship Bearing Noted Name Sits Forlornly Rusting

By GEORGE W. WILBUR

Associated Press Writer

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A great and gallant ship bearing one of the most hallowed names in U.S. naval history sits forlornly at the Norfolk Naval Base, her towering, rust-spattered hull in sharp contrast to the gleaming ships of the Atlantic Fleet.

She flies no flags. The white light of cutting torches reflects dimly from her sharply sloping sides. Cranes noisily lift house-size chunks of steel plate from her decks and superstructure.

The fading name on her stern-plate reads: Franklin.

Visitors to the base on Hampton Roads pay scant attention to the hulk of "Big Ben." Many of them are too young to recall the valiant role played by the aircraft carrier in World War II.

Only a few remember her as the most heavily damaged major U.S. warship ever to return to port under her own power.

What the Franklin experienced as a result of enemy action was repeated on a lesser scale recently when the carrier Forrestal suffered heavy damage as the result of a shipboard mishap off Vietnam.

But while the Franklin is a derelict doomed to destruction, the Forrestal will be returned, probably to Norfolk, to be restored to fighting trim.

The Franklin, an Essex-class carrier, was launched at Newport News Oct. 14, 1943. She was 872-feet long at her flight deck and carried a crew of 3,448 officers and men.

During 1944 and early 1945 the Franklin ranged up and down the Pacific as the United States stepped up its island-hopping campaign against the Japanese.

In June 1944 she launched planes in support of the invasion of Guam and Rota in the Marianas. In July her aircraft pounded Japanese troops on Iwo Jima and sank four enemy ships. When Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned to the Philippines, the Franklin provided air cover.

Before dawn on March 19, 1945, the Franklin had moved to within 50 miles of the Japanese mainland—closer than any U.S. carrier had been before—and launched a fighter sweep against Honshu and a bombing raid against shipping in Kobe Harbor.

Suddenly, a single enemy plane pierced the cloud cover and made a low-level run on the Franklin. Two armor-piercing bombs tore through the ship's flight deck, knocking out shipboard communications and igniting fires that triggered a chain explosion of bombs, rockets and ammunition.

Within minutes the carrier lay dead in the water, radio contact gone, and listing 13 degrees to starboard. Many of her crew were blown overboard or driven off by intense heat. Casualties totaled 724 men killed and 265 wounded. Two of her crew were later awarded the Medal of Honor.

The Franklin was a barely-floating hulk of red hot metal. But a skeleton force of officers and men was determined to keep her afloat.

After the major fires had subsided the Franklin was taken in tow by the cruiser Pittsburgh. But before she reached Pearl Harbor she was proceeding under her own power.

Following a brief cleanup job, the carrier embarked on the long voyage to the U.S. mainland.

Still listing, she entered New York Harbor April 28, 1945. She was given a tumultuous reception by thousands of people who watched from the city's shoreline and bridges.

The war ended before the Franklin could return to action.

She was decommissioned at Bayonne, N.J., Feb. 17, 1947, and remained there until last year when she was sold for scrap to a Virginia salvage company for $228,000.

But a final and lasting tribute to the Franklin has been reserved by the city of Norfolk. Her bridge will be reconstructed near the Norfolk Civic Center as the focal point of a $1.7 million naval museum.

PERTH, Scotland (AP) — A priceless giant pearl from Scottish waters, described as a once-in-a-lifetime find, is on display in a Perth jewelry shop. MARIS NOT ONE TOWASTE WORDS

As ballplayers go, Roger Maris isn't the easiest guy in the world to talk with. He's the only player in history who hit 61 home runs in one season and yet he left New York a few years later with a mutual dislike of the town and its sportswriters.

The first time one talks to Maris it isn't hard to get a 'hot dog' impression of him, but once one finds the proper approach, you can't help but like him and understand some of the problems he has had in the past with the press.

HE DOESN'T kid around like a lot of players do, and he doesn't think he owes the writers anything. If a writer wants something out of Maris, the scribe better play it straight all the way or forget it. Loaded questions and those designed to get long, flowery answers might as well be forgotten. Play it straight with him, and he's a most likeable person.

As for as writers go, (he's always had problems with them in the past), Maris thinks everything would be fine if the writers would try to visualize the role of the ballplayer and put themselves in the players' shoes.

Maris gave us as pleasant a half-hour as we ever spent recently before a game in St. Louis, and we came away feeling just a little as though he has had some hard times despite getting his name in the record books and pulling down $70,000 a year.

"A LOT of the troubles between writers and players come because writers think you should be available at any given time and be in a good mood. If you aren't, they immediately think you are slighting them and try to convince the fans of it," started Maris when asked about his relations with the press.

"They often don't realize we have our bad days just like everyone, and sometimes don't feel like talking. If we have something on our mind, we may not want to talk right then. But some writers don't seem to realize that."

"Most major league ballplayers are very nice guys, as I'm sure you will agree after meeting a lot of them. They just want to be treated right, and in return they will treat you the same way."

WHILE MARIS' fondest memories of his baseball career are not of the press, he speaks highly of the treatment since he joined the St. Louis Cardinals during the past off-season.

"I haven't had any problems at all with the writers in St. Louis, they have been terrific. And that makes it a lot easier, knowing you aren't going to get blasted and booed. This year has been a pleasure and has changed my outlook quite a bit."

Maris' outlook on baseball has changed, as shown by the mere fact that he is playing ball this year. According to the slugger, he had made up his mind to retire this year if he had not been traded from the Yankees. Now, he says, he is just playing it by ear and hasn't decided on plans after this season.

SOME OF the luster of this season began to be rubbed off recently when Maris suffered through a mild slump . . . or at least that is what he called it.

"I seemed to have lost my rhythm," says the blond North Dakota resident who now makes his home in Kansas City. "When you go into a slump and lose your rhythm, the next step is to start pressing. Then your timing gets off and it's even worse."

"I haven't been meeting the ball very well lately, and when I do they don't seem to be falling. I just try to keep swinging and hope I get back in the groove. (Maris proceeded to slam out three hits, including a game-winning single in the bottom of the ninth as the Cardinals took the first of a three-game sweep over the Cubs.)"

SPEAKING ON how the pitchers in the National League have tried to pitch to him, Maris says, "They started playing me to pull and kept the ball away. But they don't anymore." Maris has a good share of his hits to center and to the opposite field this year.

Asked about the spirit on the league-leading Cardinal team, Maris says frankly, "It's the same as any other team I've ever played on . . . good. There really isn't much difference. There was a lot of spirit on the Yankees, too, and I'm sure there is on any team."

That's the kind of guy Roger Maris is. No fancy excuses or predictions. He just wants to do his job . . . help his team win . . . and be treated like a nice guy. We think he is . . . a good ballplayer and a nice guy.

The Reds added their final run in the ninth on two walks and Leo Cardenas' single.

Nolan, 10-6, allowed five hits.

Foyt Captures 3rd Fair 100-Mile Run

Hurtubise Survives Late Crash

By BUFORD GREEN

SPRINGFIELD — Indianapolis 500 winner A. J. Foyt became only the third three-time winner of the Illinois State Fair 100-mile championship race Saturday with a 'look easy' victory in a yellow-flag marred event.

Foyt was never out of the lead after taking pole-sitter Larry Dickson in the first turn and only repeated slow-downs by the yellow flag kept the race from turning into a complete runaway.

Foyt, the Flying Texan from Houston, made it three out of the last four after taking the event, named for the late Tony Bettenhausen, in 1964 and 1965.

Bettenhausen and Rodger Ward were the only other three-time winners of the run over the mile dirt.

Driving the Sheraton-Thompson Special, Foyt averaged only 86.323 miles per hour, much slower than last year's 95.25, won by the late Don Branson. Foyt, who won this year's '500' when Parnelli Jones' controversial turbine car conked out with three laps remaining, picked up 5,123 of the $21,517 total purse.

Only six cars finished from the original field of 18 starters, after the start of the race was delayed two hours and a half because of a wet track. A total of 29 of the 100 laps was turned under the yellow flag.

Football Rules Meeting Here

The football rules interpretation meeting for this area will be held at Jacksonville High school Thursday, Aug. 31, with Ray Wolf serving as interpreter.

The meeting is designed to discuss the 1967 National Football Alliance football rules. There will be 21 such meetings throughout the state.

The meetings are conducted by the IHSA. Member officials and coaches are invited to attend.

Famed driver Jim Hurtubise, a winner in 1961 and 1962, survived a spectacular crash on the final lap of the race. Hurtubise went into a long slide in the fourth turn, flipped high over the retaining wall and fence and landed about 60 feet from the track.

The auto was a total wreck, but Hurtubise was listed in satisfactory condition Saturday night at St. John's hospital in Springfield.

Hurtubise suffered an injury to his lower right leg, cuts on a shoulder and above the right eye and various bruises and abrasions.

None of the injuries was believed to be serious.

Andretti's second son, Mario Andretti, finished second to Foyt, taking the spot after Dickson went out with mechanical trouble on the 77th lap. Bud Tingelstad placed third and Norm Brown fourth in the running.

Starting on the outside in the first row, Foyt broke a length in front at the first turn and led by 50 yards after three laps. The winner boosted the margin to 100 yards after seven laps and lapped his first auto on the tenth mile.

Leading by seven seconds on the 6th lap, Foyt encountered his only trouble of the afternoon—the yellow flag, allowing the field to catch up again.

Under the green, Foyt again quickly shot out of sight and led by 6 1/2 seconds at the quarter-way mark.

Three more times during the race Foyt's big lead was nullified by the caution flag, but each time he shot out of contention on the next go signal.

was dropped, the race was entering the 100th lap with Andretti two lengths behind. However, Foyt had plenty left and quickly shot out of range to finish out of danger.

Final Round Today

Cisne And Club Widen Golf Leads

Young Jim Cisne and the Country Club team surged to seemingly safe leads in the Jacksonville City Golf Tournament's third round Saturday, played on a soggy Country Club course.

Cisne mounted his individual lead to ten-strokes and the Country Club seemed assured of breaking a six-year jinx for team honors with a 30-stroke margin over Nichols Park.

In the battle for individual honors, Cisne holds a ten-stroke bulge over teammate E. P. Hohmann, and eleven strokes over the Park's Frank Harris and the Club's Bob Neff.

Cisne turned in a 37-39-78 over the par 72-layout, while his nearest rival entering the round, the Park's Mike Anderson, soared to an 83 and dropped 13 strokes off the pace at 228.

Boosting the Club's team lead were Hohmann, who was one of three Club golfers to match the day's best round at 76. The 76 moved Hohmann into a tie for second with a 225 total. Harris turned in his second straight 78 Saturday to stay at 226, best on the Park squad. Neff moved up the individual ladder with the other 76 for a three-round total of 228.

Bill Doyle had the best front nine with a 36, finished with a 41 for a 77 and a 228 total. Neff tumbled the first nine in a mediocre 40, but had the best back nine of the afternoon with a 36.

The soggy course, following heavy rains Friday and Friday evening, held the distance down on all golfers.

Today's final 18 holes will start at 1:30, with the action still at the Country Club.

Flood Leads Cards To 8th In Row, 7-4

HOUSTON (AP) — Curt Flood lined four singles, scored three runs and drove in another as the streaking St. Louis Cardinals rapped Houston 7-4 Saturday night.

It was the eighth straight victory for the first place Cardinals and the 12th loss in the last 15 games for the Astros.

Rusty Staub slammed a pair of home runs and a double and scored three of Houston's runs against Dick Hughes, who went the distance for his 12th victory. Doug Rader also homered for the Astros.

Sacrifice flies by Roger Maris and Tim McCarver produced a pair of Cardinal runs in the first.

Between you'n me

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

WESTMINSTER, Md. (NEA) — Rick Volk, who weighs 91 pounds, doesn't have the girth, the notoriety nor the checking account to match Charles (Bubba) Smith, who outweighs him by 100 pounds and a couple of tons of newspaper clippings.

Everybody knows Bubba of Michigan State, the first choice of all the college football players of 1966. Volk of Michigan still has trouble reminding people his name is Rick, not Richie.

Both are rookies in the camp of the Baltimore Colts. If you had to figure out one new man likely to be in the starting lineup of the Colts when the regular season opens, it would be Volk. That's not to demean Bubba, who'll play a lot of defensive tackle.

Rick Volk

But it does indicate the special status of Volk, a safety man who conjures up an image of homemade apple pie and pancakes smothered in maple syrup, Saturday night movies and picnics in a wooded grove.

He is clear-eyed and smooth-checked, with a short titled nose and a smile that shows white. He couldn't be more pure mid-American if he were framed by a billboard. He even has an uncle, Bob Capulus, who preceded him at Michigan as an All-American halfback.

The Colts, however, couldn't care less about his genealogy. Their regular free safety last year, Alvin Haymond, popped a chronically dislocated shoulder early in training camp, which created an instant opening for Rick.

He was a second-round selection in last spring's college draft after having specialized as a defensive back at Michigan, including a starting role as a sophomore in the Rose Bowl game.

"I wanted to go to Michigan so bad," says Rick, who grew up outside Toledo, Ohio, "that I said I'd be satisfied just to sit on the bench. Once I got there as a freshman, I wanted to play."

He isn't satisfied just to be a Colt. He wants to play. That shows you how a kid will change.

"When the Colts drafted me," he recalls, "I got to thinking about seeing them play last year. I knew Haymond had a bad shoulder because I remembered he'd make a hard tackle and then come up holding his shoulder. So when I asked them where they expected to play, they said, 'Right safety.'"

And Rick wasn't surprised. He's a rangy 6-2 specimen with good speed who started out as a quarterback but was quickly switched to defense when it was obvious he'd do anything to "play for Michigan." At the College All-Star camp, which delayed his service with the Colts, he was rated by the scouts as the best all-around athlete among the high-priced talent preparing for pro debuts.

When you have this special kind of ability, it takes unique mentality to accept the relative anonymity of a defensive secondary player. Rick, at 22, has the wondrous look of a tourist wandering about classic Greek colonnades. He's delighted the Colts accept him as part of the scenery.

"In a defensive drill the other day," he says, "Lenny Lyles stood with me between plays and we talked."

What did they talk about? "Oh, when we get to playing more together, we'll know each other better."

Lyles, the corner back on Volk's side of the field, is starting his 10th pro season. Rick, starting his first, doesn't even have an apartment in Baltimore yet.

He was married in June. Charlene Volk is as physically decorous in a miniskirted style as Rick. He took her to Hawaii for the honeymoon. First thing Rick did when they got to Honolulu was scout around for a gym where he could work out.

A real serious kid.

O'Donoghue One - Hits Tigers, 5-0

DETROIT (AP) — John O'Donoghue hurled a brilliant one-hitter and Duke Sims crashed a three-run homer as the Cleveland Indians whipped the Detroit Tigers 5-0 Saturday.

Cleveland jumped on Tiger starter and loser Joe Sparma for all its runs in the third inning.

Lee Maye started the rally with a double, Vic Davalillo tripled and Leon Wagner followed with a single. Tony Horton walked but was forced by Max Alvis' grounder. Sims followed with his ninth homer into the right field second deck.

O'Donoghue struck out 11 and was in trouble just once. In the second inning Bill Freehan led off with a single and Ed Matthews walked. But Norm Cash looked at a third strike and Ray Oyler hit into a double play. O'Donoghue didn't allow another base runner, retiring 23 straight batters.

Conigliaro May Be Out For Season

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox slugger Tony Conigliaro was reported in satisfactory condition Saturday with a fractured left cheekbone he received Friday night when struck in the face by a fast ball.

But doctors said it was doubtful he would see action again for the rest of the American League season.

Doctors said he will be out of action for three or four weeks, and it is possible he will not play again in the five weeks remaining in the American League season.

He was hit just below the protective helmet by a fast ball thrown by Jack Hamilton of the California Angels and carried from the field on a stretcher in the fourth inning of the Red Sox' 3-2 victory at Fenway Park.

"If it had been two inches higher," team physician Dr. Thomas Tierney said, "He would have been dead."

Boswell Blanks New York, 1-0, On Three Hits

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Boswell shut out New York on three hits and Minnesota, scoring on an unsuccessful double play attempt, beat New York 1-0 Saturday.

The victory put the American League leading Twins two games ahead of Chicago whose game with Baltimore was rained out.

Bill Monbouquette, 2-3, held the Twins to four hits through the first six innings but Bob Allison led off the seventh by beating out a bunt. Rich Reese forced Allison but Russ Nixon singled, moving Reese to third. Ted Uhlaender grounded to Horace Clarke at second and Clarke tried to tag Nixon, but missed as Reese scored.

Boswell, 11-8, allowed only one Yankee runner as far as third base. Charley Smith singled, leading off the fifth and moved to third on consecutive infield outs. But Clarke lined out, ending the inning.

Five World Records Set In AAU Swims

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five world records in five events were set Saturday in the women's outdoor national AAU swimming and diving championships, a feat described by a veteran AAU executive as the greatest day in the history of American swimming.

After Claudia Kolb, Toni Hewitt, Pam Kruse, Catie Ball and the Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club 400 meter freestyle relay teams left world records sinking in their wake, Harry Hainsworth, director of aquatics for the AAU, said, "This is the biggest day in the history of swimming in America."

The Santa Clara relay team capped the record smashing day with a 4:03.5 in the 400 meter freestyle, bettering the mark of 4:08.3 established by the U.S. Olympic team in Tokyo in 1964. Linda Gustavson, Nancy Ryan, Laura Fritz and Pokey Watson carried the Santa Clara team to a victory over Vesper B.C. of Philadelphia, which finished in 4:05.7.

Yastrzemski's 4 Hits Let Bosox Nip Angels 12-11

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski lashed four hits, including a two-run homer, and scored four runs as Boston outlasted a four-run California ninth inning and beat the Angels 12-11 Saturday.

Yastrzemski scored after hitting leadoff singles in the third and fifth inning and gave Boston a 7-6 lead with his 29th homer in the sixth.

Roger Repoz, with a two-run homer, and Jimmie Hall, with a solo shot, powered the Angels' ninth inning. Jerry Stephenson came in to get the final two outs.

Every Boston starter except Jose Tartabull, filling in for Tony Conigliaro who was hospitalized with a cracked cheek after being hit by a pitch Friday night, hit safely as the Red Sox mauled California pitching for 17 hits.

The Red Sox got three runs on Norm Siebern's bases-loaded pinch triple in the seventh. The Angels, who had scored only 10 runs in seven previous games, jumped off to a 3-0 lead on two walks, a single by Don Mincher and a double by Rick Reichardt in the first.

Stargell Steal Of Second Sets Up 6-5 Buc Edge

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Lumbering Willie Stargell's first stolen base of the year set up the run which broke a 5-5 tie and boosted the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-5 triumph over the New York Mets Saturday night.

The 218-pound Stargell, who has stolen five bases in six seasons, swiped second in the seventh inning when the ball stuck in Met catcher John Sullivan's mitt and the throw was late.

Then Stargell knocked the ball from Sullivan's hands scoring on Gene Alley's single.

Two Met errors and Pittsburgh's three hits, including Matty Alou's double, gave the Pirates three runs and a 5-5 tie in the fifth.

Roberto Clemente slugged a two-run homer for Pittsburgh in the first.

Consecutive singles by Bud Harrelson, Cleon Jones and Tommy Davis keyed a Met four-run outburst in the first. Davis singled and scored again in the fifth.

French Favorite Roquepine Takes Roosevelt Trot

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Roquepine, the all-time favorite from France, went to the front at the start and won the $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

The 6-year-old French mare, who just missed winning this global spectacular a year ago, held off the fast-closing Fresh Yankee of Canada to win by three-quarters of a length.

Governor Armbró, the other Canadian trotter, finished another three-quarters of a length ahead in third place, a neck ahead of Real Speed of the United States.

Roquepine, owned and driven by Henry Levesque, trotted the 1 1/4 miles over a sloppy track in a slow 2:43 4-5 and paid $3.40, $3 and $2.80. Fresh Yankee, driven by Sanders Russell, paid $9.20 and $5.40. Governor Armbró, reined by little Joe O'Brien, paid $4.20 to show.

Real Speed finished a half-length ahead of Oscar R. L. of France. Perfect Freight of the United States wound up sixth, followed by Scott Protector of Norway, Xanthé of Sweden and Graianella of Italy.

Real Speed, who was the 2-1 favorite on the first flash of the odds, both broke stride at the start but made a strong challenge in the last quarter mile, only to fall short.

The downpour of rain before the race had soaked the track and held the crowd to 37,553, instead of an expected 50,000.

Nye Halts Phils On Five Hits 6-1

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rich Nye stopped Philadelphia on five hits and Ernie Banks' two-run single keyed a three-run Chicago ninth inning as the Cubs beat the Phillies 6-1 Saturday.

Nye, 10-9, allowed the only Philadelphia run in the fifth when Gary Sutherland hit his first major league homer.

The Cubs were leading 3-1 in the ninth, though they had managed only five hits off Jim Bunning, 13-10. But they roughed up reliever John Bozzer for four singles and three runs, with Glenn Beckert driving in one and Banks knocking in two.

Ron Santo hit his 27th homer in the second inning, the first of Phillies' pitching in 77 innings, and the Cubs scored two unearned runs with two cut in the fifth.

Say Suspension Of Krause Out Of Proportion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics players said Saturday that the suspension of pitcher Lew Krause resulted from an incident that "was blown out of proportion."

Charles O. Finley, Athletics owner, announced Friday he was suspending Krause without pay, and that there would be no alcoholic drinks served on commercial airlines to the players the rest of the season.

Finley said he "will no longer tolerate the shenanigans of a very few individuals."

Jack Aker, player representative, said the following statement was unanimously approved by the players in a clubhouse meeting Saturday:

"In response to Charles O. Finley's statement of August 18, we, the players of the Kansas City Athletics, feel that an unjust amount of pressure has been brought to bear on several members of the club who had no part whatsoever in the so-called incident on a recent plane trip from Boston to Kansas City."

"The overwhelming opinion of the players is that the entire matter was blown out of proportion. Mr. Finley's policy of using certain unauthorized personnel in his organization as go-betweens has led to similar misunderstandings in the past and has tended to undermine the morale of the ball club. We players feel that if Mr. Finley would give his fine coaching staff and excellent manager the authority they deserve these problems would not exist."

"This statement explains itself," Aker said.

Krause had said earlier in Kansas City that Finley "was completely justified in issuing my suspension."

Neither Krause nor Finley would discuss the nature of the incident on the Aug. 2 plane trip.

At 206, only three strokes off the pace, were Ray Floyd, with 67 Saturday; Steve Opperman with 69, and Frank Beard with 69. Beard has played 54 holes in a row without a bogey, closing in on the professional golfers' association record of 57 holes without a bogey set by Doug Sanders.

Lee Trevino of El Paso, Tex., among the leaders the first two days, slipped to a 72 to end up at 208, five strokes behind Dill.

Damascus Romps To Travers Win

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — Damascus, making up some eight lengths in one-eight of mile, quickly opened up a wide margin and easily won the 96th running of the $90,100 Travers at Saratoga Race Track Saturday with a track record equalling time of 2:01 3-5 on a sloppy track.

One in front, Damascus fairly flew through the slop and hit the finish line 22 lengths in front of Patrice Jacobs' Reason To Hail with George E. Robb's Tumigui another seven lengths back in third place. It was another five lengths back to the fourth and last horse, Gaia Performance.

Haynie Gains Tie With Whitworth

PEKIN, Ill. (AP) — Sandra Haynie of Fort Worth Tex., maximizing a great five-under-par 70 with an eagle on the 14th hole, tied Kathy Whitworth for the third-round lead of the $10,000 Women's Western Golf Open Saturday.

Both pros were among the last to finish as a heavy rain hit the course and posted a 54-hole total of 218, seven under regulation.

The 24-year-old Miss Haynie, seeking her first tournament victory of the year after finishing second three times, had the best round of the meet with a pair of 35s against the Pekin Country Club course's standard of 37-39-75.

Whitworth, 27, starting his sixth Bear season, was fined $100 a day since refusing to join the club at the start of summer practice.

The total fine of $2,000 will be turned over to the Chicago Community Fund, George Halas Jr., Bear president, said in announcing O'Bradovich would join the club immediately.

"O'Bradovich phoned Thursday to set up a meeting Saturday morning. He will be added help for a potentially great Bear defense," Halas said.

SOX REACTIVATE JOHN

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox reactivated left-handed pitcher Tommy John Saturday and sent right-hander Bruce Howard to Indianapolis of the Pacific Coast League on option.

John, 37, was placed on the disabled list last month when he suffered an attack of gastritis after a two-week stint with the Indiana Air National Guard.

Howard, 31-10, was the losing pitcher in Friday's second game, a 3-2 defeat to Baltimore.

SOX BIRDS RAINED OUT CHICAGO (AP) — The game between Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox was rained out Saturday as the Orioles came to bat in the third inning. There was no score. No make-up date was set.

LBJ Surcharge Request Has Tough Fight Ahead

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The battle over the proposed income tax surcharge got under way in Congress this past week.

The Johnson administration rolled out its big guns to support the President's recommendation of a 10 per cent tax increase on corporations and individuals.

Most members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which opened a hearing on the proposal, seemed cool to the idea and it appeared likely that a rough road was ahead for the tax program.

Appearing before the committee in behalf of the administration were Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

They subordinated the cost of the Vietnam war to the economic situation in arguing for the tax boost, which would raise an estimated $7.4 billion in the fiscal year that began July 1.

These officials contended that the surcharge would be the best way to avert a $29 billion federal budget deficit, to dampen inflationary pressures and to forestall an upward interest rate spiral without slowing the economy into a recession.

Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills D-Ark. asked Ackley: "You don't have a fear, then, that a tax increase would further decrease plant utilization? Can we expect the unemployment rate to go up if there's a tax increase? Can we be certain that we can enact a tax increase without depressing industrial production?"

Ackley replied that the softness in the economy during the first half of this year is abating, that businessmen will begin rebuilding inventories in the closing months of this year and that the outlook is for a "buoyant" economy.

The committee will hear witnesses from private groups next week.

Meanwhile, statistics were released that showed improvement in some important sectors of the economy. These included increases in industrial production, housing starts, corporate profits and personal income.

Some sources said these advances provided the administration with further ammunition to back its tax increase proposal.

"There's no question the economy is expanding," commented George McKinney Jr., vice president and economist of Irving Trust Co. of New York. "The only question is whether it will expand sharply or very sharply."

The Federal Reserve Board reported that industrial output, in its first advance in six months, rose to 156.3 per cent of the 1957-59 average in July from 155.3 per cent in June. In July 1966 it stood at 157.2 per cent.

The Commerce Department announced that housing starts climbed 10.8 per cent in July to an annual rate of 1.36 million units from 1,227,000 in June.

The July rate was about 26 per cent ahead of the level of a year earlier and was at the highest rate since the 1,377,000 in April 1966.

Corporate profits rose in the second quarter to an annual rate of $79.2 billion from $79 billion in the first quarter, according to the Commerce Department.

The latest profits rate lagged well behind the $83.6 billion in the 1966 second quarter but economists considered it significant that the quarter-to-quarter declines of the two preceding periods didn't continue. In its second consecutive monthly gain, personal income in July rose by $4.5 billion from June to a record annual rate of $627.1 billion, according to the Commerce Department.

Automobile production this past week rose to an estimated 44,400 cars from 34,043 last week as output of 1968 models picked up.

New car sales in the first 10 days of August declined to 181,660 from 189,778 a year earlier.

Steel output last week increased 4.5 per cent to 2,338,000 tons from 2,237,000 tons the previous week.

$342,000 U. Of I. Contract For Local Firm

URBANA, Ill. — Hertzberg-New Method Inc. of Jacksonville has received the contract to bind books, serials and newspapers for University of Illinois libraries during the next two years.

The $342,000 contract for July 1, 1967 through June 30, 1969, has been approved by the university's board of trustees. It covers the university's libraries at Urbana-Champaign, Chicago Circle, and Medical Center in Chicago.

The Jacksonville firm entered the lowest sealed bid in firms seeking the contract.

Hospital Honors Jr. Volunteers

Holy Cross Hospital was the setting for a tea on Saturday afternoon August 19, 1967 to honor Junior Volunteers and their parents. Mrs. Jeanne Schumm was the hostess assisted by members of the Nursing Service Department.

Twenty-eight teen-agers, including two boys, have volunteered 2,471 hours of service in the hospital during the summer months.

The Junior Volunteer program was organized to give an opportunity for generous teen-agers to learn the value of giving to others. It has been a worthwhile program both for youth of this community who have been willing to participate, and to the hospital patients who have been recipients of their services.

The volunteer program offers the opportunity of the possibility of future careers in health fields for the teen-agers and gives them an awareness of the many needs of persons who are hospitalized.

Total cost of the project is estimated at $26.86 million in U.S. money. IFC said it will lend $2.45 million for the project and invest another $1.02 million in share capital.

The financial toll of this nation's biggest race riot is now being tallied to some degree of accuracy, according to the figures above released by the Insurance Information Institute in New York City. The figures, which relate to insured business losses only, show $85 million in damages in insured businesses only. They do not include residential and miscellaneous damages, not to mention the loss of 43 lives. By comparison, total damages in the 1965 Watts riots amounted to $40 million, with 35 deaths. Figures on the left side of the chart indicate the number of businesses damaged or destroyed.

Industrial Production Up 10.8%

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first increase in industrial production this year and a strong 10.8 per cent advance during July in homebuilding Wednesday gave the administration new arguments for its appeal to Congress for higher taxes.

The new reports virtually completed a bullish picture of recent economic activity which included record retail sales, the biggest jump in personal income since January and a drop in the unemployment rate to 3.9 per cent of the labor force.

The administration is basing much of its argument for the 10 per cent income tax surcharge on its prediction for the second half economic upturn. Data collected so far indicates that upturn may have begun last month.

Administration witnesses are scheduled to resume their testimony next Monday before the House Ways and Means Committee on President Johnson's proposal for the 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes.

Both the production index and housing had turned down during June—production for the fifth time during the first six months of the year. The index remained stable during March.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, told the Ways and Means Committee earlier this week the economy can take the surcharge in stride.

The Federal Reserve Board said its production index rose one full point during July to 156.3 per cent of the 1957-59 base period, recouping more than one fourth of the 3.7-point drop since January. It returned to the April level.

The index reached a record 159 per cent last December. Settlements of strikes in the electrical machinery, television and rubber industries and increased crude oil production because of the curtailment of Middle East supplies accounted for much of the July advance, the board said.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market had another week of breath-catching, taking a slight loss for the second straight week.

The market was still going through a process of consolidation, analysts said. It was an adjustment to a strong summer rally which put averages up to new highs for the year. This was a resumption of a very sharp advance from the first of the year to May 8.

Wall Street is now looking ahead to the uncertainties of early September, symbolized by the Labor Day milestone which is traditionally a turning point for business and the market.

The big questions in the stock market community were: Will Congress enact the proposed income tax. If so, how much will it really be and when will it take effect? What will be the side effects of the election in South Vietnam? Will there be military escalation? Will there be an auto strike?

Wall Street was adopting a kind of watch-and-wait attitude. The Dow Jones industrial average last week took a trifling loss of 1.61 at 919.04.

Volume sank to 41,978,010 shares as the length of the daily sessions on the New York Stock Exchange was cut to four hours from the usual 5½ so that brokerage houses could catch up on paper work. The total compared with 46,507,220 the previous week when four of the five sessions were abbreviated to four hours.

The major exchanges return to the 5½ hour days next week. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks last week lost 1.3 at 340.3. Of 1,592 issues traded, 617 rose and 846 fell.

Allis-Chalmers took the spotlight, rising vigorously in response to a second acquisition offer from Ling-Temco-Vought but then falling as Allis-Chalmers directors decided to turn the bid down. Allis ended with a net loss of 1½ while L-T-V fell 11 to 137.

Prices were mixed in the bond market. The Treasury market dallied early in the week awaiting announcement of the Treasury Department's financing plan, announced Thursday.

Treasury issues under five years fell in price toward the close.

GREENE COUNTY DRAFT BOARD INDUCTS EIGHT

ROODHOUSE — Local Board No. 131 in Greene county reports the following men were inducted into the Army during the months of July and August.

Gordon R. Schutz of Hillview, volunteered for the draft; George L. Raines, Jr., Lyndell L. Phillips, Andy C. Hardwick, all of White Hall; Larry J. Armstrong of Greenfield; Leo H. Grummel, Jr. and Raymond L. Daniels of Carrollton, and Byron W. Wankel of Jacksonville.

At this time the following boys have enlisted: Michael Costello of White Hall and John B. Shaw of Roodhouse into the Army; Michael E. McGee of Roodhouse, Ronnie and Donnie Talkington of White Hall, and John C. Dailey formerly of Carrollton into the Navy; and Darrell D. Dorks of White Hall into the Air Force.

Corn Futures End Slide, Beans Climb

By ED DE MOCH
CHICAGO (AP) — Corn futures ended 10 straight weeks of declining prices on the Chicago Board of Trade during the week, while soybeans posted their best weekly advance in a year.

The corn advance checked a decline which had reached nearly 25 cents under the early June price.

The advance of soybeans futures, ranging up to 6½ cents a bushel for the week, was the best since last August when the price of soybeans was around $1 more a bushel than now.

When trading closed Friday, wheat futures were 1½ to 1½ cents lower than Aug. 11, September 1.50-50½; corn was 1 to 1½ cents higher, September 1.21½-¼; oats were unchanged 59 1¼ cents higher, September 71 cents; rye was 2¼ to 2½ cents lower, September 1.18½; and soybeans were 3½ to 6½ cents higher, August 2.19½-½.

Soybean oil was 1 to 30 points higher for the week, while soybean meal gained 85 cents to 3.60.

The advances in corn and soybeans were posted despite continuing reports that the 1967 production of both commodities will reach record highs. Thus, the advance was based on some rather thin influences.

Wheat futures fell more than 4 cents a bushel Monday and tended to drag down prices of other commodities. The next day, a report that possibly cooler temperatures in northern portions of the Midwest might occur Thursday and Friday gave some strength to soybeans and corn. The same weather report was given new impetus Wednesday when the government weather bureau appeared to verify it. Thursday both commodities scored slight advances again on the weather report.

However, when the possible lower readings did not occur Friday, corn closed virtually unchanged but soybeans advanced about 2 cents. Higher cash prices for soybeans and a tightness in local receipts of corn and wheat. Liquidation Monday appeared to be the main factor in wheat's decline.

Oats and rye moved mostly in the direction of corn and wheat. Some of the strength in soybeans was reflected in higher soybean oil and soybean meal prices. It was the first week in some six months that the two soybeans products advanced simultaneously for the week.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Beckert drove in Phillips with a single to left. Billy Williams singled, sending Beckert to third and Ron Santo's double scored him.

The Phillies had tied the game in the fourth when Don Lock beat out a grounder to Santo and went to second on the third baseman's error. With two out, Johnny Callison drove in Lock.

Chicago Bears

George Halas

Dick Butkus

GENERAL COMMENT — There's great admiration for George Halas, the venerable septuagenarian, but you've got to face the fact that a muddled coaching staff is helping drag the Bears down. And player unrest, plus untimely retirements, has cut into the quality of the talent.

OFFENSE — PASSING — Started out camp with six quarterbacks. Incumbent Rudy Bukich should be the man, but there are symptoms that scrambler Jack Concannon, ex-Eagle, moves club better. Rating—C+.

RECEIVING — Would give the proverbial world for a tight end to replace traded Mike Ditka. Untested rookies are all they have now. With Johnny Morris returning healthy after knee operation, and Jimmy Jones a good deep threat, the wide spots aren't suffering as much. Rating—C.

RUNNING — Gale Sayers is absolutely the best in the world. He does it all—trouble is he does it all by himself. Andy Livingston came back fat from knee surgery; Ron Bull got hurt early in camp, leaving Charley Bivins at full. They need a swift Livingston to ease pressure on Sayers. Rating—B+.

LINE — Abe Giron has moved George Sels to tackle, and he looks at home. Otherwise, the same faces steady Mike Pyle at center, Mike Rabol and Jim Cadille at guards, Bob Wetoska at tackle. Behind them, there are only new faces for support. Don Croftcheck could help. Rating—B.

KICKING — Looks like Roger Leclerc has finally been supplanted as placekicker by Rick Duncan and Bruce Alford. For punting, none better than sky-booting Bobby Joe Green.

DEFENSE — LINEBACKERS — Butressed with adequate pass rush with Doug Atkins gone. Still hope to lure holdout Ed O'Bradovich back. Meanwhile, rookie Loyd Phillips, trifle smart, holds down end and other is a tossup. Lot more settled inside with Dick Evey, Frank Cornish coming strong as tackles. Rating—C.

Mathews Helps Tigers Take 4-0 Shortened Game

DETROIT (AP) — Eddie Mathews joined the Detroit Tigers Friday night and drove in a run with a second-inning single as the Tigers beat Cleveland 4-0 in a rain shortened game.

The game was called with one out in the bottom of the fifth as a downpour hit.

Willie Horton walked starting the Tiger second. Bill Freehan singled and Mathews, in his first American League appearance after 15 years in the National League, cracked a single to left, scoring Horton. Norm Cash followed with a single and Freehan scored on Chuck Hinton's bad throw to the plate.

Winning pitcher Mickey Lolich brought Mathews home with an infield out and Mickey Stanley drove Cash home with a single.

National Drags Set Labor Day Weekend In Indy

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — A virtual pilgrimage of exotic, high-performance racing machines, their crews and drivers from every area of the nation, will soon begin their annual trek to Indianapolis Raceway Park, Indiana, for the National Hot Rod Association's 13th annual National Championship Drag Races set for Labor Day weekend, August 31-September 4.

NHRA President, Wally Parks, founder of the sport's trailblazing organization, announced this week that the field for this year's Nationals has been expanded to include 1500 entries, a staggering $10.5 million worth of racing equipment. The drivers corps will represent 47 states, including Alaska and Canada.

Competition ranges from 1500 horsepower, supercharged Fuel Dragsters often clocking over 220 mph, to Detroit's latest experimental and high performance offerings.

Parks also stated that the 1967 Nationals purse exceeds $100,000 in cash awards, the largest total ever offered in drag racing.

Traditionally the largest, fastest and richest event in this lightning fast sport, the '67 Nationals' spectator throng is expected to surpass last year's record 130,000.

Like the participants, National fans come from all parts of the nation. The long Labor Day weekend enables many to make it a complete fun trip or vacation. The grassy countryside around the $2 million Indianapolis Raceway Park resembles a sea of tents and camping gear at Nationals time.

NHRA and civic officials estimate that the 5-day Nationals will be responsible for over $2.6 million of additional revenue for Indianapolis area motels, restaurants and merchants.

Technical and safety inspection begin August 30; time trials and qualifying runs take place Thursday and Friday, August 31 and September 1. The Saturday and Sunday programs present elimination races for 35 class championships. Monday's show brings back all Class Champions and qualifiers for a final big day to decide the $100,000 purse split between 8 separate Eliminator, including 220 mph Fuel Dragsters and 180 mph Experimental Stocks.

Recommend SIU Move Into Major College Ranks

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — A nine-member study commission recommended Friday that Southern Illinois University move into big-time intercollegiate athletic competition.

The commission, including faculty and student representation, suggested in a 23-page report that Southern Illinois adopt a program of 120 NCAA-sanctioned athletic scholarships, 90 for football, and 150 student work assignments for athletes, or 270 NCAA scholarships as an alternative.

It urged the school to "seek excellence in the fields of football, basketball, baseball and soccer through affiliation with a conference."

Construction of a football stadium seating between 25,000 and 30,000 also was recommended.

SIU expects 19,000 students at its Carbondale campus this fall while the branch at Edwardsville expects between 7,000 and 8,000.

Dallas Determined To Go All The Way

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Cowboys are breaking camp at California Lutheran College and will head home for Dallas after Sunday's preseason game in San Francisco. It is a veteran ball club, laced with a few rookies, that is determined to go all the way in 1967.

The memory of that agonizing defeat by Green Bay last New Year's Day, when they came within two yards of a tying touchdown in the final seconds, still lives. But Coach Tom Landry and his staff are trying to teach the Cowboys to forget last year and concentrate on their defense of the Eastern Conference title.

Forgetting Green Bay isn't easy because the two clubs meet Aug. 28 in the Cotton Bowl in a game that has to be more than just another preseason game to both teams.

Competing in the new Capitol Division with Philadelphia, Washington and New Orleans, the Cowboys have a long march ahead. However, the objective is a rematch with Green Bay for the NFL title Dec. 31.

The Cowboys welcome the challenge. They are prepared with a sound offense, built around the passing of Don Meredith, the running of Don Perkins and Reeves and the receiving of Bobby Hayes.

Lance Rentzel picked up from Minnesota, is challenging Pete Gert at flanker where the veteran Buddy Dial also is available. Pettis Norman and Frank Clarke have a new rival at tight end in Rayfield Wright, 6-foot-7, 245-pounder from Fort Valley State.

Three Quarterbacks — Unless pressure forces a move, Landry hopes to keep three quarterbacks. He believes Jerry Rhyme and Craig Morton, both in their third year, are ready to mature.

Landry's complicated offense calls for multiple formations all originating in the I formation. Sometimes the team runs out of the I but it usually shifts.

The starting backfield will be Meredith at quarter and Reeves and Perkins as running backs, backed by Walt Garrison and Les Shy. Craig Baynam, a rookie from Georgia Tech, also has impressed Landry.

Tony Liscio probably will take over at left tackle with John Niland, a second year pro, moving into his guard post. Dave Manders will be the center, Leon Donohue the other guard and Ralph Neely the tackle on the right side.

Interior Line Depth — With men like Jim Booche, Malcolm Walker and Mike Connelly in reserve, the Cowboys have the most depth at interior line of any NFL team with the exception of Green Bay.

Bob Lilly 6-5, 281 leads a fine defensive line that includes 6-6, 262-pound Jethro Pugh at the other tackle and 6-4, 270-pound Willie Townes and 6-7, 258-pound George Andrie at the ends. They smeared enemy passers 60 times last year, leading the league.

The same linebackers are back—Chuck Howley and Dave Edwards on the outside and Lee Roy Jordan in the middle. Harold Hays is the reserve.

Mel Renfro, the fleet free safety is back on defense to stay after last year's experiment as a running back. Cornell Green and Warren Livingston are the corner backs and Mike Keeler the strong safety. Rookie Phil Clark, the Cowboys' top draft from Northwestern, is a prime candidate along with Dick Daniels and Mike Johnson from last year's rookie crop.

The kicking caravan that toured the nation came up with its best bet in Mac Percival who lives six miles from Dallas.

FORMER PITCHER DIES — SALAMANCA, N.Y. (AP) — Raymond "Rube" Caldwell, former pitcher with Cleveland, Boston and the New York Yankees, died Thursday night in Salamanca District Hospital.

Caldwell, a right-hander, hurled in the major leagues for 12 years, having his best year with Cleveland in 1920 when he won 20 games and lost 10.

Bell Finishes With 4-Hitter As Bosox Win 3-2

BOSTON (AP) — Right-hander Gary Bell hurled hitless ball for 6 1-3 innings and finished with a four-hitter Friday night as Boston defeated the California Angels 3-2.

Bell, who led the Red Sox attack with a double and a run scoring single, lost his no-hit bid when Jimmie Hall hit the first pitch into the left field screen for his 14th homer. Hall homered again in the ninth.

The victory, boosting Boston two full games ahead of fifth place California in the tight American League pennant race, was a costly one for the Red Sox.

Tony Conigliaro, the Red Sox 22-year-old slugger with 20 homers and 65 RBI in just 95 games, was hit on the left temple and knocked unconscious by a pitch thrown by California starter Jack Hamilton in the fourth inning.

Conigliaro was carried on a stretcher to the clubhouse, where he regained consciousness before being taken to nearby Santa Maria Hospital.

Announce Price Range For 1968 Olympic Games

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Visitors to the 1968 Olympic Games will be able to see the best in amateur sports for as little as 24 cents a ticket, the Olympic Organizing Committee said Friday.

Pedro Ramirez Vazquez, president of the committee, said ticket prices will range from 24 cents to $24. They are theoretically on sale to foreigners now but Mexican residents won't be able to buy them until next August.

Ramirez Vazquez said the admission prices were authorized by the Federal District (Mexico City) government and approved by the committee. He said the 24-cent bleacher seats allow the most humble to see part of the games.

The $24 tickets will be for reserved, front row seats at such popular events as track and swimming.

No one will actually be able to pick up tickets until they go on sale to Mexicans next summer. This is being done in an effort to cut the possibilities of counterfeiting, cut the number of returned tickets and make sure all the foreign tourists who want tickets will be able to get them.

As soon as a visitor gets confirmation of his hotel room from the lodging control office he receives authorization to buy tickets to as many events as he desires. The tickets are to be waiting for him when he arrives in Mexico City.

Ramon Alatorre, head of the lodging office, said a percentage of all the variously-priced tickets have been set aside for tourists.

No tourist can buy tickets unless he has a confirmed hotel reservation or made housing arrangements. Nor can he get a hotel room reserved during the games unless he agrees to buy at least one Olympic ticket a day during his stay.

All requests for hotel reservations and tickets from abroad are channeled to Alatorre's office. It's his job to guarantee that any person receiving confirmation of his reservation, and paying the required room deposits, has a room during the games.

Cassius Married Friday Night

CHICAGO (AP) — Cassius Clay, the deposed world heavyweight boxing champion, was married to Beinda Boyd, 17, in a Black Muslim ceremony Friday night.

Gene Mason, a member of Clay's camp, said the ceremony was at 6:30 p.m., CDT.

Clay's parents flew in from Atlanta but were too late to attend the ceremony. They did attend a reception, however, at Clay's South Side home, where the wedding was performed.

The bride was dressed in a floor length white dress and veil. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Boyd, attended the ceremony.

Carlton Goes Distance For 11th Victory

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Shannon and Julian Javier drove in two runs apiece as the streaking St. Louis Cardinals defeated Houston 5-3 Friday night for their seventh straight victory.

Shannon stroked a fourth inning home run—the first hit against loser Mike Cuellar. After Tim McCarver reached base on an error, Javier also homered.

Doubles by Doug Rader and Ron Brand gave the Astros a run in the fourth but St. Louis picked up two more with two out in the fifth when Alex Johnson tripled, Curt Flood singled, Orlando Cepeda walked and Shannon singled.

Houston touched winner Steve Carlton for two in the sixth when Rusty Staub and Rader singled. Bob Aspromonte doubled the runs across.

Carlton went the distance, striking out 11 for his 11th victory of the season.

Then Cullen tagged his second home run of the season, scoring Casanova and McMullen in front of him.

Hunter and Ken Harrelson drove in two runs apiece and Casanova had a three-run homer for the Senators.

Stargell's homer, his 17th, came off Jack Fisher in the fourth inning. He became the first player ever to hit two homers over the roof in one season, a feat accomplished only 12 times.

The Pirates went ahead with two runs in the third on singles by Bill Mazeroski, Manny Mota and Gene Alley and a wild pitch.

Disputed Homer By Ward Lifts Sox To 3-1 Edge

CHICAGO (AP) — Pete Ward's disputed two-run homer in the sixth inning powered the Chicago White Sox to a 3-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Friday night in the first game of a doubleheader.

The start of the opener was delayed for more than two hours because of rain.

Ward's blast off reliever Moe Drabowsky wiped out a 1-0 Baltimore lead and led to the election of Orioles Manager Hank Bauer.

Reese's Pinch HR In 9th Lets Minnesota Split

NEW YORK (AP) — Rich Reese's two-run pinch-hit homer in the ninth inning gave Minnesota a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees and a split of a two-night doubleheader Friday.

The Yankees won the opener 1-0 behind Steve Barber's six-hitter, snapping a seven-game Minnesota winning streak and a three-game losing streak of their own.

Ted Uhlander led off the ninth inning of the nightcap for the Twins, singling for the sixth hit off Fred Talbot, 5-5 Reese hit off reliever Ron Kline and drove his third homer of the season into the rightfield bleachers.

The Yanks had taken a 3-2 lead in the eighth on Joe Pepitone's sacrifice fly, driving in Jake Gibbs, who singled and moved to third when Jackie Hernandez threw wildly to first on Tom Treash's bunt attempt.

The only run in the first game came in the first inning when Horace Clarke led off with a single, went to second on Treash's single, to third on a wild pitch and scored on Pepitone's single.

Finley Suspends Pitcher Krausse

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Pitcher Lew Krausse of the Kansas City Athletics was suspended indefinitely without pay Friday by owner Charles O. Finley and the club was notified that alcoholic drinks no longer will be served to the A's on airlines.

The owner warned the A's he won't tolerate the "shenanigans" of a few.

"Krausse has been suspended indefinitely without pay for conduct unbecoming a major league ball player," Finley announced from his Chicago office. "I will have no further comment on Krausse."

Finley added that the following bulletin, signed by him, will be posted in the A's club house at Washington:

"Effectively immediately and for the balance of the season, alcoholic drinks no longer will be served on commercial airlines to members of the Kansas City Athletics.

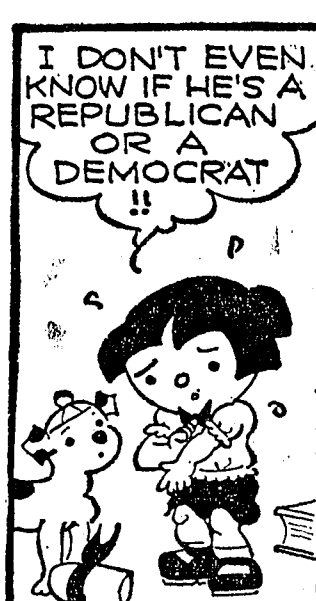

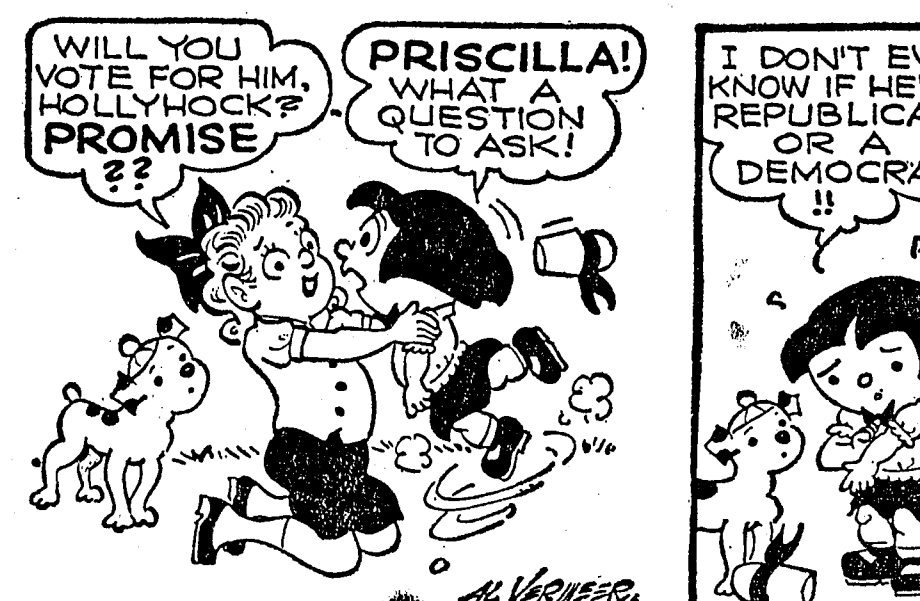

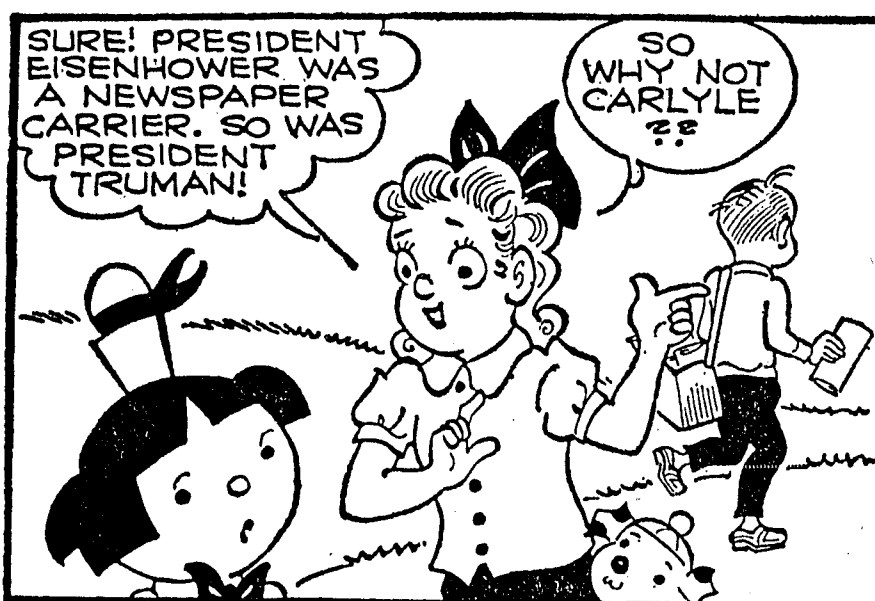

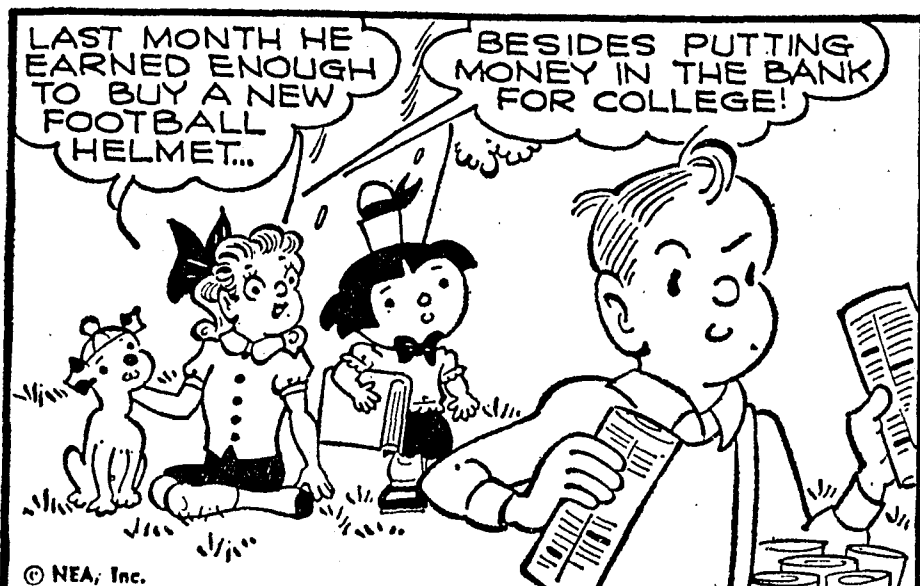

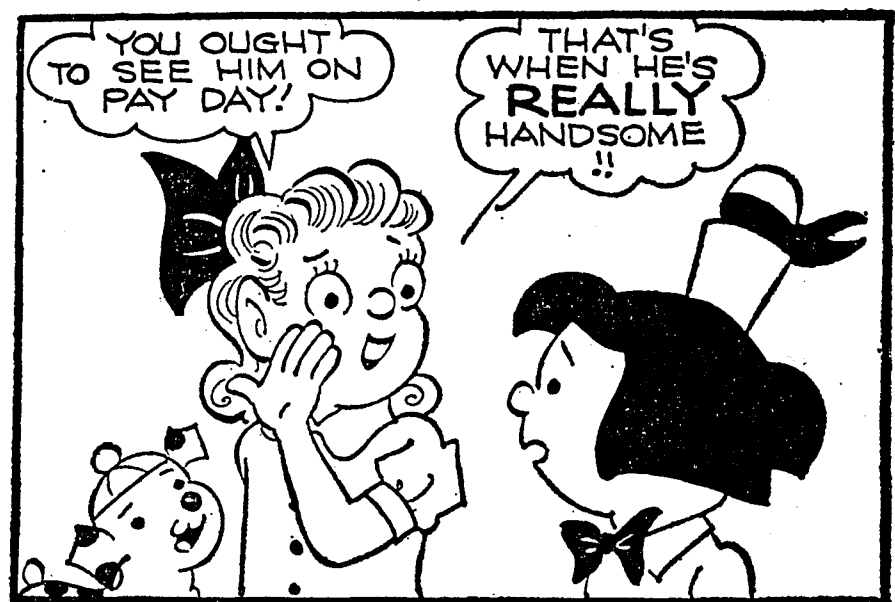

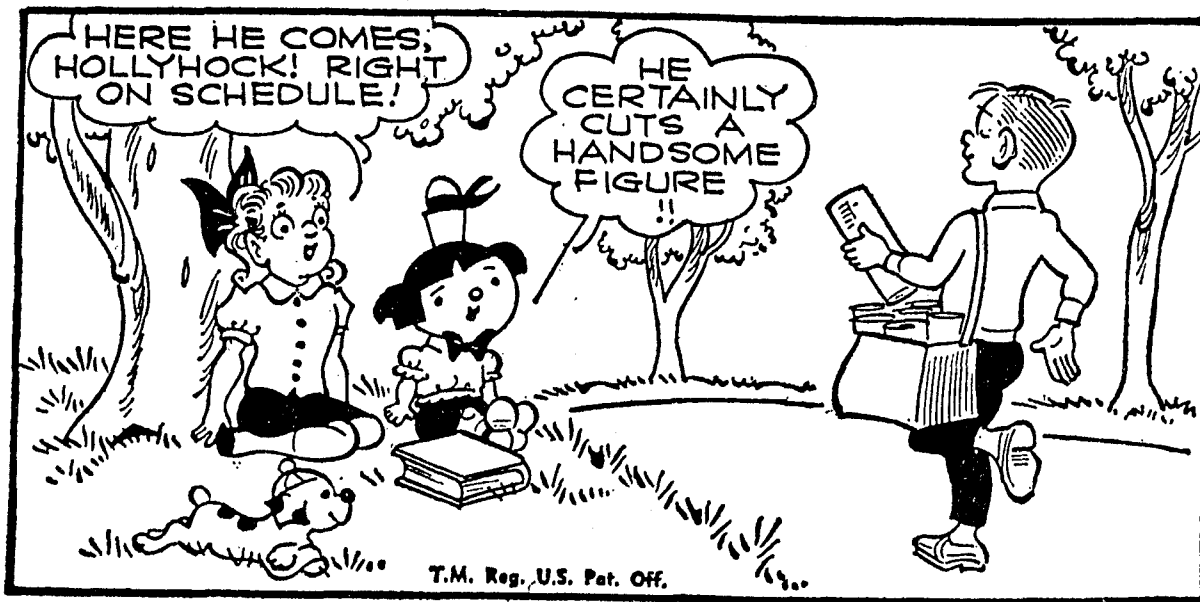

"The Kansas City Athletics will no longer tolerate the shenanigans of a very few individuals who obviously do not appreciate the privilege of playing in the major leagues and being treated as gentlemen. The attitude, actions and words of some of you have been deplorable.

"As members of organized baseball, you have certain responsibilities and obligations to yourself, your family, your teammates, your club and most important of all—the fans.

Hint Navy Pilots Play Old Expensive Game

By BOB HORTON AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—There's a hint of an old, enormously expensive game going on among Navy pilots operating off North Vietnam. The goals: get rid of every bomb and fly often to keep up combat records.

The Navy officially says nobody's playing it, but a former aviator says "it was common knowledge all the time I was aboard," and a ranking admiral says he got word from the top that such reported antics weren't to be tolerated.

Privately, some military officers say the practice went on in World War II and Korea and is still going on to some extent.

"About a third of our ordnance was dumped in the water, and that's a conservative estimate," said Alex Waier, 32, a chemical company analyst in Midland, Mich. His remarks were carried Tuesday by the Bay City (Mich.) Times in a copyrighted story.

Waier, an A1 Skyraider pilot aboard the carrier Ticonderoga until his discharge after nine years' service in February, said pilots were told to beat the other carriers' records on numbers of bombing missions.

"We would zip up and down the coast and unload, or dump them in the water," Waier said. "That way, the carrier would get credit for a sortie."

Waier said Navy pilots were risking their lives against cheap or worthless targets and often got sent out in dangerously foul weather on what he called meaningless missions.

Except for targets in Hanoi or Haiphong, Waier said, there are few profitable sites to hit in North Vietnam.

Within hours the Navy produced some top combat-proven officers to explain Waier's remarks.

Rear Adm. D.C. Richardson, commander of Task Force 77 on Yankee Station off Vietnam until last May, denied there was any formal sortie race among Navy pilots but he indicated that plenty of enthusiastic competition was underway.

Adm. David L. McDonald, former chief of naval operations, "look me aside before I went out and said 'I've had word of sortie races and want no part of it,'" Richardson said.

Richardson said top Navy people had "been aware of this thing" for the past two years. The admiral disputed Waier's statements about bomb-dumping, but only in degree and reasons.

Richardson said because of bad weather Navy pilots sometimes fail to reach assigned targets and head back to ship with full bomb loads.

As a precaution against accidental explosions on deck the pilot routinely releases his ordnance over water before landing.

In Logging Industry

V-Balloon Idea Dawns

Since an army of Paul Bunyans would be needed to get logs out of some virgin timberland in western Oregon and Washington, an aerial balloon is being tried as a means of airlifting them across roadless tracts. Hovering at 500 feet, the V-balloon with a load of logs is pulled by cable to an off-loading area.

Principal advantages of the balloon, which is 162 feet long, include elimination of carving expensive roads out of timberland at costs of $30,000 per mile and reduction of damage to logs in transition from cutting areas. Yet critics in the logging game point out that the balloon costs $160,000 and has a life expectancy of only four years, and it can be used only when the weather is not turbulent. Cost and profit sheets of the one company currently using the balloon should tell the story soon.

Hint Navy Pilots Play Old Expensive Game

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a hint of an old, enormously expensive game going on among Navy pilots operating off North Vietnam. The goals: get rid of every bomb and fly often to keep up combat records.

The Navy officially says nobody's playing it, but a former aviator says "it was common knowledge all the time I was aboard," and a ranking admiral says he got word from the top that such reported antics weren't to be tolerated.

Privately, some military officers say the practice went on in World War II and Korea and is still going on to some extent.

"About a third of our ordnance was dumped in the water, and that's a conservative estimate," said Alex Waier, 32, a chemical company analyst in Midland, Mich. His remarks were carried Tuesday by the Bay City (Mich.) Times in a copyrighted story.

FLYING FARMER "DUCHESS" — Mrs. Virginia Wheeler, of route one, Ashland, is shown above minutes after landing at the Jacksonville Municipal Airport from a trip to the International Flying Farmers convention in Hot Springs, Ark. Mrs. Wheeler, wife of Murrell Wheeler, was selected "Duchess" of the International Flying Farmers, in competition with 36 candidates from the United States and Canada. Mrs. Wheeler, the Illinois Flying Farmer Queen, was runner-up to a Michigan woman, who was selected as the queen of the organization. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, and their two children attended the convention, held August 13-18. She was selected on flying ability and aeronautical knowledge, as well as participation in community activities, poise and charm.

Morgan Woman New Flying "Duchess"

HOT SPRINGS, ARK. — A farm wife from Michigan was crowned queen of the International Flying Farmer, capping the group's 22nd annual convention, that also witnessed an Ashland woman chosen duchess.

The new duchess is Mrs. Virginia Wheeler, of route one, Ashland, Ill., wife of Murrell Wheeler.

Mrs. Margaret Monte, wife of a farmer from Fairgrove, Mich., accepted the queen's crown from outgoing queen, Mrs. Ellen Jane Anderson of Arlington, Colo.

Mrs. Monte and her husband, Paul, farm 1,000 acres in navy beans, sugar beets, corn, wheat and oats. The Monteis arrived here last weekend with their four children, Dennis, 17, Randy, 15, Monte, 13, and Paula, 3, in the family plane, a Cessna 175.

Both the Monteis hold private pilot's licenses. They have been very active in local church, P.T.A. and Cub Scout work. They maintain a 1,900-foot runway on their Tuscola county farm.

The new duchess was crowned by the outgoing duchess, Mrs. Tricia Smith of Fairfax, Okla. Mrs. Wheeler, and her husband, Murrell, farm 900 acres in corn and soybeans. They brought their two children with them to the convention in the family's Cessna 172. Linda is 15, and Steve, 11.

Both Wheelers are licensed pilots and are in the process of building a 2,300 foot landing strip on the farm. Mrs. Wheeler's activities include working with school and church groups, and heading community fund drives.

A native of Jacksonville, Ill., she attended Blackburn College in Carlinville, and received a B.S. degree in home economics from the University of Illinois in 1947.

Both Mrs. Monte and Mrs. Wheeler are 41. They will travel extensively throughout the U.S. and Canada during the coming year as official representatives of IFF.

The convention, which drew about 1,100 farmers, their wives and families, ended Friday. Some 280 light planes will take off from Memorial Airport.

Central Park Offers Grand Prix Circuit For Area Youths

By SANDY PETERSEN

Mention Central Park to any passerby, and be prepared for a, "Oh, you mean the square!" reply. The official, yet out-of-vogue, title for the Miss Liberty-guarded plot seems inapplicable to most since a PARK is thought to contain recreational facilities. Yet it is more of a park than most people realize.

Most have witnessed the daytime sunning and lounging facilities put to use, but comparatively few ever view the nightly activities.

With the evening hours, the Jacksonville square takes on new meaning.

Bench users are replaced by Jacksonville area youths who are nightly confronted with seemingly boring alternatives when, "where do we go tonight?" arises.

Converted Nightly
No longer viewed as the center of commerce, the square becomes a quarter-mile plus cement grand prix circuit, which provides the answer to, "where do we go," for increasing numbers.

The curves may not be banked, and there is no prize money, but it serves the purpose, none the less. And, unlike Lake Jacksonville, where "empties" outnumber trees three-to-one, it is perfectly legal.

Off To The Races
The nightly racing card begins with sparsely attended preliminaries shortly before dusk, and lasts until the gas budget can't take it any more, or, disinterest results. Many spectators remain well into the early morning hours.

One great attraction is that the participants can be drivers/riders and A.D. spectators. After taking a couple of laps around the course, drivers have the option of continuing their circling, or taking up positions along the spacious 'infield area' — see Miss Liberty's domain.

Cycle enduros sporadically provide an added attraction; and more noise.

Most race entries, of which male carloads outnumber idle female shipments four-to-one, have at least one or two co-pilots. Autos containing mixed groups, and solo drivers are rare.

Main Objective
Behind this activity, youth's ultimate motive is to meet with members of the opposite sex. Oft-times this requires comical maneuvering. Once a prospective carload of conversationists is spotted, plans are put into action.

But invariably, attracted partners find themselves on opposite sides of the square.

First speeding up, attempting to overtake the other car, and later slowing — waiting to be overtaken — jockeying drivers discover that such efforts almost always fruitlessly coincide.

Inter-car, intransigent conversations are possible, yet "pit-stops" must be made to achieve the main objective.

The frustrating problems of "who will overtake whom," and once aligned, "do we want to waste our time with them?" severely dent the gas gauge, before any progress is made, however.

Torments later, one car generally stops. There is no guarantee that the other car will stop, but in most cases, one or two more circlings yield both cars occupying adjacent parking spaces along the infield.

Little Success
Once stopped, drivers and passengers soon find that little was gained through their frustrating antics.

As one "square regular" confided, "All we really want to do is talk. It seldom results in more than a brief gas session. The only problem is that most of the (girls) ... you run into aren't worth talking to in the first place."

Break From Routine
Tired of continual left turns, drivers often take shoulder-relaxing spins down any of the track's eight tributaries. Tell-tale tire marks indicate S. Main and W. State handle the bulk of such jaunts.

Most fuel stops are made at an all-night station on N. Main, whose attendants often gas the same cars several times a night: sending them back into the race.

Although this activity might appear the most boring of alternatives presented local youth, "Not So," claims one square racing veteran.

Asked why he and his companions do not spend an evening at someone's home, or seek more organized activities offered, he replied, "I don't know. We've never tried much stuff like that."

"Park dances hurt (disliked), and anyway, this is where the life is."

"You got any better ideas?" he asked.

Flashes Galore

By Christine Hembrough

On July 28, I was OUT of school, out of AWFUL biology, out of science, and those awful dissections! On HOORAY day I went to Grandma's. I didn't do anything but eat, sleep, watch TV, and get fat the ten days I was there.

Now it's off to the assembly in Peoria to meet a pen pal to the state fair, and hopefully to Nebraska for two weeks of fun and another pen pal visit. Then it's back to awful school again. Now on to the flashes.

New Additions
My "baby" cat, Blackie had four "children" but only two survived. They sure are cute. We haven't named them yet so if you have any ideas, we will appreciate them.

An Interview
Recently I interviewed a professional photographer. It sure was lots of fun. I went out with him on his daily assignments, and watched while he developed films.

I even got to enlarge some film under his direction and was it fun!!! We talked a lot, and he gave me some advice on modeling.

Careers
Are you having difficulties in finding a career you seriously might like? Need some help? If you do, why don't you write to me and I'll be glad to help you out.

There are plenty of available books, and more than likely I'll be able to talk to people in the field that interests you. Some careers I have investigated for various assignments are: all types of airport work, beautician, model, and photographer. Won't be any trouble, so come on!

Things To Do
Back to school time will unfortunately be back soon. Lots of things to do. Start getting up earlier! Maybe you'd better practice in math, and spelling too.

Keep in mind what you plan to do this year and do it. Make a "new year's" resolution that you'll get all of your homework done on time, or that you'll go to bed early every night. And don't get so filled up with activities that you are getting too little sleep. Sleep is very important, it's not a waste of time. In fact, without sleep you'd easily win the Miss Ugly award this year!

And too don't get so involved in school work that you overwork yourself. You do need a hobby, a change of pace, something to keep you balanced!

And SEND in any problem, idea, or suggestion YOU might have.

I am going to do a lot of things, but the thing I will do most of the time is play with my dog. Her name is PeeWee. She is a Dalmatian dog." "We play tag all the time. Sometimes she is poison and if she touches me, I am it. We have fun playing together. We like each other very much. When I roller skate she chases me, and makes me fall down. We have lots of fun."

ORBITAL WORKSHOP

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

If no further long delays are encountered by the United States' manned space flight program this country should have a reusable manned space station in orbit by late 1968. This space station is the Orbital Workshop, an integral part of the Apollo Applications Program (AAP).

The first crew for the Orbital Workshop was picked on December 22, 1966. They are Astronauts Frank Borman, Michael Collins and William Anders. They will be launched into orbit aboard an Apollo Command Module with a Service Module attached.

A day later the Orbital Workshop will be placed in an orbit 300 miles above earth. At this height it will stay in orbit about two years.

The Orbital Workshop is actually the second stage of an Upgraded Saturn I with a multiple docking adaptor attached. The three astronauts will rendezvous and dock with this vehicle.

When they have pressurized the oxygen tank of the spent second stage they will climb through the airlock and set up the orbital workshop. This will then provide them with the supplies they need to spend 28 days in space. When this time is up they will leave the Orbital Workshop stored in space for

reuse. Another Launching
A few months later three other astronauts will be launched into an orbit below the Orbital Workshop with the Apollo Command and Service Module. A day later an Apollo Lunar Module, modified to be an Apollo Telescope Mount, will be launched into orbit.

The three astronauts will then rendezvous with the Orbital Workshop and dock both units to the connecting Airlock, as shown above. They will then spend 56 days in orbit—twice the time spent by the first Orbital Workshop crew.

On some of the Orbital Workshop missions the crew will set up automatic equipment to continue the space research after they are gone. In this way the delicate equipment can function without interference from man. When the next crew arrives they will remove the tapes made by the machines and, before they leave, reset the machines for another period of automatic operation.

Prayer Poem

Common Fault

By Mary Pence Claywell

It's a common thing, yet, Lord, not right... We know when we do a thing for spite, And still we know it's done each day... On jobs, at home, and even play: Just little hurts, become hot embers.

Sometimes so small, they're hard to remember; Yet none are too big, nor yet, too small.

But what at times, we, one and all, Will stop to do a thing for spite,

Although we know, that it isn't right:

But it wouldn't be hard to smother it out,

The hateful snap, or word, or pout,

That irked, when some one else was weak,

Insulting, or smart, in a way to speak;

So we ought to "fess" up, for we know that we

At times, are hateful... the same as he:

Please help us, Lord, when another is bad,

To shrug it off... and not GET MAD,

Or ponder away, with vigor and vim,

Till we find a way... to GET EVEN with him.

Old Man And A Boy

By John Rankin

The old man sat in a battered armchair in the cooling shade of a spreading elm and peered out over the railroad tracks to the rolling, sunbaked hills beyond the highway. A vine-covered shack nestled against a ledge in back of him stood full in the glare of a sizzling mid-day sun.

Honeybees hummed and buzzed around the open door of the quaint little hut and an occasional butterfly, as if from nowhere, appeared momentarily on the flowery vines and then flitted away and was lost in the sun.

For a long while "Ole Tom" as everybody called him, smoked his pipe quietly and peered into space as though seeing nothing in particular. Then as the sun moved across the sky he looked into the shadows beyond the highway and saw a rambling, weather-beaten house sitting back on a hill above a creek.

Barefoot Boy
Pretty soon, just as Ole Tom had expected, a barefoot boy popped up from somewhere around back of the house. A little fellow wearing his trousers rolled above the knees, he looked around quickly and then moved stealthily along a line of trees leading off from the house and dropped from sight behind a wooded hill.

"The little imp!" Ole Tom thought with a grin. "He's slipped off from his ma to go wading in the creek. Most likely he'll be in for a lacing when he shows up with his clothes all wet and muddy."

An amused smile broke over the old man's weather-lined features now and he rested his head on the back of his chair and closed his eyes. For a long while he remained fixed in a quiet, peaceful sort of calm.

He knew even without looking that the boy was down there now wading in the shallow waters of the creek catching minnows and tiny frogs with his bare hands. He hoped for once that his mother wouldn't call him to the house any minute now. Somehow she always did, it seemed.

The wish had barely crossed the old man's mind, though, when he heard the familiar voice he'd been expecting. "Tommee... Tommee..."

"Just as I expected; but he'll try it again tomorrow," Ole Tom thought with a grin. In a peculiar sort of way he had come to know this little fellow better than anyone else knew him. Better than anybody he knew the innate part of his nature that molded his life and made him what he was.

He was aware of his ideals, his dreams and ambitions, and the rather strange part of his makeup that set him apart from most other boys his age.

Dreamer
Actually Ole Tom had come to understand this little fellow Tommy Davis even better than his own mother understood him.

He knew that the boy was a dreamer, and would spend hours off to himself trying to decide what he'd be when he grew up.

At times he thought he would like to make a doctor; or a lawyer, maybe. Then again he might be a newspaper man; or the owner of a great circus even.

He was never quite sure, but he'd be something pretty big and important.

Enjoy Summer

Summer is the best time of year. Especially now that it is here; So always make the best of it, And hurry and get out your baseball and mitt. There is anything that you can do, From tic-tac-toe to playing tennis.

You can go collect shells down by the sea, It's better than staying home with Grandma have tea.

But while you are there please give it a thought, That you'll soon have to go back to schoolwork you have fought.

When I'm swinging on my swing, I have a feeling I want to sing, But the thought, "Summer's almost over."

Comes into a tune, Oh, how I wish it was starting and that it was June

YOUR BIRTHDAY AND HOROSCOPE

By STELLA
SUNDAY, AUGUST 20 — Born today, you have a tremendous sense of justice and your sense of right and wrong has always been highly developed. Even as a child you were a champion of fair play. As an adult this trait is one of your major assets. It will make you enemies, to be sure, but it will bring you friends in much greater number, and of much more influence.
Willpower and determination are your stock in trade. They keep you at a project even when the going gets rough — and they should ensure your eventual success. You need only take care that these same traits don't cause you to stick to a venture that is sure to fail and thus to waste your valuable time. Learn to recognize failure in spite of your determination to succeed — and learn, too, to pull out in time.
Although you could make a go of a career in business, you would probably be happier in work where money was not the criterion of success. You are not particularly geared emotionally to the commercial world, but appear to be more suited to intellectual pursuits or to social work of some kind.
To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.
MONDAY AUGUST 21
LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) — This is the day for wisely advancing your business of professional career. Women in the home, however, should bide their time.
VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) — A promising day for the Virgo who is willing to fight for what he believes in. You may not have an easy time, but you should win out.
LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) — Check your investments before continuing the way you've begun. All may not be as profitable as it appears to be.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — A day which could have spectacular results. Only take care not to involve others in risky schemes; then no one can blame you.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22) — Follow your instincts regarding progressive activities at work. Find others who will cooperate.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20) — You can make a new project pay excellent dividends ahead of time, if you play your cards right. Think!
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) — Make job progress now by seeming to play into another's hands. Keep your finger on the pulse of things.
PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 21) — Take advantage of one of your best days of the month. Now is the time to make your bid for quick advancement.
ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20) — Work out your plans to the smallest detail and results would be excellent. Seek professional advice in financial matters.
TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21) — Keep working along a single

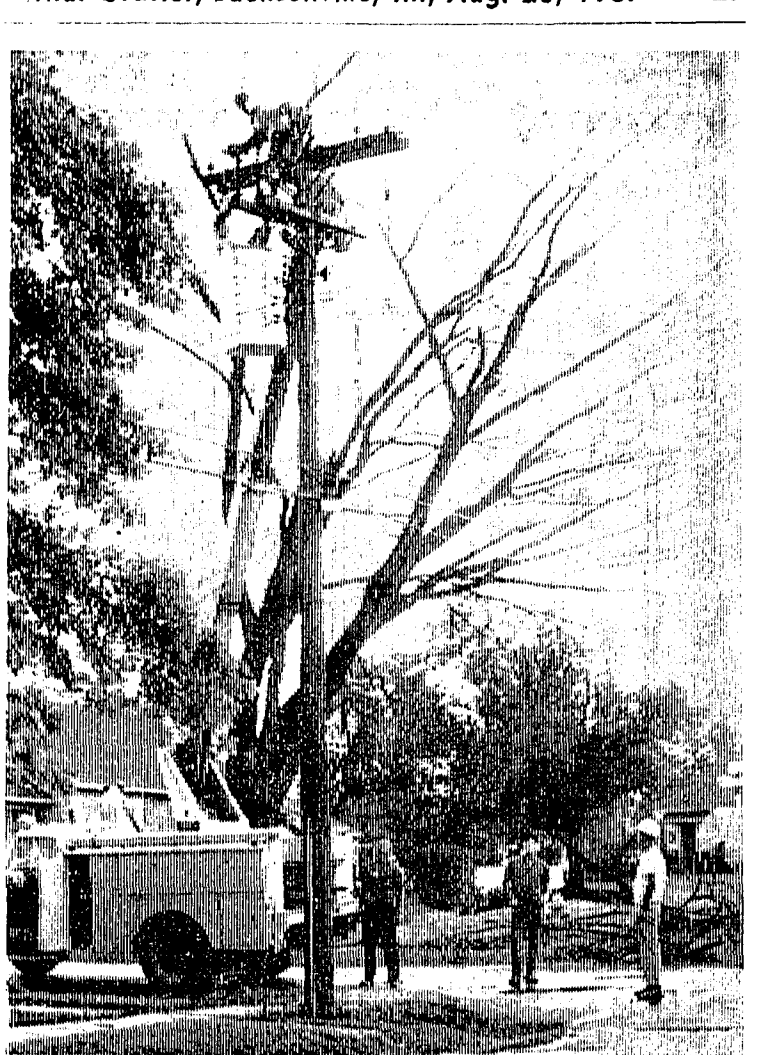

JOINT EFFORT—Illinois Power and City Power crewmen teamed up along the 800 block of North Prairie Friday to restring two primary and four secondary power lines which were felled by a large falling limb during Friday evening's rain and wind storm. Traffic was blocked for over two hours by the fallen limb and wires.

TOO CLOSE — Mrs. Alma Murphy (L) surveys a 30-foot maple limb which fell into her front yard late Friday afternoon and narrowly missed hitting her house at 924 N. Beesley. Joining Mrs. Murphy in a sigh of relief are her neighbors to the south, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hundley, whose house was also narrowly missed by the falling wood. Wires pulled down by the limb were repaired by Illinois Power crewmen.

PINNED UNDER CAR — Mrs. Ethel J. Brown, 27, of 312 South East street was hospitalized Friday evening when she was thrown from her auto, and partially pinned beneath the vehicle. Passing motorists helped the woman free from the car. The accident, which occurred five miles west of the city on U.S. 36-54 about seven o'clock, was one of five that afternoon.

QUICK REPAIR—Crewmen from the City Water, Light and Power Co. repair three 'hot' lines which were knocked to the ground by a falling limb during Friday evening's wind and rain storm. The lines, at the corner of Beesley and Independence, were felled shortly after 5 p.m. when high winds raked the north part of the city.

City Man Pleads Guilty To Illegal Betting Charge

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Paul E. Gilbert, 66, of Jacksonville pleaded guilty Friday to one count of a three-count indictment charging him with failing to pay federal wagering taxes.
Judge Omer Poos in U.S. District Court ordered a pre-sentence investigation of Gilbert, treasurer of the Trades and Labor Assembly of Jacksonville.
Gilbert was indicted by a federal grand jury July 31. The count to which he pleaded guilty charged him with failing to buy a gambling stamp for the fiscal year ended June 30.
When Gilbert was arrested by Internal Revenue agents June 2 a large number of baseball lottery cards was seized from his person and his car, Jay G. Philpott, district director of Internal Revenue for Central and Southern Illinois, announced.
A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Poos also for Billy Joe Lettrel, 43, of Macon who pleaded guilty to the July 13 theft of $10 from a registered letter in Decatur where he was a postal employee. He asked for probation.

Judge Poos granted Samuel Xanders, 43, an Alton attorney, 60 days to file motions on his plea of innocence to a charge of making a false oath in a bankruptcy proceeding in September 1964.

Between You'n'me

by MURRAY OLDERMAN
SPORTS EDITOR
NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

WESTMINSTER, Md. (NEA)—Rick Volk, who weighs 91 pounds, doesn't have the girth, the notoriety nor the checking account to match Charles (Bubba) Smith, who outweighs him by 100 pounds and a couple of tons of newspaper clippings.

Everybody knows Bubba of Michigan State, the first choice of all the college football players of 1966. Volk of Michigan still has trouble reminding people his name is Rick, not Richie.

Both are rookies in the camp of the Baltimore Colts. If you had to figure out one new man likely to be in the starting lineup of the Colts when the regular season opens, it would be Volk. That's not to demean Bubba, who'll play a lot of defensive tackle.

Rick Volk

But it does indicate the special status of Volk, a safety man who conjures up an image of homemade apple pie and pancakes smothered in maple syrup, Saturday night movies and picnics in a wooded grove.

He is clear-eyed and smooth-cheeked, with a short titled nose and a smile that shows white. He couldn't be more pure mid-Americana if he were framed by a billboard. He even has an uncle, Bob Cappius, who preceded him at Michigan as an All-American halfback.

The Colts, however, couldn't care less about his genealogy. Their regular free safety last year, Alvin Haymond, popped a chronically dislocated shoulder early in training camp, which created an instant opening for Rick.

He was a second-round selection in last spring's college draft after having specialized as a defensive back at Michigan, including a starting role as a sophomore in the Rose Bowl game.

"I wanted to go to Michigan so bad," says Rick, who grew up outside Toledo, Ohio, "that I said I'd be satisfied just to sit on the bench. Once I got there as a freshman, I wanted to play."

He isn't satisfied just to be a Colt. He wants to play. That shows you how a kid will change.

"When the Colts drafted me," he recalls, "I got to thinking about seeing them play last year. I knew Haymond had a bad shoulder because I remembered he'd make a hard tackle and then come up holding his shoulder. So when I asked them where they expected to play me, they said, 'Right safety.'"

And Rick wasn't surprised. He's a rangy 6-2 specimen with good speed who started out as a quarterback but was quickly switched to defense when it was obvious he'd do anything to "play for Michigan." At the College All-Star camp, which delayed his service with the Colts, he was rated by the scouts as the best all-around athlete among the high-priced talent preparing for pro debuts.

When you have this special kind of ability, it takes unique mentality to accept the relative anonymity of a defensive secondary player. Rick, at 22, has the wondrous look of a tourist wandering about classic Greek colonnades. He's delighted the Colts accept him as part of the scenery.

"In a defensive drill the other day," he says, "Lenny Lyles stood with me between plays and we talked."

What did they talk about? "Oh, when we get to playing more together, we'll know each other better."

Lyles, the corner back on Volk's side of the field, is starting his 10th pro season. Rick, starting his first, doesn't even have an apartment in Baltimore yet.

He was married in June. Charlene Volk is as physically decorous, in a miniskirted style, as Rick. He took her to Hawaii for the honeymoon. First thing Rick did when they got to Honolulu was scout around for a gym where he could work out.

A real serious kid.

O'Donoghue One - Hits Tigers, 5-0

DETROIT (AP) — John O'Donoghue hurled a brilliant one-hitter and Duke Sims crashed a three-run homer as the Cleveland Indians whipped the Detroit Tigers 5-0 Saturday.

Cleveland jumped on Tiger starter and loser Joe Sparma for all its runs in the third inning.

Lee Maye started the rally with a double, Vic Davalillo tripled and Leon Wagner followed with a single. Tony Horton walked but was forced by Max Alvis' grounder. Sims followed with his ninth homer into the right field second deck.

O'Donoghue struck out 11 and was in trouble just once. In the second inning Bill Freehan led off with a single and Ed Matthews walked. But Norm Cash looked at a third strike and Ray Oyler hit into a double play. O'Donoghue didn't allow another base runner, retiring 23 straight batters.

Conigliaro May Be Out For Season

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox slugger Tony Conigliaro was reported in satisfactory condition Saturday with a fractured left cheekbone he received Friday night when struck in the face by a fast ball.

But doctors said it was doubtful he would see action again for the rest of the American League season.

Doctors said he will be out of action for three or four weeks, and it is possible he will not play again in the five weeks remaining in the American League season.

He was hit just below the protective helmet by a fast ball thrown by Jack Hamilton of the California Angels and carried from the field on a stretcher in the fourth inning of the Red Sox' 3-2 victory at Fenway Park.

"If it had been two inches higher," team physician Dr. Thomas Tierney said, "He would have been dead."

Boswell Blanks New York, 1-0, On Three Hits

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Boswell shut out New York on three hits and Minnesota, scoring on an unseasonable double play attempt, beat New York 1-0 Saturday.

The victory put the American League leading Twins two games ahead of Chicago whose game with Baltimore was rained out.

Bill Monbouquette, 2-3, held the Twins to four hits through the first six innings, but Bob Allison led off the seventh by beating out a bunt. Rich Reese forced Allison but Russ Nixon singled, moving Reese to third.

Ted Uhlander grounded to Horace Clarke at second and Clarke tried to tag Nixon, but missed as Reese scored.

Boswell, 11-8, allowed only one Yankee runner as far as third base. Charley Smith singled, leading off the fifth and moved to third on consecutive infield outs. But Clarke lined out, ending the inning.

Five World Records Set In AAU Swims

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five world records in five events were set Saturday in the women's outdoor national AAU swimming and diving championships, a feat described by a veteran AAU executive as the greatest day in the history of American swimming.

After Claudia Kolb, Toni Hewitt, Pam Kruse, Katie Ball and the Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club 400 meter freestyle relay teams left world records sinking in their wake, Harry Hainsworth, director of athletics for the AAU, said, "This is the biggest day in the history of swimming in America."

The Santa Clara relay team capped the record smashing day with a 4:03.5 in the 400 meter freestyle, bettering the mark of 4:03.8 established by the U.S. Olympic team in Tokyo in 1964. Linda Gustavson, Nancy Ryan, Laura Fritz and Pokey Watson carried the Santa Clara team to a victory over Vesper B.C. of Philadelphia, which finished in 4:05.7.

Miss Kolb, a 17-year-old senior at Santa Clara, Calif., High School broke the fourth world mark of the day and her second in two days, as she won the 400 meter individual medley in 5:08.2, shattering the existing standard of 5:14.9, and her own pending 5:09.7 set last month in the Pan American Games.

In lowering the existing mark headed by Donna De Varona of Santa Clara, since 1964, Miss Kolb won by 10 yards over Sue Pederson of Sacramento, Calif. Miss Hewitt, a 15-year-old junior at Corona Del Mar High School in California, Miss Kruse of the Ft. Lauderdale swimming association, and Miss Ball of Jacksonville, Fla., set their records in the first three events Saturday.

Lt. Mickey King, pert blonde Air Force officer from Ann Arbor, Mich., lost her bid for a triple in the diving events—she won the one and three meter dives—when she finished second to Lesley Bush, Olympic and Pan-Am platform queen, in the 10-meter platform diving event.

Miss Bush, student at the University of Indiana and a resident of Princeton, N. J., thus regained the title she won in 1965, and lost last year to Shirley Teeples of Compton, Calif.

Miss Hewitt, 15-year-old who never finished better than fourth in a national title event, started the run of world records in the 200-meter butterfly as she won in 2:23 by a touch over Ellie Daniel of the Vesper B.C. of Philadelphia, whose 2:23.9 also shattered the existing mark.

The record is held by Holland's Ada Kok at 2:25.3, and the European swimmer also has pending mark of 2:25.5 set a few weeks ago.

Miss Kruse, who last month won the Pan American Games 200-yard freestyle, churned through Kelly pool Saturday in 2:09.7, bettering the world mark of 2:10.5 held by Pokey Watson on the Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club the defending champion who finished fifth in the 200.

Linda Gustavson of the Santa Clara S. C. was second to Miss Kruse with a 2:10.4, also bettering the world mark.

The third world mark in three races was broken moments later when Miss Ball, a 15-year-old blonde, swam away from a flock of eight to win the 100 meter breaststroke in 1:14.6.

The old record of 1:15.7 was held by Galina Prozumenshikova of Russia at Lenin Central, July 17, 1966, and equaled by Miss Ball in December 1966 at Santa Clara.

The Red Sox got three runs on Norm Siebern's bases-loaded pinch triple in the seventh. The Angels, who had scored only 10 runs in seven previous games, jumped off to a 3-0 lead on two walks, a single by Don Mincher and a double by Dick Reichardt in the first.

Oliver Triggers Dodgers To 7-3 Win Over Braves

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nate Oliver slammed three singles, one of them triggering a six-run outburst in the third inning Saturday as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Atlanta 7-3.

The Dodgers' biggest inning of the season helped left-hander Claude Osteen gain his 14th victory against 12 defeats. The Braves gathered 10 hits, one of them a two-run homer by Henry Aaron. It was Aaron's 31st.

Willie Davis and Lou Johnson each singled home a run for the Dodgers, who pounded loser Pat Jarvis, 13-6, and three successors for 10 hits.

Nye Halts Phils On Five Hits 6-1

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Rich Nye stopped Philadelphia on five hits and Ernie Banks' two-run single keyed a three-run Chicago ninth inning as the Cubs beat the Phillies 6-1 Saturday.

Nye, 10-9, allowed the only Philadelphia run in the fifth when Gary Sutherland hit his first major league homer.

The Cubs were leading 3-1 in the ninth, though they had managed only five hits off Jim Bunning, 13-10. But they roughed up reliever John Boomer for four singles and three runs, with Glenn Beckert driving in one and Banks knocking in two.

Ron Santo hit his 27th homer in the second inning, the first of Phillies' pitching in 77 innings, and the Cubs scored two unearned runs with two cut in the fifth.

Say Suspension Of Krausse Out Of Proportion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics players said Saturday that the suspension of pitcher Lew Krausse resulted from an incident that "was blown out of proportion."

Charles O. Finley, Athletics owner, announced Friday he was suspending Krausse without pay, and that there would be no alcoholic drinks served on commercial airlines to the players the rest of the season.

Finley said he "will no longer tolerate the shenanigans of a very few individuals."

Jack Aker, player representative, said the following statement "was unanimously approved by the players in a clubhouse meeting Saturday:

"In response to Charles O. Finley's statement of August 18, we, the players of the Kansas City Athletics, feel that an unjust amount of pressure has been brought to bear on several members of the club who had no part whatsoever in the so-called incident on a recent plane trip from Boston to Kansas City.

"The overwhelming opinion of the players is that the entire matter was blown out of proportion. Mr. Finley's policy of using certain unauthorized personnel in his organization as go-betweens has led to similar misunderstandings in the past and has tended to undermine the morale of the ball club.

We players feel that if Mr. Finley would give his fine coaching staff and excellent manager the authority they deserve these problems would not exist."

"This statement explains itself," Aker said.

Krausse had said earlier in Kansas City that Finley "was completely justified in issuing my suspension."

Neither Krausse nor Finley would discuss the nature of the incident on the Aug. 2 plane trip.

Haynie Gains Tie With Whitworth

PEKIN, Ill. (AP) — Sandra Haynie of Fort Worth Tex., claiming a great five-under-par 70 with an eagle on the 14th hole, tied Kathy Whitworth for the third-round lead of the $10,000 Women's Western Golf Open Saturday.

Both pros were among the last to finish as a heavy rain hit the course and posted a 54-hole total of 218, seven under regulation.

The 24-year-old Miss Haynie, seeking her first tournament victory of the year after finishing second three times, had the best round of the meet with a pair of 35s against the Pekin Country Club course's standard of 37-38-75.

The 6-year-old French mare, who just missed winning this global spectacular a year ago, held off the fast-closing Fresh Yankee of Canada to win by three-quarters of a length.

Governor Armbr, the other Canadian trotter, finished another three-quarters of a length back in third place, a neck ahead of Real Speed of the United States.

Roquepine, owned and driven by Henry Levesque, trotted the 1 1/4 miles over a sloppy track in a slow 2:43 4-5 and paid $3.40, $3 and $2.80. Fresh Yankee, driven by Sanders Russell, paid $9.20 and $5.40 Governor Armbr, reined by little Joe O'Brien, paid $4.20 to show.

Real Speed finished a half-length ahead of Oscar R. L. of France. Perfect Freight of the United States wound up sixth, followed by Scott Protector of Norway, Xanthe of Sweden and Graianella of Italy.

Real Speed, who was the 2-1 favorite on the first flash of the odds, both broke stride at the start but made a strong challenge in the last quarter mile, only to fall short.

The downpour of rain before the race had soaked the track and held the crowd to 37,553, instead of an expected 50,000.

THE NEW BREED in baseball believes in staying ahead of things. And so Bob Gibson hobbled into the St. Louis Cardinal dressing room recently with a sign on his shirt with six answers to obvious questions about his broken ankle.

SOX REACTIVATE JOHN CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox reactivated left-handed pitcher Tommy John Saturday, and sent right-hander Bruce Howard to Indianapolis of the Pacific Coast League on option.

John, 8-7, was placed on the disabled list last month when he suffered an attack of gastritis after a two-week stint with the Indiana Air National Guard.

Howard, 3-10, was the losing pitcher in Friday's second game 8-2 defeat to Baltimore.

SOX, BIRDS RAINED OUT CHICAGO (AP) — The game between Baltimore and the Chicago White Sox was rained out Saturday as the Orioles came to bat in the third inning. There was no score. No make-up date was set.

Chicago Bears

George Halas

GENERAL COMMENT — There's great admiration for George Halas, the venerable septuagenarian, but you've got to face the fact that a muddled coaching staff is helping drag the Bears down. And player unrest, plus untimely retirements, has cut into the quality of the talent.

OFFENSE — Started out camp with six quarterbacks. Incumbent Rudy Bukich should be the man, but there are symptoms that scrambler Jack Concannon, ex-Eagle, moves club better. Rating—C+

RECEIVING — Would give the proverbial world for a tight end to replace traded Mike Ditka. Untested rookies are all they have now. With Johnny Morris returning healthy after knee operation, and Jimmy Jones a good deep threat, the wide spots aren't suffering as much. Rating—C

RUNNING — Gale Sayers is absolutely the best in the world. He does it all—trouble is he does it all by himself. Andy Livingston came back fat from knee surgery; Ron Bull got hurt early in camp, leaving Charley Byrns at full. They need a swift Livingston to ease pressure on Sayers. Rating—B+

LINE — Abe Giron has moved George Seals to tackle, and he looks at home. Otherwise, the same faces — steady Mike Pyle at center, Mike Rabol and Jim Cadile at guards, Bob Wetoska at tackle. Behind them, there are only new faces for support. Don Croftcheck could help. Rating—B

KICKING — Looks like Roger Leclerc has finally been supplanted as placekicker by Rick Duncan and Bruce Alford. For punting, none better than sky-booting Bobby Joe Green.

DEFENSE — Real trouble mounting adequate pass rush with Doug Atkins gone. Still hope to lure holdout Ed O'Bradovich back. Meanwhile, rookie Lloyd Phillips, trifle small, holds down one end and other is a tossup. Lot more settled inside with Dick Evey, Frank Cornish coming strong as tackles. Rating—C

Mathews Helps Tigers Take 4-0 Shortened Game

DETROIT (AP) — Eddie Mathews joined the Detroit Tigers Friday night and drove in a run with a second-inning single as the Tigers beat Cleveland 4-0 in a rain shortened game.

The game was called with one out in the bottom of the fifth as a downpour hit.

Willie Horton walked starting the Tiger second. Bill Freehan singled and Mathews, in his first American League appearance after 15 years in the National League, cracked a single to left, scoring Horton. Norm Cash followed with a single and Freehan scored on Chuck Hinton's bad throw to the plate.

Winning pitcher Mickey Lolich brought Mathews home with an infield out and Mickey Stanley drove Cash home with a single.

National Drags Set Labor Day Weekend In Indy

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — A virtual pilgrimage of exotic, high-performance racing machines, their crews and drivers from every area of the nation, will soon begin their annual trek to Indianapolis Raceway Park, Indiana, for the National Hot Rod Association's 13th annual Nationals Championship Drag Races set for Labor Day weekend, August 31-September 4.

NHRA President, Wally Parks, founder of the sport's trailblazing organization, announced this week that the field for this year's Nationals has been expanded to include 1500 entries, a staggering $10.5 million worth of racing equipment. The drivers corps will represent 47 states, including Alaska and Canada.

Competition ranges from 1500 horsepower, supercharged Fuel Dragsters often clocking over 220 mph, to Detroit's latest experimental and high performance offerings.

Parks also stated that the 1967 Nationals purse exceeds $100,000 in cash awards, the largest total ever offered in drag racing.

Traditionally the largest, fastest and richest event in this lightning fast sport, the '67 Nationals' spectator throng is expected to surpass last year's record 130,000.

Like the participants, Nationals fans come from all parts of the nation. The long Labor Day weekend enables many to make it a complete fun trip or vacation. The grassy countryside around the $2 million Indianapolis Raceway Park resembles a sea of tents and camping gear at Nationals time.

NHRA and civic officials estimate that the 5-day Nationals will be responsible for over $2.6 million of additional revenue for Indianapolis area motels, restaurants and merchants.

Technical and safety inspection begin August 30; time trials and qualifying runs take place Thursday and Friday, August 31 and September 1. The Saturday and Sunday programs present elimination races for 88 class championships. Monday's show brings back all Class Championships and qualifiers for a final big day to decide the $100,000 purse split between 8 separate Eliminator, including 220 mph Fuel Dragsters and 180 mph Experimental Stocks.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The duck season in Illinois will begin at sunrise Oct. 28 and end at sunset Dec. 6, the State Conservation Department announced Friday.

The daily limit is four ducks and the possession limit eight. Not more than two mallards, one wood duck or one canvasback may be included in the daily bag, the department said. The seasons for coot and jack snipe will run concurrently with the duck season.

Goose season will begin at sunrise Oct. 16 and end at sunset Dec. 6 except in Alexander, Union, Williamson and Jackson counties.

In those four counties, where most of the geese in Illinois are bagged, the season will begin at sunrise Nov. 13 and end at 3 p.m. Dec. 24 unless a state quota of 20,000 geese is taken before the scheduled closing date.

In that event, the season will be closed by order of the Illinois Conservation Department.

MANTLE NEARS WILLIAMS — MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — When Mickey Mantle hit his 511th and 512th home runs in Metropolitan Stadium against the Minnesota Twins on July 4th, it put the Yankee switch hitter in undisputed possession of fifth place on baseball's home run list.

Mickey's next goal is fourth place, now occupied by Ted Williams who hit 521 career home runs. Jimmie Foxx is still third with 534. Willie Mays took second place last year. Babe Ruth's 714 is still tops.

Dallas Determined To Go All The Way

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — The Cowboys are breaking camp at California Lutheran College and will head home for Dallas after Sunday's preseason game in San Francisco. It is a veteran ball club, laced with a few rookies, that is determined to go all the way in 1967.

The memory of that agonizing defeat by Green Bay last New Year's Day, when they came within two yards of a tying touchdown in the final seconds, still lives. But Coach Tom Landry and his staff are trying to teach the Cowboys to forget last year and concentrate on their defense of the Eastern Conference title.

Forgetting Green Bay isn't easy because the two clubs meet Aug. 28 in the Cotton Bowl in a game that has to be more than just another preseason game to both teams.

Competing in the new Capitol Division with Philadelphia, Washington and New Orleans, the Cowboys have a long march ahead. However, the objective is a rematch with Green Bay for the NFL title Dec. 31.

Reds' Nolan Picture Of Boy-Man

CINCINNATI (AP) — Take a lot of natural skill, plenty of heart, and a lot of confidence, put them together and you have Gary Nolan, the 19-year-old pitching sensation of the Cincinnati Reds.

Add to that the shyness of a boy-man—he already is the father of two children—who last year was hurling for the Oroville, Calif. high school, and the wonder of Nolan increases.

He has a fine fast ball, an increasingly effective curve, and determination which does not give way under fire.

Manager Dave Bristol says he "has as much heart as he has stuff. He's amazing at times."

Nolan's record (8-3 on July 30) has been achieved without much batting help from his teammates. In his first 137 innings he got 140 strikeouts.

Four Shutouts

He had four shutouts in mid-July, and three of them were 1-0.

Nolan names Jim Hart, Willie McCovey, Billy Williams and Matty Alou as among the hitters who have caused the most trouble.

San Francisco gave Nolan his first two defeats.

Gary, however, got some satisfaction. He struck out Willie Mays three consecutive times in one game and in another he struck out 15 for a National League high.

Nolan is a perfectionist. When it was noted that he is a pretty good fielding pitcher, he shook his head and said:

"I think I'm a bit sluggish in fielding, but I'm working on it."

Gary says his baseball career really began when his parents gave him a ball and glove on his 7th birthday.

Wants To Grow

"I liked baseball from then on and I stayed with it," he says. "Every year I like it more. I want to grow a bit more, too."

Nolan believes the Reds have a fine chance to win the pennant and "wants to help do it."

Big Deron Johnson, first baseman, is Nolan's roommate when the club is on the road.

"He talks a lot when we are in our room," says Johnson, "and most of it is about baseball. He asks a lot of questions."

When the Reds are in Cincinnati, Nolan and his wife Carol spend their time watching movies and TV.

"With two boys—one 2 and the other just a few weeks old—we stay in our apartment a lot," he says.

Nolan's only professional experience before joining the Reds was with Sioux Falls in the Northern League in 1966, where he won 7 games and lost 3.

Bell Finishes With 4-Hitter As Bosox Win 3-2

BOSTON (AP) — Right-hander Gary Bell hurled hitless ball for 6 1-3 innings and finished with a four-hitter Friday night as Boston defeated the California Angels 3-2.

Bell, who led the Red Sox' attack with a double and a run scoring single, lost his no-hit bid when Jimmie Hall hit the first pitch into the left field screen for his 14th homer. Hall homered again in the ninth.

The victory, boosting Boston two full games ahead of fifth place California in the tight American League pennant race, was a costly one for the Red Sox.

Tony Conigliaro, the Red Sox' 22-year-old slugger with 20 homers and 65 RBI in just 95 games, was hit on the left temple and knocked unconscious by a pitch thrown by California starter Jack Hamilton in the fourth inning.

Conigliaro was carried on a stretcher to the clubhouse, where he regained consciousness before being taken to nearby Santa Maria Hospital.

Announce Price Range For 1968 Olympic Games

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Visitors to the 1968 Olympic Games will be able to see the best in amateur sports for as little as 24 cents a ticket, the Olympic Organizing Committee said Friday.

Pedro Ramirez Vazquez, president of the committee, said ticket prices will range from 24 cents to $24. They are theoretically on sale to foreigners now but Mexican residents won't be able to buy them until next August.

Ramirez Vazquez said the admission prices were authorized by the Federal District (Mexico City) government and approved by the committee. He said the 24-cent bleacher seats allow the most humble to see part of the games.

The $24 tickets will be for reserved, front row seats at such popular events as track and swimming.

No one will actually be able to pick up tickets until they go on sale to Mexicans next summer. This is being done in an effort to cut the possibilities of counterfeiting, cut the number of returned tickets and make sure all the foreign tourists who want tickets will be able to get them.

As soon as a visitor gets confirmation of his hotel room from the lodging control office he receives authorization to buy tickets to as many events as he desires. The tickets are to be waiting for him when he arrives in Mexico City.

Ramon Alatorre, head of the lodging office, said a percentage of all the various-priced tickets have been set aside for tourists.

No tourist can buy tickets unless he has a confirmed hotel reservation or made housing arrangements. Nor can he get a hotel room reserved during the games unless he agrees to buy at least one Olympic ticket a day during his stay.

All requests for hotel reservations and tickets from abroad are channeled to Alatorre's office. It's his job to guarantee that any person receiving confirmation of his reservation, and paying the required room deposits, has a room during the games.

Cassius Married Friday Night

CHICAGO (AP) — Cassius Clay, the deposed world heavyweight boxing champion, was married to Belinda Boyd, 17, in a Black Muslim ceremony Friday night.

Gene Mason, a member of Clay's camp, said the ceremony was at 6:30 p.m., CDT.

Clay's parents flew in from Atlanta but were too late to attend the ceremony. They did attend a reception, however, at Clay's South Side home, where the wedding was performed.

The bride was dressed in a floor length white dress and veil. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Boyd, attended the ceremony.

Carlton Goes Distance For 11th Victory

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Shannon and Julian Javier drove in two runs apiece as the streaking St. Louis Cardinals defeated Houston 5-3 Friday night for their seventh straight victory.

Shannon stroked a fourth inning home run—the first hit against loser Mike Cuellar. After Tim McCarver reached base on an error, Javier also homered.

Doubles by Doug Rader and Ron Brand gave the Astros a run in the fourth but St. Louis picked up two more with two out in the fifth when Alex Johnson tripled, Curt Flood singled, Orlando Cepeda walked and Shannon singled.

Houston touched winner Steve Carlton for two in the sixth when Rusty Staub and Rader singled. Bob Aspromonte doubled the runs across.

Carlton went the distance, striking out 11 for his 11th victory of the season.

Hunter and Ken Harrelson drove in two runs apiece and Casanova had a three-run homer for the Senators.

Stargell's homer, his 17th, came off Jack Fisher in the fourth inning. He became the first player ever to hit two homers over the roof in one season, a feat accomplished only 12 times.

Disputed Homer By Ward Lifts Sox To 3-1 Edge

CHICAGO (AP) — Pete Ward's disputed two-run homer in the sixth inning powered the Chicago White Sox to a 3-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Friday night in the first game of a doubleheader.

The start of the opener was delayed for more than two hours because of rain.

Ward's blast off reliever Moe Drabowsky wiped out a 1-0 Baltimore lead and led to the ejection of Oriole Manager Hank Bauer.

Reese's Pinch HR In 9th Lets Minnesota Split

NEW YORK (AP) — Rich Reese's two-run pinch-hit homer in the ninth inning gave Minnesota a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees and a split of a two-night doubleheader Friday.

The Yankees won the opener 1-0 behind Steve Barber's six-hitter, snapping a seven-game Minnesota winning streak and a three-game losing streak of their own.

Ted Uhlender led off the ninth inning of the nightcap for the Twins, singling for the sixth hit off Fred Talbot, 5-5 Reese hit for reliever Ron Kline and drove his third homer of the season into the rightfield bleachers.

The Yanks had taken a 3-2 lead in the eighth on Joe Pepitone's sacrifice fly, driving in Jake Gibbs, who singled and moved to third when Jackie Hernandez threw wildly to first on Tom Tresh's bunt attempt.

The only run in the first game came in the first inning when Horace Clarke led off with a single, went to second on Tresh's single, to third on a wild pitch and scored on Pepitone's single.

Finley Suspends Pitcher Krausse

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Pitcher Lew Krausse of the Kansas City Athletics was suspended indefinitely without pay Friday by owner Charles O. Finley and the club was notified that alcoholic drinks no longer will be served to the A's on airlines.

The owner warned the A's he won't tolerate the "shenanigans" of a few.

"Krausse has been suspended indefinitely without pay for conduct unbecoming a major league ball player," Finley announced from his Chicago office. "I will have no further comment on Krausse."

Finley added that the following bulletin, signed by him, will be posted in the A's club house at Washington:

"Effectively immediately and for the balance of the season, alcoholic drinks no longer will be served on commercial airlines to members of the Kansas City Athletics.

"The Kansas City Athletics will no longer tolerate the shenanigans of a very few individuals who obviously do not appreciate the privilege of playing in the major leagues and being treated as gentlemen. The attitude, actions and words of some of you have been deplorable.

"As members of organized baseball, you have certain responsibilities and obligations to yourself, your family, your teammates, your club and most important of all—the fans.

In Logging Industry

V-Balloon Idea Dawns

Since an army of Paul Bunyans would be needed to get logs out of some virgin timberland in western Oregon and Washington, an aerial balloon is being tried as a means of airlifting them across roadless tracts. Hovering at 500 feet, the V-balloon with a load of logs is pulled by cable to an off-loading area.

Principal advantages of the balloon, which is 162 feet long, include elimination of carving expensive roads out of timberland at costs of $30,000 per mile and reduction of damage to logs in transition from cutting areas. Yet critics in the logging game point out that the balloon costs $160,000 and has a life expectancy of only four years, and it can be used only when the weather is not turbulent. Cost and profit sheets of the one company currently using the balloon should tell the story soon.

FLYING FARMER "DUCHESS" — Mrs. Virginia Wheeler, of route one, Ashland, is shown above minutes after landing at the Jacksonville Municipal Airport from a trip to the International Flying Farmers convention in Hot Springs, Ark. Mrs. Wheeler, wife of Murrell Wheeler, was selected "Duchess" of the International Flying Farmers, in competition with 36 candidates from the United States and Canada. Mrs. Wheeler, the Illinois Flying Farmer Queen, was runner-up to a Michigan woman, who was selected as the queen of the organization. Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, and their two children attended the convention, held August 13-18. She was selected on flying ability and aeronautical knowledge, as well as participation in community activities, poise and charm.

Morgan Woman New Flying "Duchess"

HOT SPRINGS, ARK. — A farm wife from Michigan was crowned queen of the International Flying Farmer, capping the group's 22nd annual convention, that also witnessed an Ashland woman chosen duchess.

The new duchess is Mrs. Virginia Wheeler, of route one, Ashland, Ill., wife of Murrell Wheeler.

Mrs. Margaret Monte, wife of a farmer from Fairgrove, Mich., accepted the queen's crown from outgoing queen, Mrs. Ellen Jane Anderson of Arlington, Colo.

Mrs. Monte and her husband, Paul, farm 1,060 acres in navy beans, sugar beets, corn, wheat and oats. The Monteis arrived here last weekend with their four children, Dennis, 17, Randy, 15, Monte, 13, and Paula, 3, in the family plane, a Cessna 175.

Both the Monteis hold private pilot's licenses. They have been very active in local church, P.T.A. and Cub Scout work. They maintain a 1,900-foot runway on their Tuscola county farm.

The new duchess was crowned by the outgoing duchess, Mrs. Tricia Smith of Fairfax, Okla.

Mrs. Wheeler, and her husband, Murrell, farm 900 acres in corn and soybeans. They brought their two children with them to the convention in the family's Cessna 172. Linda is 15, and Steve, 11.

Both Wheelers are licensed pilots and are in the process of building a 2,300 foot landing strip on the farm. Mrs. Wheeler's activities include working with school and church groups, and heading community fund drives.

A native of Jacksonville, Ill., she attended Blackburn College in Carlinville, and received a B.S. degree in home economics from the University of Illinois in 1947.

Both Mrs. Monte and Mrs. Wheeler are 41. They will travel extensively throughout the U.S. and Canada during the coming year as official representatives of IFP.

The convention, which drew about 1,100 farmers, their wives and families, ended Friday. Some 200 light planes will take off from Memorial Airport.

Central Park Offers Grand Prix Circuit For Area Youths

By SANDY PETERSEN

Mention Central Park to any passerby, and be prepared for a, "Oh, you mean the square!" reply.

The official, yet out-of-vogue, title for the Miss Liberty-guarded plot seems inapplicable to most since a PARK is thought to contain recreational facilities. Yet it is more of a park than most people realize.

Most have witnessed the daytime sunning and lounging facilities put to use, but comparatively few ever view the nightly activities.

With the evening hours, the Jacksonville square takes on new meaning.

Bench users are replaced by Jacksonville area youths who are nightly confronted with seemingly boring alternatives when, "where do we go tonight?" arises.

Converted Nightly

No longer viewed as the center of commerce, the square becomes a quarter-mile plus cement grand prix circuit, which provides the answer to, "where do we go," for increasing numbers.

The curves may not be banked, and there is no prize money, but it serves the purpose, none the less. And, unlike Lake Jacksonville, where "empties" outnumber trees three-to-one, it is perfectly legal.

Off To The Races
The nightly racing card begins with sparsely attended preliminaries shortly before dusk, and lasts until the gas budget can't take it any more, or dizziness results. Many spectators remain well into the early morning hours.

One great attraction is that the participants can be drivers AND spectators. After taking a couple of laps around the course, drivers have the option of continuing their circling, or taking up positions along the spacious 'infield area'—see Miss Liberty's domain.

Cycle enduros sporadically provide an added attraction; and more noise.

Most race entries, of which male carloads outnumber idle female shipments four-to-one, have at least one or two co-pilots. Autos containing mixed groups, and solo drivers are rare.

Main Objective
Behind this activity, youth's ultimate motive is to meet with members of the opposite sex. Oftentimes this requires comical maneuvering. Once a prospective carload of conversationalists is spotted, plans are put into action.

But invariably, attracted partners find themselves on opposite sides of the square.

First speeding up, attempting to overtake the other car, and later slowing—waiting to be overtaken—jockeying drivers discover that such efforts almost always fruitlessly coincide.

Inter-car, intransigent conversations are possible, yet "pit-stops" must be made to achieve the main objective.

The frustrating problems of "who will overtake whom," and once aligned, "do we want to waste our time with them?," severely dent the gas gauge before any progress is made, however.

Torments later, one car generally stops. There is no guarantee that the other car will stop, but in most cases, one or two more circlings yield both cars occupying adjacent parking spaces along the infield.

Little Success
Once stopped, drivers and passengers soon find that little was gained through their frustrating antics.

As one "square regular" confided, "All we really want to do is talk. It seldom results in more than a brief gab session. The only problem is that most of the . . . (girls) . . . you run into aren't worth talking to in the first place."

Break From Routine
Tired of continual left turns, drivers often take shoulder-relaxing spins down any of the track's eight tributaries. Tell-tale tire marks indicate S. Main and W. State handle the bulk of such jaunts.

Most fuel stops are made at an all-night station on N. Main, whose attendants often gas the same cars several times a night: sending them back into the race.

Although this activity might appear the most boring of alternatives presented local youth, "Not So," claims our square racing veteran.

Asked why he and his companions do not spend an evening at someone's home, or seek more organized activities offered, he replied: "I don't know. We've never tried much stuff like that."

"Park dances hurt (disliked), and anyway, this is where the life is."

"You got any better ideas?" he asked.
